Dodgers In 4-0 Win Over Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Big Don Drysdale, riding his September comeback, hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs today in the first game of a doubleheader.

The triumph boosted the Dodgers' National League lead to 2½ games over the Pittsburgh Pirates who play at Atlanta tonight.

The Dodgers gave Drysdale all the support he needed in the early innings. They scored a run in the second when Dick Schofield singled, stole second, took third on a wild pitch and scored on a fielder's choice.

Los Angeles wrapped it up with three runs in the third. A single by Tommie Davis, a double by Wes Parker and run-scoring singles by Schofield and Drysdale. Tommie Davis drew an intentional walk in the first inning and then rapped out three straight singles.

Game Delayed

Tonight's Drake-Vallejo high school football game at Vallejo has been postponed until tomorrow, 2 p.m., it was announced this afternoon by Vallejo High officials. They gave no reason for the postponement other than to say, "We've had some problems here that make it impossible to play tonight."

Family Wires Savings To Speed Youth Home

Mrs. Ernest Mereck of 100 Chamberlain Lane, Novato, cabled $300 to London yesterday —so her son, Jeffrey, who has toured 30,000 miles of Africa by jeep, can come home to Marin.

The money, she said, was saved by Jeffrey from that he received for repairing a fleet of trucks owned by the Agency for International Development in Africa.

The Mareck family have followed Jeffrey's trip through frequent letters and photographs—and souvenirs like a huge leopard skin now nailed up in their hillside home.

"We weren't really worried about him," said his father, vice principal of Hill Junior High School. "He's a man, not a boy. Besides, by the time we'd get the letters the danger was already passed."

They expect their son home any time now. "He'll just bang on the door one night, then we'll know he's home," said Mrs. Mareck. "When he came home from Alaska, complete with a huge red beard, he gave us no advance warning either."

Jeffrey graduated from Novato High School in 1960, attended Santa Rosa Junior College, then worked for the U.S. Geological Survey on the Yukon River in Alaska.

While in Berlin a few weeks ago he visited his sister, Michelle, study body president of Novato High School in 1957. She's now married, and working with the American Living Theater touring Europe.

Gromyko Says 'Get Out' In Retort To Goldberg

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union replied today to the latest U.S. Viet Nam peace proposals by demanding the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. forces as the only way to peace.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told the U.N. General Assembly in a major policy declaration "there are still no signs testifying to the seriousness of the intention of Washington to seek a settlement" of the Viet Nam war.

He dismissed the latest proposals of U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg as part of a "so-called peace offensive" and said each new peace move was followed by "a further escalation of aggressive actions."

"Where is the solution of the Viet Nam problem to be found?" Gromyko asked.

The answer, he said, "is simple and logical: unconditional cessation of the bombing of the territory of the Democratic Republic of Viet Nam, withdrawal of all armed forces of the United States and their allies from South Viet Nam, removal of foreign armaments, the granting to the Vietnamese people of a chance to settle their internal problems themselves."

"The aggressor has come to Viet Nam; the aggressor should

Adventurer Makes London —With Jeep

LONDON (AP)—A 23-year-old Californian has shown up in London after riding a battered jeep 30,000 miles from West Africa, and he thinks he was a chump to do it.

"Every time I got lost in the jungle, stuck in the mud or stranded in the desert I knew I was crazy," said Jeffrey Mareck.

"No, sir, I wouldn't do it again."

Mareck, from Novato, Calif., drove through more than 20 countries. He was lost in a sea of grass in Angola . . . stranded with a broken axle in the Sudan desert . . . shot at by bandits on the Ethiopian border . . . pulled from a swamp by a team of bulls in Zambia.

It all happened to the youngster who was rejected by the Peace Corps.

Mareck, a lean and cheerful engineer, had completed Peace Corps training in the United States when a doctor ruled that he couldn't go into the field.

Mareck set out to prove the doctor wrong. Four months later he presented himself to Peace Corps officials in Sierra Leone in West Africa, having traveled by sea via England at his own expense.

It was a fait accompli, and Mareck was taken on as a volunteer.

For more than two years he worked on rural development of projects, building roads and bridges and putting in water supplies for remote villages.

Then the great plan was born.

The first thing he did was buy a jeep he'd been using in his

Bolinas Lagoon Project May Cost $2.2 Million

Planners Sure Area Will Gain In Value

By FRANK FARRARA

Mill Valley architect Norman Gilroy told Bolinas Harbor District commissioners last night that development of Bolinas Lagoon as proposed in his master plan would cost the district $2.2 million.

At a public hearing on the plan at the Stinson Beach Community Center, he estimated the proposed development would raise assessed valuation in the district about $35 million and would bring in enough revenue to support a $2 million loan.

Gilroy emphasized that the costs would be spread out over eight to 10 years. The major cost would be for dredging, estimated at $1,023,000.

Under his concept, there would be extensive dredging to enlarge the water area from about 200 to 450 acres.

OTHER COSTS

Other costs listed by Gilroy were: rip-rap to stabilize banks, $148,000, roads, $95,000, utilities, $125,000, landscaping and lighting $100,000, construction of a bridge to an enlarged island in the lagoon, $125,000, construction of commercial slips, $180,000, land acquisition, $85,000, planning, engineering and model studies, $200,000 and administration building and public facilities $125,000. The precise total of the project was estimated at $2,206,000.

"These are total costs," he explained, "not all here and now." The harbor district would create the environment and put in some facilities, and private enterprise would develop the rest, he said.

LAGOON INCOME

He estimates lagoon development would bring about $584,000 a year in income and would require expenditure of about $173,000 a year for staff operation, and maintenance.

If the Army Corps of Engineers would participate in the dredging on a 50-50 basis, it would cut a half million dollars from the district costs, he noted.

Gilroy described his work "as a 30 to 50 year master plan" that would be developed in phases.

Basic problem at the lagoon is siltation, which threatens to turn it "into a meadow" in time, he said.

Under his plan, which would "enlarge the water pattern," the flushing action would be increased to overcome the siltation problem, he said.

FILL MOVING

Dredging would bring up about 2.5 million cubic yards of mud which would be re-located, some to create new islands and some to expand the existing island.

The island, to be expanded to 142 acres, is the central feature of the plan. It would have berths for 1,000 boats, a beach park, swimming area, restaurants, hotel, heliport and harbor offices, marine shopping mall, boat sales, sport fishing, and boat rental facilities.

There would be a toll bridge connecting the island with the east shore. Gilroy estimated that a charge of 50 cents a car could bring about $91,000 a year in revenue.

Under the plan the north end of the lagoon would be preserved

$1.60 Wage Bill Signed By Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today a bill boosting the national minimum wage to $1.60 an hour and bringing 8 million more people under its coverage.

"This will bring a larger piece of this country's prosperity and a larger share of personal dignity to millions of our workers, their wives, and their children, and to me, frankly, that's what being president is all about," Johnson said.

The present $1.25 an hour minimum will go up in stages to $1.60 by 1968 under the new law.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Labor Committee, whose committee members trimmed away Thursday some of his power to bottle up legislation, was present.

Johnson mentioned Powell by name among several others in passing around thanks for helping to get the minimum wage measure enacted.

Johnson recalled that Thomas Jefferson had called the presidency "a splendid misery" and said that he agreed "but today is one of those splendid days."

The President said he was much pleased that farm workers were being brought into the minimum wage program for the first time and that it would apply to charwomen, hotel and motel and laundry workers and the girls who supply the coffee to the bus drivers before they go off to work in the morning.

"It will help minority groups in the face of prejudices that exist," Johnson said.

"The straight fact", he said, "is that a fair minimum wage doesn't hurt business in any way. Decent employers want to treat their employes decently."

AFL-CIO President George Meany called the new law the biggest improvement in history and said it would benefit not only millions of low-paid workers but businessmen who depend on consumer purchasing power.

Grandmother Lost In Fairfax Hills?

JACKQUELINE PARIS
Vanishes during search

A 63-year-old grandmother was missing today at Fairfax after mysteriously disappearing from the home of her son where she had been babysitting.

Fairfax police were making plans to resume a search of fire trails and hills to the west of the city for Jackqueline Paris who has not been seen since she reportedly allowed the children in her care to wander off. A search last night failed to find a trace of her.

Mrs. Paris, who arrived in Fairfax from France in June, yesterday volunteered to baby sit with the three children of her son Jacques Guiraut, at 261 Marinda Drive.

When the Guirauts returned at 5:30 p.m. they found no trace of the children, Collete, 7, Nichole, 6, and Janine, 4. They had wandered off.

Everyone, including the grandmother and her husband, Pierre Paris, began to look for the children. Two were found almost immediately.

But when searchers looked around for Mrs. Paris, she was nowhere to be seen.

Police Patrolman Mel Dollahite said today: "Her husband told her off about the children and she may have been upset."

He said the couple decided to search for the children at the rear of the house. The husband went one way around, she the other.

A police tracker dog was brought in last night. It picked up the scent but lost it at dusk.

The missing woman's daughter-in-law, Joann Guiraut, said today: "It is quite likely she was concerned over letting the children wander off. There was no reason to be; they were quite safe."

When last seen, gray-haired Mrs. Paris was wearing a pink dress and white sweater and carried a purse. She is 5 feet one inch tall and weighs 145 pounds. She speaks English with a French accent.

B-52s Return North Of Vietnamese Border

SAIGON (UPI) —Giant U.S. Air Force B-52 bombers have struck targets in Communist North Viet Nam three times this week, U.S. military spokesmen disclosed today. It was the first time in six months they had been used north of the 17th parallel.

Spokesmen said that in a raid last night the eight-jet Stratofortresses hit inside and north of the demilitarized zone (DMZ). It was the first time they had flown north since they temporarily closed the Mu Gia Pass, gateway to the Ho Chi Minh trail, earlier this year.

The disclosure came about the same time South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Tran Van Do declared that intensified bombing raids might be "the only way" to force the North Vietnamese to negotiate an end to the war.

Tran Van Do told UPI, "we can expect no favorable answer" from Hanoi to the latest U.S. peace proposals put forward at the United Nations Thursday by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg.

Two U.S. Air Force "dragon ships," which are capable of firing 6,000 rounds a minute, teamed up today with South Vietnamese ground forces to maul some 1,200 Viet Cong troops who tried to overrun a government command post.

A government spokesman said more than 150 Communists were killed and about 100 others killed or wounded and dragged away in the abortive Red assault against the South Vietnamese 41st Regiment 277 miles north of Saigon.

U.S. military spokesmen meanwhile disclosed today that a series of mine explosions touched off by accident around a base camp of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division killed seven American soldiers and wounded 14.

The chain reaction blasts occurred yesterday in a mine field outside an enclave of the "Big Red One" near Phuc Vinh, about 35 miles north of Saigon.

Wallace Faces Integration Court Session

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace faced a contempt of court showdown for the second time in his turbulent career today as Negroes sought to speed up school integration in Alabama.

Attorneys for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People filed a motion in federal court charging Wallace with violating a two-year-old court order.

They asked the three-judge court to hold the segregationist governor in civil contempt — which could bring an indefinite jail sentence — or, in the alternative, to order total statewide desegregation.

The NAACP motion contended the governor has disregarded an injunction handed down by the three-judge court July 13, 1964, prohibiting him from:

"Interfering with, preventing or obstructing by any means the elimination of racial discrimination by local school officials."

Failing to use his authority as governor to "promote and encourage" desegregation.

Since that time, the petition charged, Wallace — whose wife, Lurleen, is running for governor to succeed him — has committed repeated acts "with the sole purpose and effect of "preventing and discouraging school integration.

Among them, it said, was the role he played in getting the Legislature to enact a state law prohibiting city and county school boards from agreeing to comply with integration guidelines laid down by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

12-Month Term Given Slav For One-Party Protest

ZADAR, Yugoslavia (AP) — A Yugoslav court today sentenced Mihajlo Mihajlov, defiant foe of single- party communism, to 12 months in prison.

The soft-spoken, 32-year-old former university lecturer was convicted of spreading false information.

He had pleaded innocent and told the court yesterday:

"I deeply believe that what I stated in my writings is the truth. I cannot consider socialism a society in which only 6 to 7 per cent have all rights and the others none."

Mihajlov could have been sentenced to two years and five months in prison, including a five-month sentence against him which was suspended last year.

The court found Mihajlov guilty on one count of the indictment, spreading of false information aimed at inciting displeasure and provoking dissatisfaction among the population. For that it sentenced him to nine months. To this the court added the earlier five-month sentence.

Poll Says War Hurting LBJ Public Image

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson is in trouble with the American voter because of the war in Viet Nam, says a survey prepared for the American Broadcasting Co.

The same sampling of opinion says those questioned think President John F. Kennedy would have done better.

However, the poll says the majority reject former Sen. Barry Goldwater's views and also want no part of "get out of Viet Nam" policies suggested by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore.

Full results of the survey, released today, will be broadcast tomorrow as "ABC Scope: The Viet Nam War."

John F. Kraft, Inc., which took the poll, concludes that: "In sum, the American people don't like the war in Viet Nam, and the fact that it is still going on is laid at the President's doorstep. But, because there seem to be no alternatives, in frustration, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara get saddled with the blame."

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the poll said, "is, if anything, in worse shape than President Johnson." Twice as many people think he's doing a bad job than think he's doing a good one, the poll said.

When the 1,521 persons interviewed — the Kraft organization said it was a highly scientific sampling — were asked what they considered the No. 1 problem facing the nation, the overwhelming answer was: "Viet Nam."

Only 44 per cent said "various economic problems" were worrying the sample group and only 40 per cent said they were stirred by racial troubles.

Clergymen Clash Over Bar Stand On Abortion

ANAHEIM (AP) — The State Bar. Assn.'s limited endorsement of abortion has caused a clash between a Roman Catholic cardinal and an Episcopal bishop.

James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles called abortion "tantamount to murder in the general acceptance of the term."

James A. Pike, auxiliary bishop of the California diocese, said the cardinal's remarks are inflammatory.

Delegates to the convention of California lawyers endorsed a bill Monday permitting therapeutic abortions in cases involving rape, incest and threatened malformation of the child. Tuesday, the cardinal called the lawyers' action scandalous and deplorable.

In a speech to the convention yesterday, Bishop Pike said he believes such Roman Catholic authorities as St. Thomas Aquinas and Popes Innocent III and Gregory XIV tend to contradict the cardinal's view of abortion.

Cardinal McIntyre said the bill—killed in the Assembly last year—is "further evidence of increasing disrespect and irreverence for basic law and divine moral principles." If enacted, he said, "it would open the door widely for the general practice of taking innocent human life."

Said Bishop Pike: "Even if the cardinal, rather than St. Thomas Aquinas, is right in regarding such early abortion as the taking of human life, there are other situations in which for the real or supposed greater good we take human life.

"The law should respect the conscience of...physicians who have...been seeking, in the light of their Hippocratic oath, to meet the legitimate needs of parents threatened with the birth of malformed children for reasons which are no fault of their own."

Bishop Pike, 53, a former Roman Catholic, practiced law before being ordained. He recently resigned as Bishop of California to become a staff member of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara.

Cardinal McIntyre, 80, came to Los Angeles in 1948.

The first airplane flight from a ship was made by Lt. Eugene Ely, USN, who took off from the deck of the cruiser Birmingham in a Curtiss Nov. 14, 1910.

Expansion Plans Told By Synanon

Synanon House at Marshall wants to add 21 acres to its ground area and build a two-story steel and wood building for a dormitory and for social functions.

Ronald Silva, Director of facilities and services at Synanon House, told the county planning department that Synanon originally acquired 42 acres of the old Marconi property, which consisted of 63 acres. Synanon now wants to acquire the remaining 21 acres so that educational facilities can be expanded and more space provided between buildings.

"We are not looking for any radical changes in population," Silva said. He said the present population at Synanon is about 100, and the original use permit allows up to 200 residents.

"It will be many, many years before we reach 200," he said.

As for the two-story building for dormitory and social functions, "We want to develop a multi-use building and add dormitory space to thin out the present occupancies," Silva reported.

viewing of wildlife. "Thirty-eight per cent of the area is shown for the wildlife refuge," Gilroy said. "The intent of the plan is to keep as large an area of the perimeter as open as possible."

Gilroy said that first phase development could include up to 390 boat slips. "The whole plan is based on the concept that it can grow with the growth of the region, but we have set ceilings."

The plan also provides for launching ramps and visitor facilities along the east shore of the lagoon, a marina, boat and visitor facilities at the south end.

Along the west shore there would be planned residential areas and a community shopping center. East of Shoreline Highway would be a visitor commercial recreation area and a lagoon for model boats.

There was some comment about the fact that the proposed island development would lie atop the San Andreas fault.

Gilroy said low buildings, properly constructed, would meet the problem. "They also would be protected from tidal wave at that location," he said.

He said the lower islands to be developed would be only a few feet above the water but the main island would be 10 to 12 feet above the water, with a rising slope.

The harbor district board will have its third hearing on the plan at the Civic Center Oct. 13 at 8 p.m., and its regular meeting Oct. 27.

Hugh Dougherty announced that the Stinson Beach Progressive Club will hold a critique of the plan Oct. 5 at 8 p.m. at the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Service Station's Money Bag Stolen

A Bank of Marin money bag, containing $200 in cash and about $175 in checks, was stolen Wednesday from the Signal Service Station at Third and Irwin streets, San Rafael.

Raymond D. Hook and Charles Rossi, partners in the station, were waiting on customers at the time. Hook told police he had put the money bag on the office counter to get change for the cash register, then forgot to return it to the safe when customers began arriving.

Blasting Delayed

Blasting of the rock at Dead Man's curve on Lucas Valley Road has been postponed until Monday, the county public works department announced. The blasting, which will require closure of the road for about four hours, was to take place today.

Peace Corps job. With 70,000 as a wildlife preserve, and would include an observatory for the miles already clocked, Mareck got it at auction for $1,240, built a wooden body on the back and fitted an 82-gallon gas tank.

May 5, 1965 he was on his way with $1,800 in savings.

In Portuguese Angola South African authorities declined to give him a visa. He decided to drive right across Angola into Zambia.

For 500 miles through wet, shifting sand —it was the rainy season —Mareck drove in low gear dreading a breakdown.

Later he was misdirected by a villager into a sea of grass that turned into a swamp after 150 miles.

The Portuguese — "I've never met friendlier or more helpful people," Mareck said—ordered a military escort to get him nearer the Zambian border.

"Lions roared all night, and I slept with a machete, my only weapon, across my chest. We weren't attacked, but I wasn't exactly happy."

The transmission kicked out in Tanzania but Mareck managed to replace it for $28. He drove on north, through Kenya and into Somalia where he ran into open warfare.

And there was mud:

"One day I spent 12 hours winching the truck from thorn tree to thorn tree and found that I'd only covered three miles. I was fired on by guerrillas from all sides—they call them bandits there — but they were bad shots."

Then the jeep crossed Ethiopia into Egypt and hit the first paved road Mareck had encountered for 2,000 miles. "It was sheer heaven," the Californian said.

"I just drove straight along the road to Cairo."

He then proceeded to Syria, Iraq, Turkey and Europe, finally ferrying to England.

"What I'd like to do now is to ship home with my old jeep," he said. "But I haven't got the money. I need about $450 to do it.

"That's life, I suppose."

Diefenbaker Draws Blame In Sex Scandal

OTTAWA (AP) — A judical investigator reported today that John G. Diefenbaker as prime minister resolved doubt in a case of national security in favor of one of his colleagues instead of in favor of the country.

The report, by Justice Wishart Spence in the Gerda Munsinger sex-and-security affair, criticized Diefenbaker on every count.

Diefenbaker is leader of the Conservative party, in opposition to the liberal government.

Justice Spence said Diefenbaker should have removed Pierre Sevigny as associate defense minister when he learned five years ago about Sevigny's relationship with Mrs. Munsinger. He added that Diefenbaker should have consulted the Cabinet about the case and have informed Defense Minister Douglas Harkness.

Officer Snatches Youth On Bridge

A 19-year-old Corte Madera youth reportedly made a bid for death on the Golden Gate Bridge early yesterday, but failed.

Toll Sgt. Jack Murray, on duty at 3:15 a.m., saw James Charles Edwin leap over the closed pedestrian turnstile gate "like a gazelle" and dash up the walkway to the bridge railing.

Murry jumped into a tow truck and ran after the young merchant seaman. He pulled Erwin off the span's outside rail as the youth prepared to jump, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Erwin, who lives at 45 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Apt. 211, Corte Madera, was taken to San Francisco General Hospital for observation. He reportedly told officers: "I muffed everything, but I'll make it next time."

LBJ, State Chiefs Talk Of War Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania came out of a hold-the-line-on-spending conference with President Johnson today saying Johnson is talking of Vietnamese expenditures rising at least $10 billion "over this present year."

Asked whether he got the impression spending on the war in Southeast Asia might go up at least $10 billion, the Pennsylvania Republican replied: "Yes. He talked in terms of that. Yes."

Johnson conferred with Scranton and seven other governors in what the President said was the first of a series of meetings to outline his program to try to combat inflation by holding down on government spending and investments, with emphasis on the impact on state programs.

Taxes apparently did not come up. But Scranton said that as he sees things, with the prospective expansion of Vietnamese costs, "a rise in taxes in the next Congress is pretty clear."

The President said that the governors were asked for no commitments and gave none. He said that he told them that "principally they will be getting less funds than they normally could be expecting in grants-in-aid to the states."

leave," he said.

Gromyko repeated the Soviet pledge to render all necessary assistance to the Viet Nam Communists.

On other issues, Gromyko submitted three draft resolutions for assembly consideration backing up his attack on U.S. policy.

They were:

A resolution requesting all states to refrain from all actions which would hamper agreement on nonproliferation of nuclear weapons until a treaty on that subject is concluded.

A resolution calling for condemnation of all forms of intervention in the domestic affairs of states, and warning states which undertake armed intervention in the domestic affairs of states that they must accept responsibility for the consequences.

A resolution requesting states possessing military bases in Asia, Africa and Latin America to disband them at once "and not establish them in the future."

Gromyko and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk dined together and discussed East-West issues for three hours at Rusk's New York hotel suite last night. Gromyko invited Rusk to dinner at the Soviet delegation headquarters tomorrow night to continue the talks.

Neither side would say what came up at the meeting, the first between the U.S. and Soviet foreign affairs chiefs since a year ago. But Viet Nam and disarmament presumably were high on the list.

Gromyko said the atmosphere was "normal." A U.S. spokesman said "it wasn't unfriendly" and the talks were "useful."

Viet Strength

LONDON (AP) — A British research institute says South Viet Nam, which officially claims 317,000 regular soldiers, actually has a fighting force of 90,000 men. The Institute for Strategic Studies in its annual estimate of world military power said today that many units of South Viet Nam's army are "known to be below their establishment figures."

Larkspur Board Hears Of Load For Teachers

The average teaching load in the Larkspur School District is 26 pupils per teacher, the Larkspur School District board learned last night.

District enrollment this year totals 1,761 pupils, 60 more than last year.

A report on the district's insurance coverage noted that all district facilities are covered at 92 per cent of current replacement costs.

The board voted to join Associated Public School Systems, a research and information organization, for $300 a year, and approved a student teaching agreement with San Francisco State College.

San Rafael Man To Be Questioned

Frank Hubbell, 19-year-old San Rafael man accused of murdering his grandmother in Oakland last week, was to be questioned today in connection with the Feb. 1 bludgeon saying of Mrs. Marjorie S. Rudolph in her San Rafael home.

Police Inspector Thomas Cheetham, assigned to the Rudolph murder, went to Oakland this morning to interview Hubbell, an AWOL soldier, and to discuss with Oakland police similarities in the two killings which might yield clues.

Hubbell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hubbell, live at 550 Tarragon Drive, San Rafael, only a few blocks from the scene of Mrs. Rudolph's murder.

Hubbell, a former student at College of Marin, and a companion, Dale York, 18, of Portland, Ore., were arrested in Oregon Sunday and charged with the strangulation killing of Hubbell's grandmother, Maren Stevens, 76.

Illness Delays Extortion Case

Preliminary hearing for Mrs. Willie Marie Fritz, 46, and Henry Jacob Soderlind, both charged in a $160,000 extortion case, was continued from yesterday until Oct. 20 in Marin Municipal Court.

Reason was that the main prosecution witness Joseph M. Walker, owner of Walker-Built Homes, Inc., Berkeley, was admitted yesterday to University of California Medical Center in San Francisco for treatment of a stomach disorder.

Mrs. Fritz, of 223 Redwood Drive, Ross, is charged with three felony counts of extortion by threatening exposure of intimacies with Walker. Soderlind, 55, of 85 Poplar Avenue, Ross is jointly charged with her on one count of attempting extortion.

$1 Profit Comes From Burglars

A barber shop gained $1 in loot from burglars, sheriff's officers said today.

Deputies said the switch occured when the intruders of College Avenue Barber Shop, 881 College Avenue, Kentfield, apparently lost three $1 bills from their pockets beneath their point of entry, an unlocked side window.

The burglars ransacked the shop office, obtained about $2 in pennies from a drawer, and left via a rear door, according to Gottlieb James Lassle, owner.

Lassle said the bills, not taken from his shop, were in his possession today if the owners wish to claim them.

Fall's Here, But Summer Lingers

An expected visitor arrived on time in Marin County today but where were the people to provide the welcome? Asleep as usual.

That is what most people were doing at 3:43 a.m. — the arrival time of autumn.

Elsewhere in the world, the sun crossed the equator making day and nights most nearly equal — a thing it does twice a year to provide the start of the seasons.

From now on, trees in Marin County can be reasonably expected to get a shade browner, the daylight a little shorter, the skies more cloudy.

As for the immediate weather prospects? The visitor hasn't been here long enough to make an impression so fair skies will remain for the time being.

Aid Group Named For Lagunitas

The Lagunitas School District citizens advisory committee last night formed a steering committee to aid the district in planning facilities to be included in a new school if voters approve a $240,000 bond issue and $300,000 state loan for it in November.

The district board plans to purchase a school site adjacent to the present school off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Members of the steering committe are Glen E. Twitchell of Lagunitas, chairman; Mrs. Kenneth W. Howard of Lagunitas; Mrs. Charline Sutton of Lagunitas; Dr. Tom Groody, San Geronimo, and Robert E. McVey, Forest Knolls. The steering committe will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the school.

SCIENCE FOR GIRLS—This is the new arts and science building which will be dedicated at the Katharine Branson School, Ross, at 2 p.m. Oct. 21. It has been built, states Nadine B. College Travel Film Shows An Empty Facade Of China

By ROBERT M. STREBEIGH

If American tourists were allowed by their government and that of the Chinese to visit China, what would they learn of the daily life of the people, what would they be permitted to see?

Only what the Chinese government wished them to see, according to a color film and accompanying lecture presented last night at College of Marin by a New Zealand woman tourist, who spent four weeks there in the summer of 1965.

SELL-OUT CROWD

A sell-out crowd of 300 packed Olney Hall for what had been billed as Bathie Stuart's "amazing and penetrating view of the new Red China."

What was presented was a montage of splendid scenery, ancient pagodas and palaces, gardens and barnyards, street scenes and shots of crowds.

It soon became evident that her officially guided tour was carefully planned by the Chinese to creat a preconceived impression of China and make friends for the nation.

In travelling some 8,000 miles and visiting six cities, Miss Stuart saw only four men in uniform.

OUTSIDE VIEW

She mentioned the schools and hospitals that have been built but there were no interior shots to indicate the quality of equipment or care, and her audience was left with exterior views of imposing structures.

She spoke often of the people's being well fed and "seeming happy enough," and it was true that the crowds looked on more sullen and preoccupied than New Yorkers going about their business on Manhattan's streets. The people were immaculately , if simply dressed.

There were occasional shots of propaganda posters, which Miss Stuart said, "The people don't seem to pay much attention to."

There was a scene taken from her hotel window, showing large numbers of young men and women doing exercises at 5 a.m. as commanded by their government, but no indication of how welcome this was to the people.

LITTLE DETAIL

Miss Stuart spoke of factories 3,000 of them in Shanghai, but showed no picture of anything an American would consider a factory. Essentially they were craft shops, turning out equisite carved ivory, decorated procelain, and intricately embroidered silks.

There was much spectacle and little detail. There were pictures of huge proletarian extravaganzas combining hundreds of dancers, acrobats and actors, backed by massed choruses, and of fat geese and hogs in communes and fat goldfish in a pond. There were pictures of broad boulevards empty of automobiles but thronged with bicycles, pedestrians and buses.

BEST OF PAST

The best of what the Chinese permitted Miss Stuart to see were the art and architecture of China's past. These evidently are all that a tourist could ask, enough to make China "the in-place for Australians to travel," according to Miss Stuart.

Miss Stuart's comment on one huge temple in Peking, whose interior was not shown, best describes her film: "There is nothing inside except the magnificence that is all around you when you go inside."

Three R School Vandalized, But Nothing Missing

Burglars Wednesday night entered the Three R Schools, 3833 Redwood Highway, Santa Venetia, ransacking the office and causing extensive damage, sherriff's officers said today.

Deputies said entry was apparently by "slipping" a front door lock with a thin instrument. A school official, George Moissant, said he arrived at 5:30 a.m. today and discovered office papers strewn about the building, an American flag ripped and thrown to the floor, and a gallon of duplicator ink spilled over desks, chairs, and floor. Nothing was missing, however.

Richard E. Lucier, 378 Lowell Avenue, Homestead Valley, told officers his home was entered by breaking a door panel. He said loot totaled about $1,000 worth of clothing, a travel bag, and a quart of liquor.

20,000 Troops Sent To Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense sources report more than 20,000 fresh troops were shipped to Viet Nam this month to relieve Army combat veterans.

This was a new high and officials say the monthly replacement totals will continue to grow as the Army strives to maintain a 12-month tour of duty for combat troops.

The influx of replacements reflects the military buildup that saw the number of Army men in Viet Nam jump from 51,000 in June 1965 to 118,000 in September of that year. There now are about 190,000 Army troops in Viet Nam.

New Science Building For Girls School

To cope with increasing interest in science by women students, the Katharine Branson School has built a new arts and science building which will be dedicated on the Ross campus Oct. 21.

The two-story building has three science laboratories with the latest in modern equipment and five seminar-type classrooms, each of which is set up for flexible use of audio-visual teaching techniques.

According to headmaster H. Leonard Richardson, funds for this building—the first in a new academic complex—were raised by alumnae, parents and friends of the school. Architect Roger F. Hooper of Ross was the designer.

The dedication, scheduled for 2 p.m., will mark completion of the first phase of the school's long-range building and development program.

Due to give the keynote address is Francis Keppel, chairman of General Learning Corp. and former U.S. commissioner of education.

Keppel also was formerly dean of the Graduate School of Education at Harvard University, and more recently U.S. assistant secretary of health, welfare and education.

He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and author of "The Necessary Revolution in American Education."

President of the Mill Valley Volunteer Firemen is James Vice.

McCone Would Take U.C. Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John McCone, the former Central Intelligence Agency chief who lead the commission investigating the 1965 Watts riots, has been mentioned by Republicans for a new job: probing the University of California.

McCone said yesterday he would take the job if the inquiry is nonpolitical, under the Board of Regents, and preserves principles of academic freedom.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Ronald Reagan has said he would like McCone to take the assignment. Reagan has criticized the university administration and Gov. Brown.

13 Crime Bosses Arrested In Raid

NEW YORK (AP) — A State Supreme Court justice today held 13 Cosa Nostra bosses in a total of $1.3-million bail after their arrest yesterday in what was described as the biggest raid involving crime syndicate figures since the 1957 Apalachin conference.

Bail was set at $100,000 each for the 13, all listed as prominent members of the Cosa Nostra's national crime network by underworld informer Joseph Valachi.

Justice Joseph M. Conroy said the men were being held as material witnesses in the investigation of "major crimes" in Queens County. The group was remanded to civil jail when they were unable to post bond.

Chief Inspector Sanford Garelik, who directed the roundup yesterday, called it the most important since the gangland conference at Apalachin, N.Y., in 1957 was broken up by state police. Sixty top hoodlums and their friends were arrested then.

The raid yesterday came as the group was eating in a basement dining room at La Stella restaurant in Forest Hills, Queens. The community, about 20 minutes from Manhattan by car, is known for its comfortable apartment houses and tennis stadium, home of the national singles championships.

Garelik said none of the Mafiosi attending the "little Apalachin" meeting carried less than $600 in cash in his pockets. He described them to newsmen as "elegantly dressed" and wearing "expensive jewelry."

Among those charged with "consorting with known criminals" were: Thomas (Tommy Ryan) Eboli, once barred as a fight manager after punching a referee, and now top man in the family of imprisoned Brooklyn leader Vito Genovese, considered the syndicate's "boss of bosses."

Michael Miranda, a guest at the Apalachin meeting, and underboss of a New York Cosa Nostra family.

Carlos Marcello of New Orleans, described in Senate testimony as the Mafia's Southern chieftain and a onetime partner of Frank Costello.

Santo Trafficante, a Cosa Nostra bigshot in Florida and former head of rackets in pre-Castro Cuba.

Others arrested were Don Alongi, Aniello Della Croce of California, Frank Gagliano of New Orleans, Anthony Corallo of Louisiana and California, Joseph Marcello of Texas, brother of Carlos, and Joseph Gallo of New York. He is not connected with the Gallo brothers of Brooklyn.

Detectives said the purpose of the raid was to keep track of how the men relate to each other in importance within the underworld hierarchy.

Queens District Attorney Nat H. Hentel said he planned to subpoena the 13 to appear at a special grand jury session investigating the meeting.

Hoover Describes The FBI 'Type' —They Must Sell

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says he doesn't want "any of the beatniks with long sideburns and beards" working for him. Nor does he want "collar ad" types.

Instead, Hoover told the House Appropriations Committee in testimony released yesterday, he seeks as agents "men who are clean cut, mature and who will measure up to the image which I think the American people feel an FBI man should be."

Hoover said personal appearance is important because agents are "really salesmen."

"They interview the presidents of banks, the chairmen of the boards of large corporations, longshoremen and laborers," he said. "They have to sell themselves to them to get their confidence to obtain the information that they need."

Bayside Acres Annexation Costs Listed

The Bayside Acres Homeowners Assn. last night learned that annexation to San Rafael would cost each homeowner about $25 per year.

This information was included in a report from the San Rafael Finance Department, which compiled an average assessed valuation in the area and determined the average tax load from it.

The association concerned with fire protection, has a committee studying various aspects of annexation, according to president Wallace B. Curtis Jr., and it will report at the next meeting in January. Another committee due to report then is studying the feasibility of including Bayside Acres in a county services district to afford better fire protection.

Such a district would mean that Bayside Acres area would support a county fire station and truck in its midst, said Curtis, rather than depending on a county station in Santa Venetia as it does now.

Asst. County Fire Chief Richard D. Pedroli spoke to the association on means of making the homes in the area more fireproof, and Nelson Fire Equipment Co. demonstrated a fire extinguisher.

The association decided to meet three times a year. The date for the January meeting has not yet been set.

seniority plus effectiveness equals Senator Jack McCARTHY

Seniority is a near necessity to be most successful in the State Senate. Add to this—ability, persuasion and determination and you have a man who gets things done. Jack McCarthy is that type of Senator. His broad record of accomplishments are a testimonial to his effectiveness. When re-elected in November, he will be fourth in seniority. A recognized leader of the Senate, he will not only represent his district (Marin, Napa and Solano) well but be the North's best defense against Southern California numerical domination.

Pacific Telephone On The Job 24 Hours Every Day

THE VAULT — Norman O'Keeffe of San Rafael, chief equipment man for Pacific Telephone's Marin County area, inspects the cable vault in the depths of the Pacific Telephone central office at 1 H Street, San Rafael. The cables carry countless thousands of wires. Each single pair within each cable can be traced back to a home or business served.

Marinites Log More Than 400,000 Calls Daily

It all starts with a pair of wires and ends with a pair of wires.

But there's a lot in between.

That, in a very simple and uncomplicated way, sums up the work of Pacific Telephone in Marin County.

There are 722 people standing behind each telephone now in use in Pacific Telephone's Marin County district, which includes San Rafael, Mill Valley, Sausalito, Belvedere, Corte Madera, Ignacio, Tiburon, Ross, Inverness, Nicasio, Pt. Reyes, Stinson Beach, Bolinas, Fairfax, Larkspur, Kentfield and parts of Novato.

MANY WIRES

Every one of the 722 employees in the district has an interest in those two tiny wires on each phone. These wires lead from the home or business to an outside line holding many other pairs of wires. These lead to underground cables, which join other underground cables to the local exchange. Local exchanges connect with other central offices, which hold intricate switching equipment to connect with central offices and dialing areas throughout the United States—and the world.

The fact that a customer can pick up a phone and dial almost anywhere means that those 722 people are on their job for Pacific Telephone.

Working as a team, it's their collective job to see that the more than 400,000 calls made in the Marin County area each day go through smoothly.

FIRM HAS GROWN

Pacific Telephone has grown with Marin County—both have taken tremendous strides in the past 82 years. The original exchange for the area was opened in San Rafael in August, 1884, with less than a dozen customers.

Pacific Telephone now is one of Marin County's largest employers. The company's annual payroll is in excess of $4 million.

Who are these 722 people? What do they do?

The man with the answers is J. D. La Noue, Pacific Telephone's district manager for the Marin County area.

"This isn't an 8-to-5 business," La Noue said. "It's an important business that has to keep running smoothly 24 hours a day, 365 days a year."

Over 600 of the 722 employees are in three departments — plant, traffic and commercial.

PLANT WORKERS

Some 253 employees, under District Plant Manager A. F. Linane, keep the telephone "plant" humming. These include installers, splicers and linemen plus station, PBX, teletype and switchboard installer and repairmen.

They will be found on a variety of jobs—from installing a new extension in a home to working on a massive underground cable.

The central office equipment employees maintain the extensive and complex equipment such as the automatic dialing system—the "heart" of the telephone communications system. Employees in this group include framemen, transmission experts, troubleshooters and a large array of highly-trained specialists.

The traffic department, under the direction of District Traffic Manager R. L. Alfred, does just what its name implies—it directs telephone "traffic" and polices the various lines to make sure all is running smoothly. There can be no "commuter tie-ups" such as plague freeway users.

OPERATORS, TOO

While the vast majority of calls are automatically dialed—even to distant places—there is always the need for the operator to handle special calls, some long distance calls, information and emergency requests and a never-ending variety of other calls.

Among the nearly 300 employees in the Marin County District's Traffic Department are a number of persons involved in traffic engineering—the builders, on paper, of the telephone "freeways" of the future. Their job is to project where more lines will be needed and where new central offices and other Pacific Telephone facilities will be necessary at a given date in the future. The planning is all-important. Facilities and equipment must be ready the instant the demand is there.

The commercial department is composed of about 75 persons including office workers, clerks, secretaries, receptionists, service order typists and service representatives.

Service representatives — 33 are on the job in the Marin District—have the job of direct customer contact by phone. They are available to answer customer inquiries regarding rates and charges, changes in service, billing and most any other request a telephone customer might have.

OTHER DUTIES

Another 100 or more persons are involved in a variety of other tasks — marketing and sales, accounting, statistics, engineering, directory, medical, personnel, administration and others. Some of these persons handle work on a regional basis, dividing their time among several districts.

This work is vital, since it ties together districts, areas and regions in a national and international network. This mutual cooperation and integration of work gives the telephone user the speed and flexibility needed in this modern age of communications.

The largest building in the district is the main central office at 1 H Street, San Rafael. This service prefixes 453-454-456-457. The Parkway Central Office, at 7 Professional Center Parkway, San Rafael, serves 472 and 479. A switching station at 220 Shaver Street, San Rafael, handles all out-of-county calls.

The Belvedere Central Office at 5 Cove Place handles the 435 and 789 prefixes. The Corte Madera Central Office at 7 King Street, Larkspur, carries the 461 and 924 prefixes. The Central office at Raphael Village near Entrada Drive, Ignacio, handles the 883 prefix.

The Inverness Central Office on Vision Road carries the 663 prefix. Other central offices are 300 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley, 383 and 388; Nicasio-Petaluma Road near County Road, Nicasio, 662; Second and B Streets, Point Reyes, 669; 414 Turney Street, Sausalito, 332.

Virtually unique in the Bay Area is the "central office" located in a large trailer on Arenal Avenue near Calle Del Mar at Stinson Beach, handling the small 868 prefix.

Pacific Telephone Work Centers are located at 96 Louise Street, San Rafael; 237 Shoreline Highway, Mill Valley, and 101 Lucky Road, Kentfield.

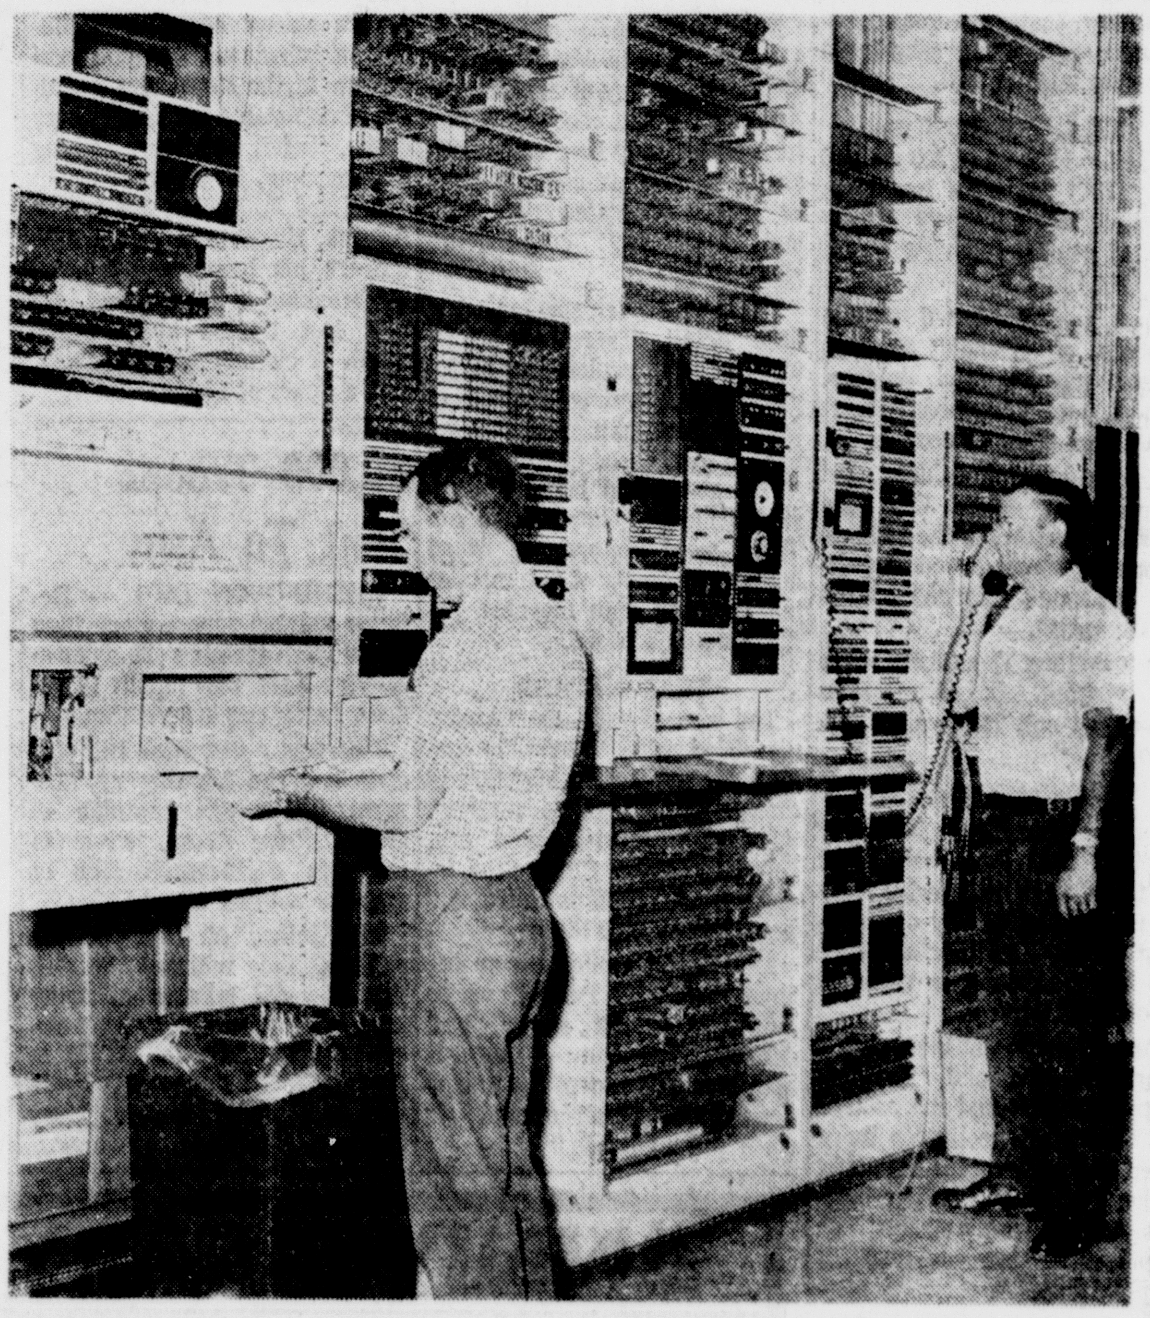
The main district offices are at 900 and 914 Mission Street, San Rafael. Business offices are at 1800 Second Street, San Rafael and 128 Throckmorton Avenue, Mill Valley.

The work centers and business offices are strategically located for convenience to customers and for quick service by repairmen and installers.

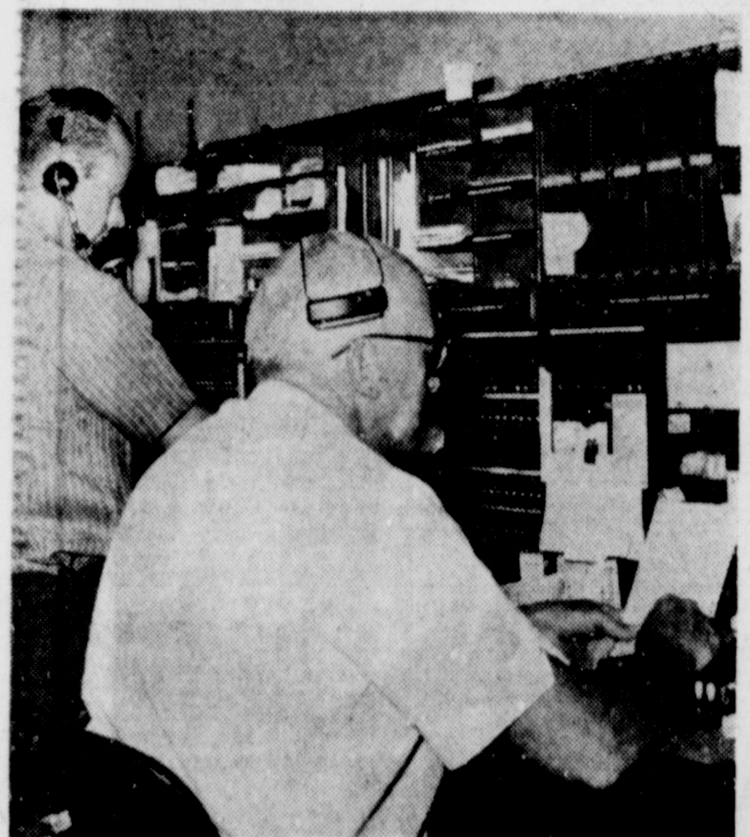
It all adds up to people, equipment and service.

It starts with a pair of wires and ends with a pair of wires.

But there's a lot in between.



MEN AND MACHINES—John Bowman (left) of San Anselmo and George Katen of Petaluma run an intricate cable test at the master test frame at the San Rafael central office.



TROUBLESHOOTERS — These two men are part of the staff handling Pacific Telephone repair service 24 hours a day. Working at test boards to determine what needs to be done are John Bassett (left) of Novato and Jake Jacobson of San Rafael.

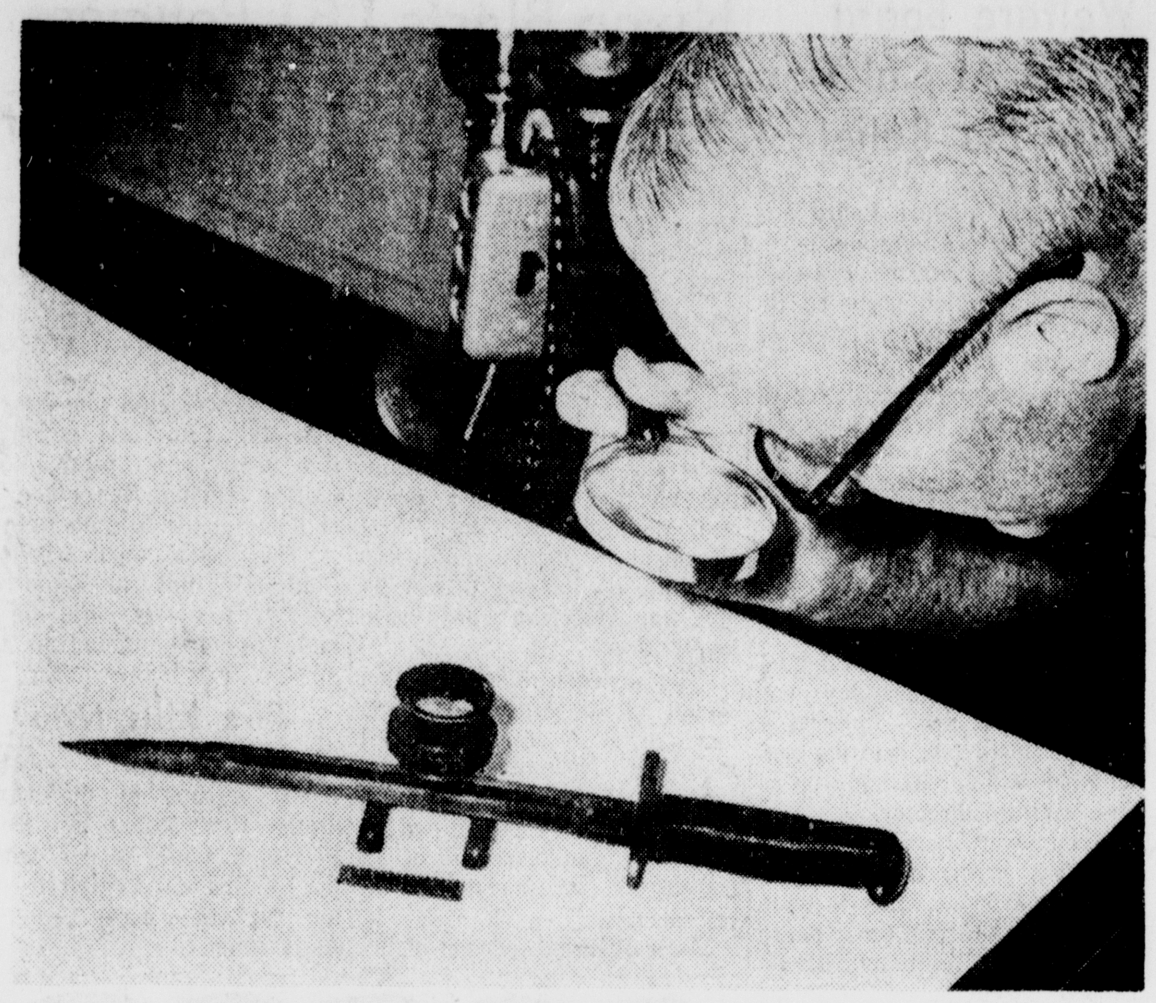
CUSTOMER SERVICE — More than 30 service representatives are on duty at business offices in San Rafael and Mill Valley. Shown working as service representatives are Mrs. Carol Coulter (left) of San Rafael, and Mrs. Alexandra Bouphidis of Fairfax.

OPERATORS STILL NEEDED—Information requests, long distance calls, emergency calls and a variety of other calls provide plenty of business for the telephone operator, backbone of the company's Marin County traffic department. Supervising Operator Mrs. Edda Stickle of Mill Valley (standing) assists an operator with a special call.



POSSIBLE MURDER WEAPON

Chicago Police Sgt. Irwin Haviland examines a bayonet the Coast Guard fished from Lake Michigan near the home where Republican leader Charles Percy's daughter Valerie, 21, was stabbed and bludgeoned. The laboratory expert found no traces of hair or blood on the blade, but Kenilworth Police Chief Robert M. Daley says it may be the death weapon. Percy has suspended indefinitely his campaign for election to the U.S. Senate and gone into seclusion with his family in California. (AP Wirephoto)

Monaco Tour Ship Feted

NEW YORK (AP) — New Yorkers toasted Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco aboard the SS Constitution last night with customs inspectors watching to make sure the United States got its monetary share of every sip.

The royal couple were on the ship to announce that the American Export Lines will make 22 stops next year at their Mediterranean principality.

Ship bars, which feature tax-free liquor, are usually closed while in port. Customs officers counted every drop drunk. They collected $2.10 in taxes and 25 cents in customs duty for each bottle.

$930 Million Set For State Roads

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An all-time high highway budget of $930.57 million for 1967-68 — including more than $100 million for Los Angeles County — has won approval from the State Highway Commission.

Included in the spending program approved yesterday by the commission was $673 million for construction, purchase of rights of way and engineering. By law, that total will be split between Southern and Northern California on a 55-45 ratio.

Another $161 million will go for projects begun in 1966-67, while $97 million was earmarked for maintenance and administration, $55 million for city streets and $79 million for joint city-county projects.

The new budget exceeds this year's by $34.5 million, but Transportation Agency Administrator Robert Bradford called a comparison "meaningless because the new budget includes for the first time accrual funds."

The state shifted this year to accrual accounting, a method that means counting as money already received revenue still owed the state.

The budget was adopted with little controversy, although Commissioner Joseph Houghteling of Los Altos said he wasn't satisfied enough money would go into urban road projects.

Final approval of the big spending program still remains with the legislature and governor, who must act before June 30, 1967.

Among major projects approved were:

$1.9 million to complete one section of the Grove-Shafter Freeway in Oakland.

$9.7 million to finish Interstate 580 through Altamont Pass in Alameda County.

$18.9 million for a 10-mile section of Interstate 15 Freeway in San Bernardino County.

$9.4 million for the Interstate 805 Freeway in San Diego.

$102.7 million for Los Angeles County, including $60.5 million for acquisition and $42.3 million for construction of various projects.

$7.79 million and $5.75 million to complete financing on separate sections of the eight-lane Interstate 5 Freeway in Sacramento.

$8.91 million for extending Interstate 5 Freeway 16.1 miles northerly in Shasta County.

$6.03 million for extending four-lane U.S. 50 Highway 7.5 County.

De Mello Family Wins In Stamps

John Porter of United States Stamp Co. in San Francisco will speak on "New Issue Trends" at a meeting of the Tamalpais Stamp Club at 7:30 p.m. today in room 118 of Redwood High School.

Officers will be elected at the meeting.

Four junior members of the club, children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert DeMello of 421 Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera, were winners at the recent "Youthpex" junior stamp exhibition in Livermore. James DeMello won a second prize for an exhibit of X-15 experimental flight covers; Allan, a third for "Philatelic Commercias," and Elizabeth and Doarlise, honorable mention for topical displays of "Adventures in Bookland" and "Under the Big Top," respectively.

Marin projects are:

1. Resurface portions of Highway 101 between Corte Madera Creek and the San Rafael viaduct, $230,000.
2. Widen Highway 101 by adding 1.3 miles of southbound lane north of Golden Gate Bridge,, $180,000.
3. Landscape Highway 101 in vicinity of Tamalpais Drive interchange at Corte Madera, $80,000.
4. Acquire rights of way on various state highway routes, $1,306,000.

POWELL SAYS HE WON

Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, D-Harlem, tells newsmen and well-wishers, the rules changes enforced by a 27-1 vote of his rebellious Education and Labor Committee "have reaffirmed the rules of the House . . . a very progressive step forward." Powell spoke yesterday in Washington after the committee stripped him of most authority over the committee staff and of his power to pocket subcommittee-approved bills. GOP committee members, meanwhile, called the disciplinary action a "wet noodle slap." (UPI Telephoto)

Yom Kippur Begins Tonight With Plea For Forgiveness

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Yom Kippur, the most sacred and solemn of Jewish holy days, begins at Sundown today.

Jews throughout the world will observe it with 24 hours of fasting, prayer an dworship.

Yom Kippur is known as "the day of atonement." It marks the end of the 10 high holy days during which a religious Jew is expected to take an annual spiritual inventory of his behavior, his relations with other men, and his relationship with God.

The liturgy for the opening service, which will be held in synagogues tonight, is called the "Kol Nidre." It is a prayer for forgiveness, written about 13 centuries ago. It is set to a haunting melody.

Many devout Jews go without food or drink for the 24 hours of Yom Kippur. Some remain at prayer in the synagogue for the entire period.

Humphrey Urges Union To Guard Prosperity

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, urging steelworkers to avoid inflationary wage demands, said today America has "no written guarantee of a golden, never-ending prosperity."

"And that," added Humphrey "is why we've got to exert discipline — all of us — in keeping on a steady course."

Humphrey's remarks were in a speech for the convention of the United Steelworkers of America, which yesterday overwhelmingly approved new bargaining procedures that for the first time empower the workers to call for a strike.

Last night, the vice president, speaking at a Democratic fund- raising dinner in Jamesburg, N.J., answered a heckler who kept shouting "Tell us about Viet Nam!"

Guests started to toss out the heckler but Humphrey said, "Let him stay. He's a good man. I'll tell him about Viet Nam."

The vice president proceeded to say that if the United States stood firm in Viet Nam, the war would be shortened and our men would come home sooner.

"We are making a decision not only to defend Viet Nam, we are defending the United States of America," Humphrey said. He added that if aggression was allowed to run rampant across Asia, undermining small countries there, what chance would this country have?

Paradise Cove Team Wins Tourney Game

Paradise Cove Yacht Club defeated Tarzan and the Swingers 7-2 last night in the opening game of the San Rafael Recreation Department's Slow Pitch Softball Tournament.

In regular B-2 division rec league games, Perry's Delicatessen nipped Cain's Tires 6-5 and Kaehler Construction blanked North American Maritime Agency, 6-0.

Welfare Board Looks At Cal-Flex Plan For Relief

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Social Welfare Board has agreed to take a long and careful look at the controversial Cal-Flex welfare plan proposed by the County Supervisors Assn. of California.

The board met yesterday with representatives of the supervisors' group, after which they issued a joint statement stressing agreement on the need for "a critical examination" of the plan.

A second joint meeting was tentatively slated for October.

Cal-Flex — which would give the counties far more say over welfare programs — played a major role in last month's resignation of John Wedemeyer as state welfare director.

Wedemeyer sharply criticized the plan, saying it was an attempt by the counties to save money on welfare at the expense of the needy. When Gov. Brown rapped Wedemeyer for his statement, the welfare chief resigned with bitter words for the governor.

Nixon Blasts LBJ Policies On Economy, War Conduct

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI)— Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a cheering, standing-room-only crowd of 1,500 last night that Republicans would pick up 40 new congressional seats "because Johnson can't do anything about the Viet Nam war on the economy.

Nixon, who expects to stump in 34 states before the November election, described President Johnson as the "first President in history that could not unite the country in support of a war American troops were involved in.

"The Johnson Administration should tell the American people now. . .what it intends to tell them in November," Nixon said. "That there will be an increase in forces committed in Viet Nam, that there will be an increase in the budget and a tax increase."

Nixon accused Johnson of being "cynical in 1964 when he said that he would never commit American boys in the ground war in Asia." He said events in that conflict had shown GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater to "sound prophetic."

Nixon predicted the war in Viet Nam could last as long as five years with American casualties reaching the magnitude of those in the Korean fighting.

"This could mean that the Chinese by that time could have nuclear weapons with the vehicles to deliver them," he said.

Fire Kills Many

NURSES DONATE BLOOD FOR A FRIEND IN NEED

More than 40 Marin General Hospital nurses, aides and other staffers donated blood yesterday for nurse Delores Yanni of Terra Linda who will undergo open heart surgery in San Francisco next week. A unique by-pass machine will be used in surgery on Miss Yanni and 20 pints of blood are needed just to prime the machine. Marlene Arild is about to donate blood while Gloria Gibala takes her blood pressure. In the background Terry Ramirez gives information on her blood type to Florence Donaldson, while waiting their turns are Katherine Liddell, June Perkins, Melinda Krause, Ruth Smith, Dineen Gower and Ilona Bellak.

Los Angeles Assessor Is Probe Target

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state attorney general's office says it has been investigating the Los Angeles tax assessor's office for five months.

Assessor Philip E. Watson says he doesn't know why, and: "I have every confidence that there are no irregularities."

Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch met newsmen last night at a hospital where he is recovering from a viral infection. He said:

"We have investigations going on in 28 (assessors') offices around the state."

He did not indicate the status of the investigation, but said results will be turned over to the Los Angeles County District attorney's office.

Watson, a Republican who backs Ronald Reagan for governor, said that conceivably the investigation was politically inspired.

Lynch, a Democrat, said there are no political overtones.

The attorney general's office has conducted assessor investigations in many areas as a result of the case of James C. Tooke, Castro Valley tax consultant, accused of bribing various assessors to obtain low assessments for clients. There have been several convictions.

Watson has said there are no improprieties in his operation.

The attorney general's investigation was made public Thursday by the Herald-Examiner, which said today that findings may be turned over to the district attorney's office next week.

The Times said the probe began not as a result of impounded files in the Tooke case but on the basis of information from another source.

Reagan Disclaims Brown's Charges

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republican Ronald Reagan headed for Sacramento and what he billed as a major address on taxes today after disclaiming charges by Gov. Brown that he would repudiate the John Birch Society.

Reagan told newsmen in San Francisco yesterday that his position on the Birch Society is unchanged. He earlier said he wouldn't repudiate anyone because those who "vote for me are buying my philosophy — I'm not buying theirs."

As the GOP candidate moved into the state capital, Brown headed for the redwood country, where he lashed out at Reagan's policies on handling natural disasters.

Noting that Reagan has calld for less federal intervention and more local and state cooperation in response to natural disasters, Brown said:

"If there should ever be another great disaster . . . I won't appoint a committee . . . I'll be there with my boots on with every bit of help available from local, state, and yes, the federal government, too!"

Reagan also denied a Brown charge that he would soon change his position on endorsing U.S. Sen. Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif., in the 1968 primary.

Brown said Reagan would pledge to endorse Kuchel in the primary when polls showed him losing ground in the gubernatorial race. But Reagan told newsmen:

"I have said that if Sen. Kuchel wins the nomination for reelection in 1966 he will have my unqualified support, but I will not participate in a primary contest."

As usual, Reagan's campaign officials did not release the transcript of the candidate's television talk in advance of his Sacramento appearance. His aides say Reagan writes his own speeches and doesn't finish them until moments before he speaks.

But they said the always controversial topic of taxes was to be his subject in a television speech, and he seemed assured of ample questions on the following telethon— Sacramento County has a 2-1 Democratic voter registration edge.

Before going to Sacramento, Reagan planned private conferences with San Francisco Bay Area backers and visits to several facilities where welfare recipients are receiving training aimed at getting them jobs.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Brown has asked news executives to give more coverage to "the positive points" of the gubernatorial campaign.

"Certainly the public is entitled to weigh allegations that touch on a candidate's fitness for office," said Brown. But he urged that the public receive "thoughtful discussion of the less dramatic" aspects of the campaign.

And there was this humorous rumor making the political rounds:

Following Brown's reception at the Hearst Castle Wednesday night for Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, word was out that Reagan might demand "equal partying time."

Shoplifters Invade Strawberry Center

Shoplifters made off with four women's wristwatches from International Ltd. jewelers at Strawberry Town and County Village, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Ruth Miller, owner, told officers she was waiting on customers when a man and woman entered the store and apparently took the watches, worth a total of $240, from a showcase.

Peace Corps Exam Hit By Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said today personality testing of Peace Corps volunteers calls for true or false answers to statements such as:

"My father was a good man." "I am very seldom troubled by constipation." "I like poetry." "I believe in the second coming of Christ." "I like to flirt." "I wish I were not bothered by thoughts about sex."

Ervin cited this sample of government personality tests in opening hearings on his bill to protect the constitutional rights and privacy of federal employees.

John F. Griner, president of the American Federation of Government, employees, testified the bill is greatly needed. He called it "one of the most promising and reassuring legislative proposals to be placed before Congress in recent years."

Retired Banker Endows College

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Randolph A. Christie, a former Bank of America president, has willed $600,000 to science projects at the University of California at Los Angeles, his widow says.

Mrs. Frances Christie said yesterday that her husband left $300,000 to the University Medical Research Foundation, a nonprofit corporation investigating heart and kidney diseases at UCLA medical school.

Another $300,000 will go to the university regents for a building or a research fund at the UCLA Center for Health Sciences.

Christie died Sept. 15 at the age of 71 in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Murders Charged To Slav Agents

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Security agents have been charged with 33 murders in two towns of Kosmet Province, which has a large Albanian minority, the Belgrade paper Politika reported today.

Borba, another Belgrade daily, reported earlier that 29 persons had been murdered in the town of Djakovica, and earlier reports said security agents killed eight innocent persons in Prizren.

President Tito in July charged that a power-seeking element in the secret police was endangering the state and the Communist party.

Kaiser Kin To Wed Commoner

DUSSELDORF, Germany (AP) — The parents of Prince Michael of Prussia have reluctantly approved his marriage to a commoner. The marriage defies a decree of his great grandfather, Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The prince, 26, told reporters of his parents' decision yesterday in Dusseldorf. He is to wed Jutta Joern, 23, a secretary he met while working in a New York airline office.

Under Kaiser Wilhelm's decree, Prince Michael will lose the right of succession as head of the house and also will be disinherited.

Housing Sales Problems Have Their Bright Side

Today's I-J includes our annual "Marin Parade of Homes" special sections, commemorating National Home Week.

By now everybody is aware that Marin, along with the rest of California and most of the nation, is having a "bad" year in construction and sale of homes.

The basic trouble is "tight" money. It is extremely difficult for most and impossible for many to get the loan necessary to buy a home.

So the market is "slow." Marin real estate offices have been especially hard hit. There have been closings and consolidations. The volume of home sales is down considerably from recent years.

What does all this mean to the person who would like to acquire a new home or a larger home?

It means simply that the market is becoming a buyers' market, where the buyer stands to get more for his money. To make up for the difficulty of obtaining loans, some developers offer lease-purchase plans and some offer straight leases with an option to buy later, giving certain credit for lease money already paid.

All these things can benefit a buyer.

We commend this year's "Marin Parade of Homes" to our readers with the added suggestion that now is the time to take advantage of the buyers' market. It has been a long, long time since buyers were in such an advantageous position. When the present conditions pass, it will be a long, long time before buyers will find it so attractive again.

Wrong Impressions Corrected

Schumann and Ziering, attorneys for the Edward R. Bunting family of Ross, have demanded that the Independent-Journal publish a correction of the editorial which appeared in this space August 23.

"There is no doubt," the attorneys have written the I-J, "that said article (the editorial in question) was directed against Edward R. Bunting and his family although they were not specifically named therein, and of course your numerous readers reasonably understood that it was intended to apply to the Bunting family."

Actually, the I-J did NOT mention any family name for the very purpose of avoiding pointing the finger at any individual or family. Our effort was directed toward leaving personalities out of our editorial commentary; and we are glad to help correct any erroneous impression along those lines.

Messrs. Schumann and Ziering ask us to state that the Bunting's behavior was not rude or deliberate in turning on their hi-fi but that their hi-fi was turned on for the purpose of entertaining Little League guests at a party and not to interfere with the Shakespeare performance.

We have no reason to disagree with the Buntings' statement that they did not intend to interfere. As soon as the Buntings' statement to this effect was known to us, August 26, it was printed on our front page, thanks to Ross City Councilman Jordan Martinelli, Jr., who so informed us.

If the Buntings have suffered any embarrassment or discomfort as the result of the events referred to or because the I-J reported those events or commented upon them, we are genuinely sorry.

New State Fair Cannot Be Like Old One, Expected To Be Better

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The people responsible for the planning and construction of the $33 million new California Exposition and Fair are running into some problems of the old and new.

The new state fair has been in the talking stage for 25 years or more and in serious planning for at least the last 10. A site for the new show was purchased just northeast of Sacramento quite a few years ago, with a total of 1,000 acres.

The legislature has provided the necessary financing, including sale of $13 million in revenue bonds, a state appropriation, and proceeds from the sale of the present state fairgrounds and about 380 acres of the periphery of the new site which will not be needed.

The architectural firm which has designed much of the fair studied expositions all over the world in coming up with some of the ideas.

YET THERE ARE quite a number who insist that the new fair facility should include everything that the old one has. Naturally, the legislature did not have in mind to rebuild the old fair into a $33 million new one with the same general pattern and theme of operation.

One of the areas of controversy has been in livestock, especially the livestock shown by youth groups — FFA and 4-H. The present fair has attempted to permit just about any member of these groups to show livestock at the fair.

Under the new plan, the livestock shows would go on but probably not in conjunction with the state fair.

As a matter fact, the new fair will have a run of 108 days a year, rather than the 12 days now allotted for the fair. Eugene R. Lemmon, general manager, said the stretched-out fair will permit greater total usage during the year, without such peak crowds as the one on the Sunday before Labor Day.

On that day, this year, more than 131,000 persons were admitted to the grounds in a real seam-bulger.

Lemmon said the new fair plans are to plan for handling crowds of 60,000 to 70,000, but on many more days.

THE GENERAL PLAN is that the fairground would operate on weekends in the spring, all summer, and then weekends in the fall.

Another area of planning which has stirred considerable controversy is the new horse race track and facilities. Plans are for a modern racing plant but with seats for only 6200 persons.

Now the present state fairgrounds has a maximum seating capacity of just over 7,000 persons and many have questioned why the new plant should begin with fewer seats.

Officials have explained that, like all new major tracks, the stands will be considerably farther back from the tracks than they are at the present fair—at least 100 feet, instead of the 40 feet. This will be paved and on an incline and will permit thousands of persons to stand or sit there to watch the races.

EXPERIENCE at new tracks being built around the country, where costs are not such a close consideration as at the new fair, have indicated that only about 25 per cent of the people at a race track will sit down anyway, no matter how many seats there are.

One of the problems of the present fairgrounds may be solved at the new one, and that is the matter of parking. The new grounds will have permanent parking spaces designed to handle all but peak crowds.

Sheriff Explains Prisoner Transport

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In reference to a letter addressed to the editor, under date of Sept. 20, from Mr. Leslie Young.

Mr. Young has raised the question "why prisoners being returned to Marin County can not be returned via air instead of by van."

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Young for his interest and concern, and explain that first of all, the facts are: We do not return prisoners to Marin County in a van. They are returned in a station wagon; second: A prisoner who is being returned to Marin County must give written consent to our office that he is willing to be returned by air. If he refuses to be returned by air, then he will be returned to Marin County by automobile. Third: We will continue to operate the Sheriff's Department in an efficient manner.

However, I would again like to thank Mr. Young for his concern because without the support and confidence of the citizens of Marin County, our profession of law enforcement would be a more difficult task.

Fire Department Given High Praise

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to express my admiration for the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire Dept. Today (Sept. 20) I reported a fire and watched this group arrive on the scene in less than five minutes.

"The scene" involved quite a few acres of our lovely Tiburon hills, and was frighteningly close to the apartment building where I live, as well as other residences.

Since moving to Tiburon in 1961 I have often found occasion to praise this fire department. Today the occasion came very close to home. The speed and efficiency of the Alto-Richardson Fire Department saved property and, quite possibly, lives.

I'm certain other members of this community join me in this praise and public "thank you."

Pastor Appreciates Editorial Cartoon

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Thank you so much for the perfectly wonderful cartoon in the Sept. 17 Independent-Journal.

The question from the youngster in the family, "Where are we going to Church today, St. Paul's or the Hungry I?," has more in it than the usual reader might allow himself to enjoy.

It comes down to the question of "Where is the Gospel (or presence) of our Lord more keenly felt and enjoyed, St. Paul's or the Hungry I?" I can't speak for other local parishes, but from what I've experienced from Christians "in general" the Hungry I at this point would win out!

Worship and life, built on His, are to be joyful and lively. In other words, God is where the action is.

Whether it be a response under a steeple or under the sidewalk in front of a brick wall is of little consequence.

Thank you! Tis the greatest advertisement the Church has ever had.

Land Tax Proponent Defends The Concept

Editor, Independent-Journal:

R. Wiedenmayer (Letters, I-J, Sept. 17) asks, in regard to the proposal of taxing land instead of improvements: "Who picks up the tab for the freeloaders when our ranches and open country are taxed out of existence and Marin is nothing but wall-to-wall houses and humanity?"

This question is based on a misunderstanding of the proposed tax. The tax in question, a tax on the rental value of land, brings in more, not less, revenue as the population in the area increases. Increased population results in increased demand for land and thus in higher land values. The proposed tax would return this publicly created value to the community. If this were done, taxes could be removed from privately created values such as homes.

"Who picks up the tab?" Everyone. To use land — as everyone must, to live on and to work on—one must pay the rental value of that land. Today, tenants are paying that value to the landholders but the landholders are not paying it to the community—so they are actually the free-loaders. But under a tax on land value, the landholders too would have to pay their share.

Mr. Wiedenmayer calls this proposal "socialistic." But is it socialistic for the community to recover the values it has created, thus allowing privately created values to remain in the hands of individuals? Isn't this simply justice? And does Mr. Wiedenmayer see nothing socialistic in today's system of letting governments take privately created values for their own?

The problem is simple. If there is to be a government, there must be a source of public revenue. Which source is the more just: Privately created values or publicly created values?

Drivers Unwittingly Rude To Pedestrian

Editor, Independent-Journal:

The pedestrian crosswalk on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo near the Drake Market carries a fair amount of foot traffic. In addition to the usual pedestrian lane markings there are warning signs installed. For a number of years I have been using that crossing almost daily and have noted that the motorists who do not violate the pedestrian crossing are in the great minority.

The other day I was halfway across the street, using the pedestrian lane, when five cars approached. The first four sped by without even slackening speed. The fifth car did stop.

I doubt that the violations were intentional. More likely the causes were lack of knowledge of the highway law, inattention on the part of the driver, just plain courtesy lack, or absence of common sense.

Possibly more publicity as to highway regulations would help. Also, it seems to me, that the police force, and that includes "meter maids" would better serve the public good by paying more heed to violations of pedestrian zones and less to cars overparked. After all, it is very rare that a pedestrian has been hit by a parked car.

WHO SAYS THE news is all bad these days? In one issue of a London newspaper recently, readers could discover that (1) a worthy citizen of Ickleford, who spent five months turning an abandoned cottage back into a neat, comfortable home, had been ordered by the town council to turn the cottage back into a ruin because he didn't ask permission to make the repairs, and (2) when landscape gardeners demanded 350 pounds to keep the lawns of the parks in a suburban town mowed, the mayor bought six goats for the equivalent of 20 bucks instead. They're doing the job magnificently!

Republican Conservatives Due To Dominate Next Convention

WASHINGTON — Goldwater conservatism will control the next Republican national convention and will nominate a Goldwater-type conservative as the party's 1968 Presidential candidate.

This is the pessimistic view of a growing number of GOP liberals.

This is the confident view of a growing number of GOP conservatives.

THESE TWO WINGS of the party are agreed on one thing—that the make-up and the climate of the 1968 convention will closely parallel 1964.

And that's the way it will be unless the Republican moderates—governors mostly—bestir themselves far more effectively and energetically than they have during the past two years.

They could succeed, of course. But in light of the way they have wasted their time and fumbled their opportunities, the prospect that the moderates can regain national dominance in the party is slumping.

The Goldwater conservatives are increasingly elated. The GOP liberals are visibly depressed.

Barry Goldwater shaped the 1964 convention, while most Republican moderates did either nothing at all or everything too late, and he is certain that he and his supporters will shape the 1968 convention. Goldwater's buoyant appraisal is this:

"THE VOCIFEROUS . . . pestiferous little minority of liberals we have in the Republican party aren't going any place. . . . If they think the make-up of the 1968 convention is going to be any different than it was in 1964, they're mistaken. Between 75 and 80 per cent of the 1968 convention will be conservatives."

The revealing fact is that the Republican liberals themselves do not think it will be any different in '68 than it was in '64. They've practically given up, as illustrated by the latest statement of the council of Republican organizations which embraces 10 citizen groups, including academic, professional, Negro, labor, and former Eisenhower officials. Their mood seems as hopeless as Goldwater's is confident. This is what they say:

"ON THE BASIS of the evidence from the past two years, there is little reason to believe that the Republican party of 1968 will look much different from 1964. Whatever the justice of the situation, the burden of producing change in the Republican party after 1964 rests with moderate Republicans. We have forfeited fully half of the time available to reshape the Republican party of 1968. Unless the performance of the next two years is dramatically improved, moderate Republicans will have failed once again to bring leadership to their party and their nation. The costs will be far greater than those incurred in 1964."

Goldwater—and many of his followers will support him—knows exactly whom he wants. His first choice is Ronald Reagan if Reagan wins the California governorship. His second choice is Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin who guided the platform-drafting at the 1964 convention. Down the list somewhere is Richard Nixon whom Goldwater praises with faint damns by saying that "the GOP is busting for a new face. They like Nixon but they'd like something new."

Finally, Goldwater vetoes Governor Romney — "no matter how big he wins, or loses, in Michigan" — because Romney chose to get elected himself rather than support Goldwater in the 1964 Michigan campaign.

It is evident that the two outer wings of the GOP see the 1968 convention as a repeat of 1964. And it will be so if the leaders of the Republican center remain as mute and paralyzed as they have during the past two years. Perhaps they need a ticket which would widen their own base and that of the party as a whole.

HOW WOULD such a ticket read? Romney-Nixon?

Congress Not Likely To Vote Credit Curbs

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Congress is in no mood to vote credit, wage or price controls.

That's the frank report congressional leaders of both parties gave the President at a bipartisan White House meeting he called to discuss ways to curb inflation.

With his top economic braintrusters around him, the President talked candidly about the inflationary pressures on the economy for 30 minutes before asking the legislators:

"WHAT WILL Congress do if I should recommend the enactment of credit, wage and price controls at this session?"

"Nothing," replied House Majority Leader Carl Albert, D-Okla. "Under present conditions, you would be lucky to get 100 votes in the House for any one of those control measures."

"There aren't the votes in the Senate," said Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill. "Before Congress would pass those wartime controls, there would have to be a major confrontation with China."

"YOU WOULD NEED a declaration of war before Congress would vote price and wage controls," declared House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich.

After hearing these statements, President Johnson turned to Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., asking:

"Do you agree, John?"

"I am afraid they are correct," replied McCormack. "There is absolutely no support in the House for any legislative restrictions on the economy."

The President then began taking Congress to task for appropriating more money than he had requested for his Great Society programs. After he finished, Representative Ford spoke up:

"We have been trying to cut back every measure you presented to Congress, but the Democratic majority keeps voting through increases. If you have any suggestions on how we can hold the line, we will be glad to cooperate with you."

The President remained silent.

TWO DAYS AFTER the White House meeting, the Republicans tried to cut the President's highway beautification program in the House. They lost by two votes. They also learned that the President had personally urged at least a dozen Democrats to oppose the GOP-sponsored cutback.

Vice President Humphrey is losing no time in making the most of his new role as the Administration's top anti-pollution spokesman. Humphrey is calling a conference in Chicago Sept. 15-16 on "water pollution control for the Great Lakes states."

SECRETARY RUSK is optimistically looking to the day when the U. S. and Russia can agree on banning bacteriological warfare. He has already drawn up a plan for such a pact, and says he is waiting for the Viet Nam conflict to cool before submitting the proposal to the Russians.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By PAUL PETERZELL

To Peers More Than Pupils Educators Seem To Like Talking

The new president of a college being formed in upstate am living that recurrent dream of the tired administrator; in a few weeks I shall take over the ideal institution, it has no students, it has no faculty, it has no alumnae—all it has is administrators talking to each other."

AN ILLUSTRATION of the "recurrent dream" was a report received last week by the Sausalito school board. Entitled "a coordinated compensatory education program focusing on student self realization in a setting of racial, economic and social integration," the report was written by Dr. Staten W. Webster, human relations consultant to the district.

His report was numbered "Proposal No. 21-180-01-0069," which may mean it either is the first of the 180th such report.

The report, incidentally, is an evaluation of the transfer program of Mill Valley pupils to Richardson Bay School in Sausalito.

It is hard to imagine that either overworked school officials, lay trustees or members of the public could digest the report. It is a shining example of the educator's entrapment in a lingo that is difficult to all but his professional peers, who don't need someone else's report, anyway.

Educators are irked by what they claim is the failure of newspapers to communicate their business to the public—the taxpayers. They often claim this failure is part of the larger failure of newspapers as an instrument to educate. I suspect educators and newspapers have the same capacity for perfection—none.

The 111-page report is so awesome that none of the newspapers covering the board meeting mentioned it, for fear of choking on it if ingested within the time limits imposed by newspaper deadlines.

THE FONDNESS of educators for discussion among themselves is shown by Dr. Webster's record of his activity. Of some 250 hours only about 20 were spent with students. The rest were with trustees, committees and school officials.

A statistician's delight follows a 10-page introduction—11 pages of tables to show how parents answered a set of questions about their children and schools. The answers lend themselves to neat tables because there were only six possible answers, ranging from "very dissatisfied" to "very satisfied."

"It would be impossible to comment on all of the above data," Dr. Webster concluded at the end of the first set of tables. "Overall," he noted, parents liked the district's exchange program.

Dr. Webster also noted "a general lowering of student fears regarding feelings of satisfaction with schools and teachers."

The next section, dealing with the feelings of teachers toward the program, devoted 23 pages to graphs, tables and outlines of answers.

FINALLY, on page 65, came a "discussion" of the data.

"In all schools, Dr. Webster wrote, "teachers perceive the interpersonal relations between themselves and white students as being more favorable than those which they have with Negro students."

Two top student behavior problems indicated by teachers, he noted, were "aggressive behavior toward peers and clanishness."

He wrote, "surprisingly, almost 50 per cent of all teacher respondents still feel that they must be careful of saying things which are critical."

The last 24 pages of the report consist of more graphs and the results of various tests given to students in the school system.

INTERESTED PERSONS may get copies of the report at the Sausalito School District office.

The Bay Area Air Pollution Control board is considering a ban on all back yard burning. If homeowners cannot burn their rubbish and garden clippings, then their only alternative seems to be to haul the stuff to a dump—probably on the Bay.

But by the board's own figures, a greater contributor to air pollution than back yard burning is the automobile. Will we be asked to drag rubbish to the dump on foot? If not, the stream of vehicles carrying rubbish to the Bay dumps may contribute more air pollution than if the ban were forgotten.

AND HOW ABOUT barbecues? And fires in the fireplace?

No matter how you look at it, we haven't got a good answer yet to disposing of our waste.

Almonte Club Seeks Speaker On Annex

Almonte Improvement Club directors Wednesday asked Mill Valley City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer to discuss his invitation that Almonte annex to the city at the next meeting of the club on Oct. 19.

Club president Herbert E. Davis appointed Robert Odmark as acting treasurer to replace Felix Popper, who is moving from the area.

ART BUCHWALD

Great White Father Listens, Listens While He's Parading

WASHINGTON—It has been reported that President Johnson has a bugging device in his specially built limousine which has a reverse twist on it. Although the people along the route can't hear what he is saying, the device makes it possible for him to hear what the people are saying.

This is a very dangerous thing for any politician to do. Those of us who have covered many political campaigns know that what the people seem to be yelling and what they are actually yelling are two different things.

I TRULY FEAR for the consequences.

Suppose the President is driving down Main Street and he turns his bugging system on. This is what he might hear.

"Officer, when is this parade going to be over? I'm trying to get to the shoe store before it closes."

"Don't ask me, lady. But you can't cross until the President goes by."

"Why not? I didn't vote for him."

"THAT'S NOT the point. We have orders not to let anybody cross the street."

"But what about my shoes?"

"Lady, how often does the President of the United States drive down the Main Street of Ranpucket?"

"How often do I get a chance to buy a new pair of shoes?"

"Hey, you kids, get back there. The President's going by."

"CRAZY, MAN. We thought the fuzz on the motorcycles were looking for us."

"Look, he's waving at us."

"Don't wave back. He'll think we're for his policy in Viet Nam."

"If you don't stop pulling my ears I'm not going to let you sit on my shoulders."

"Which one is the President, Daddy?"

"I can't see. You've got your shoe in my eye."

"We want Bobby. We want Bobby. We want Bobby."

"What about the cost of living, Mr. President?"

"Send George Hamilton to Saigon."

"Okay, folks, now get back. Get back."

"Free Adam Clayton Powell."

"Who's the fellow in the car with Congressman Healy?"

HE'LL NEVER save Healy."

"Healy could lose the election for the President."

"Martha, Martha, I'm over here."

"I see you but I can't get over to you until this damn parade is over."

"Officer, I'm from the press. How many people would you say are lined up along the street."

"The chief of police told us not to say."

"Could you hazard a guess?"

"About 2,000, but the chief's a Democrat so he'll probably tell you 10,000."

"We want Bobby. We want Bobby. We want Bobby."

"All right. I'll buy you a popsicle as soon as it's over."

"There he is. There he is. Oh, I wish he'd stop and shake hands with us."

The President immediately shouts something to his driver who stops the limousine. The President climbs out and goes over and starts shaking hands. Then he gets back into the car again, smiling and very pleased.

"He stopped and shook hands with us, Gertrude! It's almost as if he heard exactly what you were saying."

Closed Session

A closed meeting "to discuss employment of personnel" will be held tonight by Mill Valley School District trustees, Supt. G. R. McConnell said today. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the district office, 26 Miller Avenue.

COUNTY COMMENT

Garbled Lines Further Confuse Report On Supervisor's Views

FUSSELMAN

Do you remember the gag that was going the rounds three or four years ago—"If I had known you were coming, I'd have baked a cake"?—That's about the way I felt when I turned to the column last Friday. Something like . . . "If I had known this was to happen, I'd have given a prize (like a book of trading stamps maybe) to have those paragraphs unscrambled." And was that ever a scramble . . . A real duzzy and no mistake.

TO THE uninitiated: I had been expressing astonishment over some strange statements the Ross Valley supervisor had been making on a number of subjects. Everything went fine until one came to the fourth and fifth paragraphs. Then occurred the most amazing transposition of lines I have ever seen. Finally, I had to cut them up and place the lines where they belonged and then nail them down with transparent mending tape. Interestingly enough there was not a single error in any of the lines. They were simply AWOL from their proper places.

With fingers crossed, here goes again. This is about the way it was in my copy which I turned in.

"HE ALSO needs to do some homework on his other idea of getting 50 per cent of all sales tax for the county from shopping centers that are annexed to cities. The state collects the sales tax and then remits back to the cities and also to the county, for the unincorporated area. This is done by agreement. If he thinks the state will keep separate records of the centers within the cities that have been annexed, as distinguished from other retail outlets in the cities including any shopping centers already established there, I believe he will have to guess again. Of course this all makes good conversation, though, while the meter goes "ticking along."

IT IS a strange philosophy to be always looking to see how much taxes can be acquired instead of how government can be operated more efficiently to reduce costs.

THE SUPERVISOR was quoted on page 21 as making another strange statement—"The purpose of the war on poverty is to get people off welfare rolls. The county pays the welfare, not the cities, so it is a county responsibility." There certainly is a mix up there. Any money in the county coffers, from local taxes, comes from all the people in the county — 63 per cent or more from the folks in the cities. Welfare funds come mostly from the federal government through the state. (Any local funds involved come from the cities to the tune of 63 per cent or better). So what's new?

Maybe it will soak in someday that as long as things are permitted to be almost entirely in the hands of the administrator, the board members will not have the personal knowledge they should have and that it is dangerous to sound off.

Hollis Says Board Didn't Want Details

County Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis offered an explanation today of why he had not given a complete answer to the Board of Supervisors on the County Board of Education's rejection of pre-school centers for Novato and Marin City.

At the supervisor's meeting on Tuesday, Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen wanted to know: "What was in the mind of the board of education"

Replied Hollis: "One member just spoke up and said he was opposed to pre-school education and that was all."

Hollis said today there were other reasons given by the Board of Education, but "it was close to the noon hour and it was obvious the supervisors did not want to go into details."

Malpractice Suit Is Filed

A $500,000 malpractice suit against Dr. Bernard J. Conroy, 61, of Fairfax, was filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

The plaintiffs, Mrs. Stella Mindle, wife of the late Harry L. Mindle, Arthur Mindle, a son, and Phyllis Fleischmann, a daughter, charge that negligent diagnosis and treatment by the doctor of Harry Mindle resulted in his April 17 death.

Mindle, of 115 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield, was owner of College Market in Kentfield for 15 years.

City Traffic Hurts Corte Madera Driver

Jules B. Grossman, 40, of 228 Corte Madera Avenue, Corte Madera, complained of back and knee pains after his car was struck from behind by another auto on the Park Presidio approach to the Golden Gate Bridge at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, the California Highway Patrol reported.

His auto was struck by one driven by Birger W. Tharaldsen, 59, of 3 Roger Drive, San Rafael, the patrol said. Grossman said he would see his own doctor.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Current High Yield Is Running At 7 Per Cent

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. "Anticipating the market decline, I have cash reserves to put into some high-yielding common stocks. What do you recommend?" R. McD.

A. Sharp breaks in the market do bring to light unusually attractive income situations, but what you mean by "high" yield may not coincide with my use of the term. My list of current high yields runs from approximately 5 per cent to 7 per cent. It is not impossible that some further reaction in the market could push a 7 per cent yield to 8 per cent but I do not believe the typical income stock will be selling on a 7 per cent to 8 per cent basis. Directors today are more inclined to look upon dividends as they once looked upon interest coupons. If there is any question of maintaining a higher dividend, the lower rate will continue and corporate liberality is expressed by an "extra" which will depend on the state of the business. For your consideration, I suggest Commercial Credit, Cons. Edidon, Dana Corp., General Motors, Lorillard and Norfolk & Western.

Q. "Since at age 71 L am largely dependent upon stocks for my income, I am concerned about Kern County Land representing 25 per cent of my portfolio, cost price 83." W. S.

A. Shares of Kern County Land are well worth holding for the diversified long-term potential within the company's operations. However, as your immediate problem is maximum income, it would seem desirable to switch these shares into others provided a larger cash return. As replacements I would buy equal dollar amounts of Standard Oil of New Jersey and Southern Railway. This move will upgrade income from a 3.2 per cent yield on your initial investment in KCL to approximately 5.7 per cent. The capital gains potential in both these issues adds to their attraction as quality investments. Furthermore, your other holdings give you no representation in either the rails or the oils. I would make no other changes in your portfolio.

Market Shuts Lower After Dull Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed lower today in dull trading.

The market was dampened from the start as hope waned of any success for the latest United States effort to obtain coopeation from the enemy in deesclating the Viet Nam war.

Confidence dimisnished as the Soviet Union slammed the door on the U.S. proposals and later North Viet Nam rejected as hypocritical the proposals put forth by Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg at the United Nations.

It was a fairly irregular decline with Illinois Central advancing strongly and Xerox rising a couple of points or so.

Losses of around 2 points were shown in late dealings by International Telephone and American Airlines while some glamor stocks such as Polaroid were off more than that.

Key stocks lost from fractions to more than a point. Glamor stocks fell 2 or more points.

The decline followed failure of the U.S. proposal to de-escalate the Viet Nam war. This proposal sparked a declining market to a strong recovery drive yesterday. The Soviet Union slammed the door on the U.S. proposal.

Du Pont lost 3; Polaroid nearly 5; Fairchild Camera 4; Scientific Data 2.

Down about a point were International Telephone, Standard Oil (New Jersey), American Airlines, United Air Lines and Magnavox.

Illinois Central spurted 6 points on news of a favorable court decision concerning airrights over about 200 acres of land on Lake Michigan. Later it cut the gain to less than 2.

Corning Glass rose 3, Schering more than a point.

Prices declined in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Novato Retail Sales Going Up

Retail sales in Novato were up for the first quarter of this fiscal year, according to figures released yesterday by Charles L. Foster, city director of finance.

The city yesterday received a check for $21,278 for the final payment on its share of the first quarter of the fiscal year in sales tax, bringing the quarter total to $56,278, Foster said.

This is more than $10,000 more than the $46,053 for the same quarter of last fiscal year, he said.

DENNIS BROWN
Cleared for Peace Corps

Peace Corps Worker Goes After Delay

A 25-year-old Mill Valley student was on his way to New York and then two years in Iran with the Peace Corps today after a last-minute administrative foul-up that may have decimated one of the training groups going to that country.

Dennis Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown of 168 Woodbine Drive, Mill Valley, completed 12 weeks of training with Iran Group 12 at Reed College on Sept. 10. He and 17 others in his group of 37 trainees were put in a state of "administrative hold" while the government did a personal background check.

Finally, at 1:30 p.m. yesterday, he received a telephone call from the Peace Corps in Washington, informing him that he had been cleared and was to fly to New York today. He and the others who have been cleared will fly tomorrow to Iran, where they will all teach English.

The personnel check is a thorough examination of a Corpsman's background by the Civil Service Commission and, sometimes, by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The delay in making the check on the trainees in Iran Group 12 may have cost the government several thousand dollars. The plane taking them to Iran was chartered at $600 per seat.

Brown is a 1958 graduate of Tamalpais High School who attended College of Marin and received a B.A degree in social science in 1963 and a secondary teaching credential in 1964 from San Francisco State College.

He did not know before departure how many of the other 17 had been cleared in time for the flight.

Kentfield Board To Vote Monday

The Kentfield School District board will interview applicants for the district superintendent's post in closed session after the regular board meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School.

Supt. Howard C. Harmon will not be at the meeting. He will be in Carlsbad, San Diego County, where he has accepted a job as superintendent.

Applications for the job will be screened tomorrow, and some of the applicants will be invited to Monday's meeting.

In regular session the board will consider hiring a new secretary and relocating water pipes at Adaline E. Kent School.

Ross Council Appoints New Treasurer

The Ross Town Council last night accepted the resignation of Mrs. William P. Muller as treasurer and finance officer, and offered the treasurer's post to Mrs. Benjamin Innes of 58 Winship Avenue.

Mayor Frederick S. Allen said the council probably will hire a professional accounting firm to take over the bookkeeping duties of the finance officer. He said the council is considering an offer from Wolf and Co., which has an office at 900 Mission Street, San Rafael, and hopes to receive other offers as well.

The meeting was attended by almost a dozen Redwood High School students from senior American Government classes, who are assigned to attend municipal or county government meetings to watch how these agencies function. "We prolonged the meeting a bit for their benefit," said Allen.

Marinite Quits Post With BARTD

Lawrence Halprin of Kentfield resigned yesterday as landscape architect for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, charging that aesthetic and human values were being sacrificed to engineering.

He said, "Your engineering is superb, but you have not yet understood that it cannot replace environmental quality control vital to having great cities and regions.

His resignation came three days after that of consulting architect Donn Emmons, of Mill Valley, who issued similar charges.

There appeared little likelihood BART Gen. Mgr. B. R. Stokes would succeed in persuading Halprin to change his mind. The internationally known landscape architect said he was turning back $35,000 in fees, some of which represents work done.

Said Halprin, "I'm quitting in an honest hope something will be done to improve the system."

Six Months Given In Burglary Case

James Burton O'Connor, 38, of Napa, has been given six months in county jail on his guilty plea in Marin Superior Court to burglary.

Judge Thomas F. Keating ruled the sentence will run concurrently with a six-month term O'Connor is serving in San Francisco, also for burglary.

He entered the home of Maxine Stoerker, 128 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, on Feb. 26, 1865. San Francisco police arrested him June 4.

NCO's Growing Role In Air Force Told

The growing role of the Non-Commissioned officer in the Air Force was the topic for the commencement address today of Brig. Gen. (Ret.) Stephen B. Mack to the Non-Commissioned Officers Academy at Hamilton Air Force Base.

A class of 78 men was to graduate.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Sept. 23, the 266th day of 1966 with 99 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase; the morning stars are Saturn, Jupiter, Mars and Venue; the evening star is Saturn.

The first Roman emperor, Octavius Caesar Augustus, was born on this day in 63 B. .

On this day in history:

In 1779 the "U.S.S. Bonhomme Richard," commanded by the American naval hero John Paul Jones, defeated the British frigate "Serapis" in a battle off the coast of Scotland.

In 1926, Jack Dempsey lost the heavyweight boxing championship to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia.

In 1943, the United States, Britain, Russia and China established the United Nationsl Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to help war-liberated areas of the world.

In 1950, Congress adopted the Internal Security Act, providing for registration of Communists.

A thought for the day—Welsh poet Dylan Thomas said: "Do not go gentle into that good night, old age should burn and rave at close of day . . . rage, rage against the dying of the light."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Playing Right Card At Wrong Time Is Champions' Method

If you're in training for the Drop the Trick Championship in the 1968 Olympics, don't concentrate on crude methods.

Anybody can handle the trumps badly or take the wrong finesse.

The champion's way to drop a trick is to play the right card at the wrong time.

Opening lead — ♠ 6

Declarer won the first trump in dummy to start the clubs. West captured the king of clubs with the ace and returned a trump to South's ten.

South had a good plan: he would ruff a club in dummy, get back with a red ace, ruff the other low club in dummy and get back with the other red ace.

Then he would draw the last two trumps and claim the slam.

It was a good plan, but South showed that he was a champion at heart by taking his red aces in the wrong order.

After ruffing the first low club in dummy he returned to his hand with the ace of hearts. It was a play that might easily win an Olympic contest.

DISCARDS DIAMOND

When South led the other low club West discarded his singleton diamond. Declarer ruffed the club in dummy and led a diamond to the ace, whereupon West defeated the slam by ruffing.

If South wants to make his slam he should begin with the longer red suit rather than the shorter.

The danger of a singleton heart is much smaller than the danger of a singleton diamond.

After ruffing the first low club in dummy South should get to his hand with the ace of diamonds.

He ruffs he other low club, and now West cannot do any damage.

MRS. JAMES KILPATRICK, instructor for the San Marin Pisceans, watches the girls go into their Swiss routine as part of the "Continental Capers" to be presented Sunday. Instructor At Home In And Out Of Water

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Ballet, both in and out of water, has been the avocation and is now the vocation of Mrs. James Kilpatrick of Novato, the former Kathy Poganski.

Kathy, the instructor of the San Marin Pisceans, Novato's competitive synchronized swim team, will present the team in their first water show, "Continental Capers," at 1:30 p.m., Sunday, at the San Marin Club. And they hope to make the show an annual event.

Before becoming an instructor, Kathy swam for 11 years. Prior to that she took ballet with the Junior Cotillion in San Rafael. She also swam and then taught a synchronized team at Ann Curtis School of Swimming in San Rafael.

"Ballet lessons before taking swimming help tremendously," she said.

"I like modern dance and that helps in interpreting swimming routines and synchronizations."

A VERY AMBITIOUS and athletic young woman, Mrs. Kilpatrick has not only been interested in swimming.

A graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, she also took a course in judo while a student there and for the past several summers she has served as a lifeguard at Drake. During the school months she teaches a course on Saturday mornings for the recreation department there where the youngsters participate in folk and modern dance, trampoline and team sports.

Her schedule includes 14 hours around the swim pool and nearly twice that much time studying costumes, listening to music and cutting records to be used in the various synchronization routines as well as solo numbers which she and her students perform.

Kathy and her husband, an employee of Lee Brothers, are parents of a daughter, Kim, two years of age.

"I'm very fortunate to have a husband who is so understanding about my work, as I have to be away from home so many hours," Mrs. Kilpatrick said.

DRESSED IN GERMAN costumes are Terry Begg and Kristy Krabbe, who will perform a duet at the first water show of the San Marin Pisceans to be held at the San Marin Club in Novato at 1:30 p.m., Sunday. The girls will swim to the music "Wunderbar" and here they perform a flamingo.

KATHY KILPATRICK is assisted with the costume designing by Mrs. David Bordner of San Anselmo, and the mothers of the swimmers do the actual sewing.

Twenty-six young girls will be participating in the show Sunday which will have an international theme with eight lands represented including Switzerland, China, Spain, Germany, Africa, Iran, the South Pacific and the United States.

Three members of the Novato Aquanats diving squad will also participate, and Kathy will perform a solo entitled "Baghdad."

Rollin Post, of Greenbrae, television reporter, will be the show moderator.

Working Mother, Part 5

Job Comes With One Deficit

By LOIS BENJAMIN

Fifth of 12 articles, based on the best-selling book, "So You Want To Be a Working Mother!"

No matter what kind of work you do, if you're a mother, the job comes with at least one big fringe deficit: your conscience. As regularly as coffee breaks, a working mother gets guilt twinges. (Bobby has 103 degree fever; what am I doing here typing memos? Mary is playing the Bunny in the school Easter play; what am I doing selling insurance?)

I've always been fascinated by the fact that mothers who don't have jobs rarely develop guilt complexes, no matter how much time they spend away from their children. The chances are that when their children really need them, they do stay home.

For the mother whose youngster is sick, the answer to whether or not he needs you is dictated not so much by how the thermometer reads as by how the child feels about being sick. What kind of child is Bobby? How well can he take illness? How tender are the ministrations of the person caring for him?

It's no good talking yourself into guilt feelings just because a child cries when you leave. Mothers who don't work, I find, are generally a lot cooler about children's illnesses, and they know when and how to shrug off those tears. The working mother often lets herself be bullied by a whimpering youngster. She thinks she's wrong to go to work, so when that small sob-choked voice pleads, "Don't go," it's like an echo from her own tormented heart. This isn't constructive use of a guilty conscience.

THE KEY TO MAKING the right decision every time lies in finding the delicate balance between your level working head and your not-so-level mothering heart. Do what you think you should but never base it on guilt alone.

This rule ought to hold up equally for when you are home. It's bad enough lugging that heavy conscience to the office at 9 a.m., but most of us also insist on lugging it back home at 5 and letting it browbeat us all night.

We are so frantic about making up to our families for "lost" time that we ignore outrageous behavior, give in to every demand, let mischief go unpunished, bite our tongues to keep from admitting we're tired, and generally knock ourselves out playing what we think is Supermother, to prove to that nagging inner voice that we really aren't dreadful.

And it's all so unnecessary. If only we could master a few magic words that stay-at-home mothers roll out all day long — "not right now," "don't interrupt," "it's bedtime," and "I said no!"

To get the hang of this you need to feel as relaxed about being home as if you had been there all day. And even more important, your children need to feel the same way.

WHAT HAPPENS when you come home from the office? How do you make a transition from work to mothering? Start small—by refusing to make or take social phone calls for the first few hours after you get in. Make it a rule not to start important conversations with your husband until after the children are asleep.

My kids have never gone to sleep much before 9. Weekdays, I figure an afternoon nap is worth its weight in gold. It's an hour off for the nursemaid to get other things done; it's an hour that can be added painlessly onto the evening, making possible a solid stretch of three hours for being with Mommy. If they won't nap, they ought to get to stay up anyway.

In three hours plenty of discipline problems will come up; so may angry outbursts, yelling and a fair number of well-placed slaps. I don't say I've ever felt guilty about any of these. When I'm justifiably angry, I'll be darned if I'll let a guilty conscience tell me not to show it.

ON THE OTHER hand, I'm also willing to understand that "excessive boisterousness" when I'm around is just excitement at having me home. If a child bursts itno a room shouting when I'm on the phone, or gets into things that he knows are forbidden, I can make allowances for the fact that he needs to be paid attention to right this minute, and that this is his way of saying so. Any mother knows that.

The moral is that we've got to stop driving ourselves to do more for the children in goods and services than sense indi- to stop buying more toys than if we were homebody mothers; we've got to stop dispensing too many treats, planning too many special occasions, and allowing ourselves too little relief from the burdens of parenthood.

SUBURBAN SCENE—

By MOLLY MARIN

Mill Valley's famous soprano Jane Marsh was indirectly responsible for Lady Bird Johnson's attendance at the opening night of the San Francisco Opera Tuesday. When San Francisco Opera Director Kurt Herbert Adler was present as a special guest at the concert in which Jane was the star of the evening at the White House recently, he invited the First Lady to be a special guest at the San Francisco opening. During intermission Jane visited with Lady Bird in her box, for she had had the opportunity to become acquainted with her in Washington.

LATEST news of Jane's plans is that she returned to San Francisco after the Washington Concert for more study with Lili Wexberg and Otto Guth before she returns to New York Tuesday. There she will sing in a gala performance honoring the birthday of RCA President General Sarnoff at the Waldorf Hotel. Her next TV appearances will be on the Bell Telephone Hour on Oct. 23 and on the Red Skelton show on Nov. 15.

FRIENDS OF Mr. and Mrs. John Sproul of San Rafael and their daughters, Suzanne, Nancy and Connie, are sorry to learn that they are moving to Chicago, Ill. Mr. Sproul is leaving Monday and Barbara and the girls will remain until their house — an interesting 97-yearlold restored Victorian home — is sold. Formerly a claims manager of an insurance company in San Francisco, Mr. Sproul will be president of an insurance agency for a holding company in Chicago. Barbara has been active in Marin Alumnae of Delta Zeta, Marin Branch of the American Assn. of University, the Fairhills Guild of the Louise A. HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Since When Does Having Money Make One Above Being Decent?

DEAR HELEN:

I just read another fatuous article about a famous movie and TV personality. Seems he treats the common serf like people instead of slaves, and so they gush mightily about his "common touch," how "kind and considerate" he is on the set. Why, he didn't blow up once! And he was never more than a half hour late!

Hokum! Since when does having money make you so above being decent that writers toot you to the skies simply because you act the way people are expected to act? Fame certainly shouldn't give anyone the right to trample "underlings" — or even consider them underlings. Nor should it change people into tyrants. If they are tyrants, that's news. If they aren't, why make a Big Thing of it?

So why this Oh and Ah business? — ON MY WAY UP

DEAR ON:

Seems ridiculous, doesn't it? But that's the way the typewriter clatters.

Reminds me of the time a writer, whose name I have happily forgotten, emoted, "And Mrs. Bottel has been married 25 years—to the SAME HUSBAND!" Why not, f'heavensake. I like the guy!—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I was interested in your "Are chroniclers of our times reporting trends or creating them?" as I have a theory: If suddenly all over the world, every news media started reporting at every opportunity that sex talk was passe, within a year we'll all be saying "Ho hum" whenever the word was mentioned.

We're a world full of sheep. We do as we're told, even unto pointed-toed shoes and getting bug-eyed over something as private as love. We'll believe anything, if we're bombarded with it often enough — and that can work in reverse too.—PHILOSOPHER

DEAR PHIL:

While you're probably right, let's hope your theory is never proved with all the wrong "propganda."

It probably never will be Why? Because of our tendency to over-publicize every new concept — from psychiatry to the sex revolution — then laugh it down to its rightful place in society, and go on the the next "startler." —H.

DEAR HELEN:

Nowadays it seems like the children run their parents.

My boy is 16 and looks and acts uncivilized in my opinion. His pants are skin tight, his hair too long, his temper too short and his morals too loose.

He dates late and other parents gets angry and blame us instead of my son.

How can I make him civilized? —K.A.Z.

DEAR K:

You started 16 years late. Children who run their parents have parents who would rather gripe than switch, (when a switch is definitely indicated).

Stop running and face facts: You are responsible for your son's actions, and you CAN call the tune as long as he lives under your roof.

It's time you left off fiddling around and blew the whistle on a boy who might even welcome it. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I sympathize with "Mrs. Blue and Downhearted" whose friends desert her when she is ill. It has happened to me over and over again. Even my doctor deserts me. I have been sick all my life, with stomach trouble, heart troubles, pains, headaches, and probably worse that stupid doctors can't find. Nobody bothers to visit me or call me up, though I call people whenever they're ill. I can usually tell them what's wrong because I've had the same thing. I get Very Depressed because all my symptoms point to terminal heart disease and my doctor insists I just need to "get out and do things."

Please send me Mrs. B. AND D.'s address so I can write and cheer her up. — ALSO FORSAKEN

DEAR A.F.:

Sorry. Mrs. B and D needs your brand of "cheer" like company for dinner. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of The Independent-Journal.

Spotlight Chicken Weekend Meat Buys

WASHINGTON (UPI) Weekend meat counters promised various beef roast cuts in ample supply. Pork, bacon, Boston butt, chops, ham, loin roasts, smoked picnics and spareribs are available in most areas.

Broiler-fryers hold the poultry-protein spotlight again another week. For an economical, good tasting meat, chicken is hard to beat.

Beans, carrots, cucumbers, celery and onions lead the vegetable list for weekend shopping. Lettuce, peppers, potatoes, radishes, squash, sweet potatoes and tomatoes are also in bountiful supply.

It's the start of the fall fruit season and apples, grapes and pears are widely offered.

Nationally, fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna are the fish buys for the weekend.

Eggs advanced 3 cents on the large and medium sizes and 2 cents on the small sizes in West Coast wholesale markets the past week, but ready-to-cook fryer chicken prices were down slightly all along the coast.

Fish report for the Western states: Dover sole, rockfish, fish sticks and portions, canned salmon and canned tuna.

GOWNS OF YESTERYEAR

The ultimate in elegance in decor and tea appointments provided a perfect setting yesterday afternoon for the program staged by Fashion Collectors Ltd., for the Sausalito Woman's Club. Pictured is Mrs. Richard F. Phillips, a past club president and one of the four women who modeled authentic period gowns they own. Mrs. Phillips is wearing a Victorian gown made in Paris but bought in Shanghai in 1882 by the grandmother of Mrs. J. E. Laidlaw, a club member.

FEATURED THIS SATURDAY
Recipes are sometimes closely guarded family secrets, particularly recipes for such things as watermelon pickles. But the women of Terra Linda Guild Number Four for Sunny Hills are willing to give their recipe for pickles and other choice morsels. They are among the products the guild makes for the Annual Sunny Hills Grape Festival. This year's festival will be Oct. 1, but readers of Marin Magazine tomorrow will get a preview in the story on the activities of the busy guild women.
Do you know where the Point Bonita Lighthouse is? Not many Marin residents are familiar with the old light and its history. Independent-Journal historian Florence Donnelly writes about it in tomorrow's Marin Magazine. She has found one early account of a reporter's horseback trip to inspect the light in its early days. Photos show how the light and the rugged Marin Coast appear today.

MARIN FILM FARE

What Daddy Did In The War Was To Laugh It Up In Italy

By LES DARD

No matter what your cinematic preference, there's something in store for you this weekend at Marin area theaters:

RAFAEL THEATER

Blake Edwards' newest, and perhaps wildest, laugh-fest is now on screen; "What Did You Do In The War, Daddy?"

A U.S. Army company during World War II is detailed to put an Italian village out of action. The Americans find the town held by Italian troops, quite willing to surrender without a fight. But, before the Americans take over there is to be a gala festival, in which all sides can participate.

As the straight-laced, by-the-rule-book U.S. Captain, we see Dick Shawn, and as his somewhat lighter-hearted counterpart on the Italian side, there's Sergio Fantoni. James Coburn and Aldo Ray are delightful as two of Shawn's disrespectful warriors who don't realize war is supposed to be a serious matter.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

Now playing is "Arabesque," starring Gregory Peck and Sophia Loren. It's a romantic espionage show.

Seems that eminent authority Peck is called in by an Arab millionaire to decode a secret message written in hieroglyphics.

The sets are opulent and arranged with an eye to striking color. The photography is by a technique known as indirect, with over a third of the footage being taken through mirrors, off car and train windows, shiny hubcaps, and the like.

SEQUOIA THEATER

Moving over to this theater is the flashy "How To Steal A Million," with its combination of suspense, comedy and romance with the talents of Peter O'Toole and Audrey Hepburn.

LARK THEATER

One of the finest "human comedies" is now on screen: "A Thousand Clowns." Jason Robards stars.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

Britain's answer to the Dynamic Duo is none other than "Modesty Blaise," now playing.

Monica Vitti takes the title role of a glamorous spy lady who constantly courts sudden death then flits away in the nick of time.

Also featured are Dirk Bogarde as the villian Gabriel and Terence Stamp as Modesty's assistant, Willie Garvin.

FAIRFAX THEATER

A one act Tennessee Williams play has been expanded into the provocative "This Property is Condemned." It stars Natalie Wood, Robert Redford and Charles Bronson.

Miss Wood plays the central character, daughter of a boarding house keeper in a deep South railroad town. The time is in the 30s. Arriving in town is what used to be known as an efficiency expert, Redford. He's an employee of the railroad sent in to check the operation and hand out pink slips.

Seems implausible that anyone can fall in love with his type, but Miss Wood manages it convincingly. She becomes finally forced into marriage with Bronson. The marriage is most brief, however, and soon she's chasing Redford to New Orleans. Mama isn't far behind. If this sounds a bit soap-opera-ish in the telling, don't worry.

101 DRIVE-IN

Julie Andrews and Paul Newman take starring roles in Alfred Hitchcock's latest: "Torn Curtain," tale of suspense and intrigue.

Newman plays an American scientist who pretends to defect to gain a formula known only by a famous East German professor. Miss Andrews, as his fiancee, doesn't know what's up, but follows her man through the Curtain, trying to persuade him to return.

MOTOR MOVIES

This weekend only, "What A Way To Go" Shirley MacLaine, Paul Newman, Robert Mitchum, Dean Martin, Gene Kelly, Robert Cummings and Dick Van Dyke.

Miss MacLaine is a girl with the Midas touch and the kiss of death.

Hence the title — and the fun, as she tries to give the government $200 million because she feels guilty and is sent to a psychiatrist for her trouble.

NOVATO THEATER

The island state of palm trees, hulas and luaus sets the romantic scene for Elvis Presley in "Paradise, Hawaiian Style," now on screen.

Viet Plane Losses Require Increase In Jet Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson Administration, faced with a steadily steepening air war in Viet Nam, has ordered 280 additional warplanes in fiscal 1968 at a cost of $700 million.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, announcing this yesterday, said most of the additional aircraft will go to the Navy which he said has had a higher loss rate per mission than originally expected.

The defense chief emphasized that thus far in the Viet Nam war the over-all aircraft loss rate is running "somewhat less than we estimated." But he also noted that sorties have exceeded original estimates by 5 to 10 per cent.

Pentagon figures show 505 U.S. planes have been downed in Viet Nam fighting to date, with 383 losses in North Viet Nam and 122 in the South.

In a statement, McNamara said the boost — estimated to be about 33 per cent over planned production — "was based on many factors, including projections on number and types of sorties and predicted loss rates."

But another Defense source put it this way:

"We're going to lose more Navy planes than we thought."

Navy planes, it was explained, are now flying attack missions in increased numbers over strategic targets in North Viet Nam. These are described by officials as higher loss-rate objectives.

McNamara told a news conference the planned production of warplanes in both fiscal 1967 and fiscal 1968, the year that begins next July 1, had been 800 to 1,000. Planes to be produced included F4 Phantom jets, A4 Douglas Skyhawks, A6 Drumman Intruders and Ling-Temco-Vought Corsaris.

Terra Linda Board Tries To Build Funds

The Terra Linda Park and Recreation District has a reserve fund of about $2,600, and there is a good chance the fund can be increased to $8,800 by the end of the fiscal year, finance chairman Dan Vittal reported Wednesday night.

The district is trying to build up sufficient reserve so that it will not have to borrow funds from the county each September.

Directors received notice from the county health department to abate a fire pit at Del Ganado Park, which is filling up with water.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

LIKE TO VISIT A SEWER PLANT? HERE'S YOUR CHANCE

Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District will hold open house at its expanded sewer plant at 300 Smith Ranch Road, Santa Venetia, Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. The plant may be reached from an entrance near Franchini's Chateau. The district's non-marching band will provide music from 2 to 2:30 p.m. Large white circular building at right is the new digester; two dark circles at far left, the new biofilter and final clarifier.

Teacher Shortage Worries County

A "critical" shortage of substitute high school teachers in Marin County has prompted the county schools office to appeal for more credentialled teachers for the county-wide substitute list.

The situation is already improving, said Charles McCully, administrative consultant, today. To begin the school year the county list — mailed to all high schools in the county — included only 30 substitute teachers, compared to 170 available for elementary schools. "However, this week we received 20 more applications from high school teachers," he said.

Already the San Rafael High School District has been unable to obtain substitutes for absent teachers, said Dr. William C. Jordan, acting superintendent of San Rafael Schools.

"The decrease in the number of substitute teachers available is probably caused by the increased number of regular full-time positions," Jordan said. "Many school districts in the Bay Area are using fderal funds, provided through the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, to hire more teachers and consequently reduce class sizes."

Neither Tamalpais High School District or Novato Unified School District has had difficulty in locating substitute high school teachers so far this year, their superintendents reported.

However, Anthony Matulich, superintendent of the Tomales High School District, said it's a continuing problem for his remote school.

"It's virtually impossible for us to get substitute teachers," he said, "in past years we've experienced a great deal of difficulty, although sometimes we have managed to get substitutes from Sonoma County."

McCully said teachers who hold high school teaching credentials may apply to him at the county school office in Corte Madera for placement on the substitute list.

Midtown Police Chase Nabs Youthful Driver

A 20-year-old San Rafael man was arrested last night after leading Police Officer Arthur E. Myers on a high speed chase through midtown San Rafael.

John C. LaVassaeur of 43 Lisbon Street was booked at the county jail on charges of reckless driving and hit-and-run. He was released on $716 bail.

With LaVesseur, but not charged with anything, was Gerald F. Young, 19, of 21 Francis Street, who had been released on $275 bail earlier in the day after being booked for speeding and driving with a suspended license.

Myers said he saw LaVasseur at about 10 p.m. speeding at Second and Shaver streets and gave chase with lights and siren going. Both car reached speeds up to 55 miles an hour, Myers said. He said the fleeing car went through two red lights as it led him on a crisscross pattern through the city, eventually doubling back to Second and Shaver, where the car went momentarily out of control, damaging a parked car.

LaVasseur was arrested when his car finally pulled into Young's driveway.

Santa Venetia Park Plans Given Nod

Preliminary plans for a $30,000 landscaping and improvement job at Descanso Park in Santa Venetia were approved in principle by Gallinas Village Community Service District directors last night.

Mrs. Marguerite Clark, secretary of the board, announced that another public meeting will be held at 8 p.m. on Oct. 6 to discuss final plans for the park. The meeting will be held at MacPhail School.

Landscape architect Henry Cole presented the plans last night to the directors. The park, about an acre in size, is located next to 805 Descanso Way. A turf area, tennis court, tether ball court, basketball standard, and play areas for tots to teen-agers are planned.

Mrs. Clark said directors hope the landscaping and improvement can be completed in about six months.

Reserve Oil Reserves Last Year's Losses

LOS ANGELES, — Reserve Oil and Gas Co. reported net income of $732,000 for the six months ended June 30, equal to 15 cents per share on 4,502,764 common shares outstanding, after preferred dividends, as compared with a net loss of $149,000 for the same period a year ago.

Income for the first half of 1965, after including special items of $447,000, amounted to $328,000. Operating revenues for the first six months of 1966 amounted to $5,528,000 compared with $2,634,000 for the comparable period last year.

Myna Bird Called To Witness Stand

Another voice has been added to the case of the myna bird whose owner is charged with growing marijuana.

On Tuesday, the talkative bird was taken in to the preliminary hearing of Louis Anthony Morell, 28, of 106 Dominga Avenue, Fairfax, to bolster Morell's contention that seed fed the bird must have contained stray marijuana seed.

When the bird's cage was washed out in the back yard, the marijuana apparently took root and grew, according to Thomas G. Fitzgerald, attorney for Morell. Judge Alvin R. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court took the case under submission.

The following night, the judge revealed today, he received an anonymous telephone call from a woman who said it is well-known that myna birds can't and don't eat bird seed—that they eat soft foods, instead.

Judge Goldstein instructed Morell in open court today to appear at 9 a.m. Next Friday with evidence that his bird actually eats seeds. Fitzgerald said they will do so, possible even with expert testimony from bird authorities.

Marin General Asks Parking Problem Aid

"Critical" parking facilities at Marin General Hospital cannot be solved unless the county realigns Bon Air Road, Hospital Administrator Ray K. Bolinger declared today in a letter to the County Board of Supervisors.

Bolinger said hospital directors request the county to proceed with realignment of the road so the hospital district can proceed with acquisition of property needed for parking. He wrote that the parking situation has "worsened over the past several years until it has now become a critical situation."

Rifle, Cigarettes Taken By Burglars

Loss of a bolt-action rifle in burglary of the home of John Kirby Welch Jr., 3102 Shelter Bay Avenue, Alto, was reported today by sheriff's deputies. They said no forced entry was evident.

Deputies said burglars removed three window panes at Marinwood Union Service station, 101 Marinwood Avenue, breaking into a cigarette machine and making off with an undetermined amount of cigarettes.

Drunk Driver's Term Suspended

William A. Merkelbach, 35, of 134 Westward Street, Corte Madera, yesterday was given a 180-day jail term, suspended on condition that he serve five days, in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving with a prior conviction.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas also fined him $550 and placed him on a year's probation. Merkelbach was arrested by California Highway Patrol June 17 on Highway 101.

John Theodore Gerssing, 52, of 1901 Novato Boulevard, Novato, was fined $225 and placed on a year's probation for drunken driving. He was arrested by the highway patrol July 8.

HUB'S MERCHANTS TARGET OF SCORN

Housewife Calls Shopping District Worst 'Mishmash This Side Of Watts'

San Anselmo merchants have taken a verbal pasting from a Hub City housewife who has been shopping with them for 10 years.

In a letter to the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Anne West of 21 Crescent Lane told the shop owners that she finally took a hard look at their downtown business district, and found it does not come up to scratch.

LIKE WATTS?

Aesthetically, she said, "the area is the most God-awful mishmash of colors, decors, ugly tile fronts, mis-matched awnings and peeling paint that can be seen this side of Watts."

Mrs. West, who ran unsuccessfully for the city council this year and is president of the San Anselmo Homes Assn., told the shop-keepers they must improve soon, "unless you are willing to see sales, property values and rentals decline drastically."

If improvements are not made, she said, the downtown area's doom will be sealed by the opening of the Red Hill Shopping Center. "Do you really intend to wait supinely while a well-organized competition lowers the boom?" she asked the chamber of commerce.

Mrs. West's hard look at the downtown area combined past shopping experiences with observations made during a walking tour of the area. She was not happy with what she found, and, naming names, told each merchant how to improve.

MARKETS SCOLDED

Of one of the city's largest supermarkets, she said: "A byword among shoppers for poor service; usually out of at least one item on a shopping list. Grim parking lot. Messy looking interior."

Farther up the street, another market came in for harsh words: "Interior of this store is a mess and so is the store front, though much could be done with it."

Of one downtown service station, she wrote: "Words fail me. This should be entered in a contest for the ugliest, messiest gas station in Marin County."

At one point, she interrupted her shop-by-shop tour for an overall perspective: "Standing on the upper bridge and several feet back from the sidewalk, I look across the street and observe the distressing results of an un-coordinated design. I see green, black, red and blue tiles; a green awning on a building with a black and blue sign, green woodwork, yellow-orange building topped by a gigantic, dirty, black, white and red sign . . . Every building in sight needs repainting and I don't see one attractive architectural line from this position."

Some, but only a few, of the merchants received good grades from Mrs. West. Of Aristocratic Flowers, she said: "Enthusiastic marks on all counts."

Kaufman's Men's Shop, she said, is: "Good store, good display, good design."

GOOD EXAMPLES

In the letter which accompanied the findings of her window shopping tour, Mrs. West told the merchants what a good shopping area should consist of:

"It is a compact area in which a variety of goods and services are offered. In the best and most profitable examples, the area has been planned so that architectural decor, colors and signs blend harmoniously. A unified advertising campaign advertises the area as a whole and one simple name covers the entire area."

On the plus side, she said, San Anselmo merchants "have a fairly compact area. It already offers a variety of goods and services, most of which are good; many of the businessmen have the inestimable advantage of good will built up my many years tenure."

However, she said, the area is sadly lacking aesthetically. Just another example, she said, is the apeparance of the sidewalks: "Everybody should replace the sidewalks, which are nearly uniformly dirty, stained, cracked and decrepit."

"Organize," she urged, "before it is too late for some of you, and put in some hard nosed rules about appearance and advertising."

Coincidences In Novato Crashes

Two Novato women were taken to Novato Hospital after separate accidents that happened simultaneously in two parts of the city yesterday, according to police.

Mrs. Joseph Bonomolo, 48, of 201 San Felipe Way, was hospitalized overnight for observation and released today with no apparent injury. She was backing her car out of 1114 Grant Avenue at 1:15 p.m. and was hit by an auto westbound on Grant Avenue, driven by Mrs. Leota Etta Militello, 40, of 278 Etta Court, San Rafael, police reported.

At the same minute, Dolores Ward, 51, of 220 Marin Oaks, drove her car into a wall behind Joseph Bonomolo's service station at 306 Diablo Avenue. She was examined at the hospital and released with no apparent injuries.

Dias Ranch Plans Slated For Hearing

Proposed development of about 22 acres of the Diaz Ranch at Shoreline and Panoramic highways in Tamalpais Valley will head the agenda for the Monday meeting of the Marin County Planning Commission.

The commission meeting will start at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Civic Center.

The Diaz Ranch development calls for 122 dwelling units, a sales office and recreation facilities.

The planning commission will also consider rezoning of various parcels in Lomita Park, which includes portions of Bret Harte and Bret Harte Heights near San Rafael. The rezoning would in general reduce the density.

A tentative map for Paradise Cay No. 3, which calls for 46 lots on 14 acres, is expected to meet opposition. Residents of Paradise Cay are objecting on grounds that existing homes are sinking and cracking, and the new site may be worse.

Other items on the planning commission agenda include:

A permit for a distribution building for Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. at Hamilton Industrial Park, Ignacio; revisions to the plans for the building containing Sabella's restaurant and other shops at Alto; appeal of the zoning administrator's decision to approve the Marin Mental Health Foundation at 8 Toussin Street, Kentfield, for daytime care of up to 14 patients; permit for cocktail lounge, bar and restaurant at Atherton Club, Novato.

Hearing date to discuss alternate routes for Highway 17, the east-west connection between Highway 101 and Point Reyes, is to be set during the session.

Sea Science Station Open To Pupil Tours

The college of Marin's Bolinas marine science station is open for tours by elementary and high school students Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The tour includes an inspection of the marine laboratory, which has 20 student work desks equipped with microscopes, and a field trip to the surrounding beach. Tours can be arranged through Albert C. Heppe, assistant dean of instruction.

San Rafael Motorist Injured In Crash

Blake L. Green, 49, of 34 Grove Street, San Rafael, was treated for chest and shoulder injuries at Marin General Hospital Wednesday night after his northbound car struck a guard rail on Highway 101 just north of the Greenbrae Overpass at 7:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The California Highway Patrol said Green said a car cut in front of him and caused him to swerve.

Beat Inflation . . . Buy Real Estate

A COMPARISON OF INTEREST RATES

There are a lot of complaints, today, about the high interest rates on real estate mortgages. However, these are low when compared with other interest charges. For example, people who balk at paying 6½% on a real estate loan will often go out and blithely sign a contract for a color television, refrigerator, and so forth. They will eagerly agree to pay the interest rate which seems low but, in reality, is exorbitant. This is what they really pay when the interest is added to the purchase price and the total repaid in 12 monthly installments: When they say "6% per year," true annual interest is 10.9%; "8% per year" is actually 14.5%; "10% per year" amounts to 18%; and "only 1%," or "1% per month" turns out to be a whopping 21%. It's easy to see that the current mortgage money rates are, by comparison, pretty much of a bargain.

You can depend on the salespeople that work here. They have been selling CONTINENTALS and all makes of used cars at LARRY BRINK'S for years. And people have been depending on LARRY BRINK for fine cars since 1955. No boss in the back room to try and get your trade below actual cash value! No boss in the back room telling the salesman to go out and try and confuse the potential buyers into paying more than any offer they have made. NO NONSENSE. The sale price of EVERY CAR is plainly marked on the windshield. That is why folks everywhere say that we are easy to deal with. Here are a few examples from our large inventory of SELECT USED CARS — each one carries our 12-MONTH SELECT USED CAR WARRANTY.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

No Advantage To Keeping Secret From Child With Acute Leukemia

VAN DELLEN

Should a child with a serious ailment such as acute leukemia be told the truth about his condition? This is a moot question but there is no harm in being truthful about the diagnosis without delving into the outcome. Leave the latter to the physician who is more informed and better prepared emotionally.

The older child with acute leukemia knows something is wrong because he sees the physician frequently, takes special medicine, senses the concern of his parents and overhears statements regarding his health. In addition he has something that makes him different from his playmates. Despite this, most youngsters remain relatively hopeful. The younger child may ask a few questions which should be answered but the parents should not initiate the discussion.

The most difficult task confronting a physician is to tell parents that their child has an incurable disease. Their first reaction may be one of guilt because they feel responsible to themselves and their family. Others would prefer to have the ordeal over quickly. A few ignore reality and take the child to the far corners of the earth in a frantic search for a cure.

Hospitalization is suggested to administer X-ray or chemicals that make the child more comfortable and prolong life. This may be a difficult experience, especially when it is his first separation from home. The first few days usually are a period of protest and the child clings to his parents and cries when they leave. It helps when the youngster has his favorite toy or possession. Be truthful and never say, "I'll be right back."

The second phase is a period of despair, with crying and lack of interest in visitors and playing. A partial adjustment takes place within a few days as the youngster becomes more comfortable and begins to play happily with other children. He may ignore his parents who are now upset and cannot understand what is happening. There is no need to worry because the child knows that his parents still love him and will not desert him.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SEAT GLAND INFECTION

V. C. writes: What can be done for infections of the sweat glands?

REPLY

Minor infections respond to cleanliness and the application of hot, moist towels. When these glands become plugged, an eruption resembling prickly heat occurs and occasionally abscesses form; this will need more expert care because drainage or removal is in order.

SEASICKNESS

J. Y. writes: A woman of 70 is going to Europe by ship. Would it be safe for her to take a seasickness remedy?

REPLY

Yes. Furthermore, it is a good policy for persons in their 70s to avoid the strain of nausea and vomiting.

MYOPIC YOUNGSTER

Mrs. S. A. writes: Can I do anything to prevent the vision of my 12-year-old child from getting worse? He is nearsighted..

REPLY

You can't, but nature will. As a rule, nearsightedness becomes stabilized in adolescence.

BE CHARITABLE

N. E. writes: Could bad sores on a person's face mean he has syphilis?

REPLY

Syphilis is only one of hundreds of causes of skin lesions. Why not give the individual in question the benefit of the doubt and not start vicious rumors?

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Parents, Child Suppor Laws

Care, concern and support between a parent and child is a natural, strong duty that binds each to look out for the other.

The legal duty to support the other has never been fully established. Parents, generally, support their young children. But the law treats adult children differently. Under English common law the grown child was free of his parents, and his parents of him. Neither had a legal duty to support the other.

The California law did not strictly follow the common law. It said that when a child or parent could not support himself the other had the duty to help support him. With certain limitations, if a person became a public charge, such as an inmate in a public hospital, mental institution or even subject to certain public assistance, the parent or adult child has been required to contribute to his support.

In a recent case, the California Supreme Court found one of these support laws unconstitutional. In this case McNutt's mother was put in a state mental institution. The State sent him a bill for her care and treatment. McNutt said that this was unfair to make him pay. Besides, his mother had a little money of her own. The State should use that money up first, the son contended.

The Supreme Court agreed with McNutt. The treatment of insane persons in state hospitals who would be dangerous to themselves or to others is a state function, like police and fire protection. The state must pay the cost and all taxpayers would thus bear this burden.

The law making children pay for the care of parents in a state mental institution violated the "equal protection" clause of the constitution.

This decision raises other questions as yet unanswered. Must the husband pay for the care of a wife who is in a state hospital because of alcoholism or drug addiction? Are parents responsible for the cost of care of a child in a state mental hospital or other state institution?

Note: California lawyers offer this column so you may know about our laws.

After 300 years of Shan tribesmen rule in Burma, a Burmese king defeated the Shans and in modern times they have been confined to 33 Shan states covering some 58,000 square miles.

Mrs. Wallace Has Part Term

When Tamalpais High School District trustees appointed Mrs. Joseph B. Wallace of Belvedere to board membership Monday night, they appointed her to replace resigning trustee J. M. Stubblebine, according to Supt. Chester G. Carlisle.

Dr. Stubblebine's term expires next April, which means that Mrs. wallace will have to run for election at that time if she wishes to retain her seat on the board.

The board must still appoint a trustee to replace Mrs. Marietta Larsen, who died recently. Her term still has three years to run, Carlisle said.

Marijuana Sale Case Dismissed

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Marin Municipal Court yesterday dismissed a felony complaint of marijuana sale against John William Rundle, 19, of 919 Scott Street, Novato.

The Judge said evidence presented at an April 28 preliminary hearing failed to show criminal intent by Rundle.

He had referred the case to juvenile court, but it was returned to municipal court for further proceedings. Rundle allegedly sold a matchbox of marijuana to an acquaintance on March 2.

Rundle and William Francis Victorine Jr., 19, of Atascadero, are charged with burglary from the car of John D. Howard in Novato on May 24. They were bound over to Marin Superior Court Wednesday.

Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court yesterday sentenced Donald McIntyre, 33, of Fairfax, to three to 5 years in state prison for committing homosexual acts with three youths.

McIntyre, of 1615B Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, has completed a 90-day observation period at Atascadero State Hospital.

He pleaded guilty to the offenses, committed with Fairfax youths, on April 27.

District Eyes Gap Treatment

The San Rafael Sanitation District board is keeping an eye on progress toward expansion of the Peacock Gap Sanitary Treatment Plant.

Under an agreement with the developer, first Latipac-Perini and then Draper Companies, the plant capacity was to be expanded from 400 to 900 connections.

The San Rafael City Council ruled last December that no more building permits be granted in the area when the capacity of 400 connections was reached.

In July the sanitation board authorized a claim against the performance bonding company to have the expansion completed.

Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, reported yesterday that directors urged him "to keep on top" of the expansion job.

Directors also approved expenditure of $300 for improvement of fencing at the main treatment plant. The next board meeting will be Oct. 6 at 5 p.m. at city hall.

Suspect Charged In Police Assault

Rupert Wesley Poe, 44, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a misdemeanor battery complaint for an alleged attack on Novato Police Officer Richard Longshore.

Judge Peter Allen Smith scheduled plea entry for 1:30 p.m. next Thursday.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Stars In Trouble With Bad Shows

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Some big stars are running into big trouble in the new television series.

By almost unanimous opinion, for instance, "The Tammy Grimes Show," a situation comedy about a madcap, goodhearted heiress, is simply awful, and an exceptional talent is wasted by being mishandled.

Garry Moore's comedy-variety hour is a pretty dreadful and nervous affair, with bad and pretentious material, no Carol Burnett to bolster the star anymore, and top-rated "Bonanza," as the competition.

Imogene Coca is in a situation comedy, "It's About Time," dealing with two astronauts who fly back into the prehistoric age, but even if the show should be a hit, it is embarrassing and degrading to watch this wonderful comedienne play a cavewoman in a wholly stupid program.

"The Jean Arthur Show," another situation series starring a top veteran comedienne, doesn't have a bad idea by presenting her as a warm hearted lawyer but the program is so lifeless, so witless and so trivial that it is an insult to her ability and her admirers.

Ann Sheridan is in a hillbilly comedy, and that's enough of a shock right there. It is called "Pistols 'n' Petticoats," and is about a Western family in which the women are crack shots. If they were, they's really know whom to plug. Miss Sheridan's fans must shudder too.

Roger Miller should have a pretty good show with his new half-hour variety series, but thus far he seems to be having trouble fitting into television's formatized approach, and in a sense that is meant as a compliment. However, he seems ill at ease, somewhat camera-shy and edge with the "protection" NBC-TV gives him in the form of star guests.

Barry Sullivan, a solid performer whose best acting ability—comedy—has generally escaped slot-minded television executives, is in a routine, cliche - filled Western, "The Road West," as a widower.

Chill Wills plays a conniving rancher whose rivals are two lazy cowpokes in a strained contemporary comedy, "The Rounders."

And Milton Berle, though his new variety hour is plenty of fun, is having station-clearance problems, which affect the ratings sharply.

Sex Education Plan Approved

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The San Jose City Council has approved a co-ordinated sex education program in schools for the fourth grade through high school.

By a 3-1 vote, the council approved a plan Wednesday drawn up by Superior Judge George Barnett.

Under the plan, human reproduction would be taught to fourth graders and fifth graders would learn about the birth process and menstruation. Details of venereal disease, plus the effects of smoking, alcohol and drugs, would be taught in the seventh and eighth grades.

Molest Charge Is Dismissed

A charge of molesting a 15-year-old girl was dismissed against Jesse Eugene Trout, 38, by Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court yesterday on grounds that the girl has retracted her account of the alleged offense.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas said the girl, only witness in prosecution of the case, informed him she gave misleading statements during the preliminary hearing for personal reasons. The girl is now a ward of the Marin County Juvenile Court and is in a foster home, Harold R. Hayes, attorney for Trout, informed the court.

Trout, of 121 Mono Avenue, Fairfax, is a former San Quentin Prison guard who served three years in state prison for kidnaping an Oakland supermarket manager and his wife.

Knitting Classes

Mrs. Robert Campbell of 1024 Eighth Street, Novato, who has taught knitting for four years under the Novato Adult Education Program, is forming classes in knitting to be given in her home afternoons and evenings, five days a week.

Gamma Rays May Help Store Food

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (SS)— Gamma irradiation may be an effective weapon in protecting food supplies from harmful insects, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers was told here.

Annual loss of stored grain and grain products is estimated to be more than $450 million in the United States alone, where the most efficient insect control programs are in effect.

Some insects seem to be developing a resistance to ordinary chemical insecticides such as malathion, DDT and lindane. Treatment by gamma irradiation appears to be as effective as any now available, is less time consuming than fumigation and leaves no harmful after effects.

However, only preliminary studies have been completed. Studies will be continued at Savannah, Ga., where a new irradiator using cobalt 60 as a source of gamma rays is being completed.

New York requires new drivers wishing to operate motorcycles to take special tests, including road maneuvers.

A Wild, WILD Pennant Celebration

By GORDON BEARD

ANAHEIM (AP)—"It's great, but it's a good thing it only happens once a year."

That was the criptic comment from weary third baseman Brooks Robinson when a racous two-hour clubhouse party came to an end as the Baltimore Orioles celebrated their first American League pennant.

"I was on nine pennant winners with the New York Yankees but this is the wildest celebration I ever saw," said Manager Hank Bauer.

"But this one means more to me than the others because I was manager."

After Russ Snyder made a diving catch in left center field for the final out yesterday as Jim Palmer beat Kansas City 6-1, the Orioles trooped into the clubhouse and the party was under way.

Corks on champagne bottles began popping amid screams and shouts.

Everyone within sight, including Oriole Board Chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger, was either thrown into the showers or doused with champagne, beer, shaving cream, milk, pickles, mustard or a variety of other food set out on a table in the clubhouse.

Perhaps the happiest of all was slugger Frank Robinson, who was obtained in a trade with the Cincinnati Reds last December and probably nailed down the Most Valuable Player award while leading the Orioles to the flag.

Robinson already has earned the unofficial MVP award for helping restore order aboard the team's bus and later on the charter plane, settling several disputes.

"It's nice to be wanted," Robinson kept repeating. The outfielder had said frequently during the season that he didn't understand why Cincinnati General Manager Bill DeWitt had traded him away.

"I'll tell you one thing," Robinson said, "it's better being on top than in sixth place"—referring to the current standing of the Reds.

Hoffberger, in a rare display of effronery, called DeWitt in Cincinnati at the height of the celebration.

"Years ago when I saw you at a baseball meeting," Hoffberger said, "I knew you were going to help me . . . and you did. I really want to thank you and I appreciate everything you've done for us."

"Ask him if he has any more players like Robinson," Bauer said.

Pitching coach Harry Brecheen, who played for three pennant winners, agreed with Bauer that the celebration was one of the wildest ever staged.

Curt Blefary, a 23-year-old outfielder in his second major league season, perhaps had the explanation.

"I haven't had a good night's sleep in a month and a half...tossing and turning and worrying all night," Blefary said. "We've been tense desipte our big lead because we've got so many young players on this club.

"In Thursday's game, I was so excited my hands were shaking. I was paying almost as much attention to the game in Detroit a I was our own game. The guys in our bullpen had the Tigers' game on the radioand kept telling us the score."

Detroit lost to California 5-3 just before the Baltimore game ended.

"There's never been a party like this one," Blefary said. "And you know what. We might have five more like this in a row."

Bauer, in his third season as Orioles' manager, captured the pennant after leading the team to a pair of third-place finishes.

In preparing for the World Series, Bauer said his chief problem was to see if Steve Barber had recovered from an arm injury and would be ready to pitch.

Barber was scheduled to start tonight's game here against the California Angels and probably will get two more starts before the Series.

NO TV CAMERAS FOR SAN RAFAEL GRIDDERS

San Rafael High School football players have been looking forward to seeing themselves on television tomorrow, but it won't happen.

KGO-TV, Channel 7, had planned to film tonight's 8 o'clock game at San Rafael field between the Bulldogs and Montgomery High of Santa Rosa and then show it tomorrow between 3 and 5 p.m.

But a Channel 7 spokesman today said the lighting at San Rafael's field is not adequate for television filming and the cameras have been sent to Kezar Stadium in San Francisco instead for the St. Ignatius-Poly prep football game this afternoon.

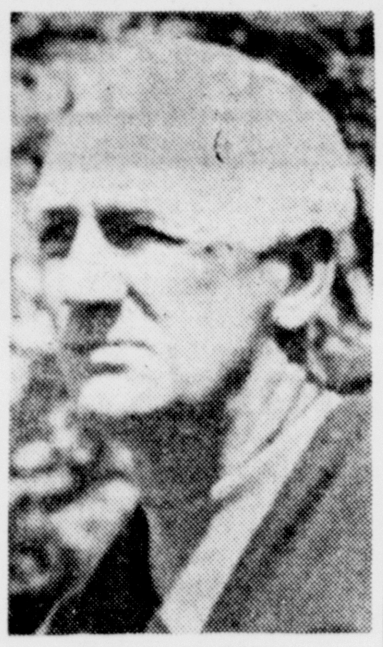
Tipsy Tackler Of 1940 So Well Remembered By Michigan Great

REMEMBER?: Tomorrow is an anniversary of sorts at Berkeley's Memorial Stadium. It was just about 26 years ago that Tommy Hormone led Michigan's Wolverines to a 41-0 rout of California's dirty golden bears.

That Sept. 28, 1940 game is memorable not particularly for the lopsided score, nor for old Hormone's devastating one-man destruction derby of scoring four TD's, passing to a fifth and kicking four conversions for 34 personal points. What we all remember the game for is that one of the greatest MISSED tackles in football history took place that day.

THINK BACK and you'll recall that Hormone had already scored two touchdowns and was racing toward his third when, to the amazement of 34,999 fans on hand, a bald-headed gent leaped out of the stands and raced toward the Michigan star, throwing a flying tackle at about the two-yard line.

Hormone, startled because he wasn't used to being tackled that day, particularly by inebriated spectators, managed to stiff arm the bald dome and spin away into the end zone.



TOMMY HARMON

THE TIPSY tackler turned out to be Harold J. "Bud" Brennan who still resides in the East Bay and admits he had a few cocktails that day. "I told my buddies that if Tom broke loose again, I'd go out there and tackle him myself," the now 55-year-old Brennan recalled the other day.

When Tommy Hormone, now a TV sportscaster, played in the Marin Tournament of Stars at Peacock Gap last Sunday, I buttonholed him and asked if he remembered the incident.

"YOU BET I do," he laughed at the first tee at Peacock. "I first spotted Bud when I was about 40 yards from the goal and couldn't figure it out. But the closer I got it became obvious. I gave him a straight arm and just sidestepped him. I remember laughing about it at the time. Later, when the police had him by our dressing room, I told them anyone can have too many beers once in a while and asked them to let him go. They did."

CONTINUING, THE former Michigan great chuckled, "I think Cal's stadium must seat 500,000 persons. That many people have told me they saw the incident. President Kennedy, however, DID see it. He told me he had been in the Bay Area waiting to leave for duty in the Pacific and attended the game. He even included it in his speech at a Hall of Fame ceremony."

Tommy said he hopes to fly back to the Bay Area tomorrow for Michigan's first game at Berkeley since that 1940 episode.

Hm? What's that you say? Oh, of course. It's Harmon, folks, HARMON.

WHILE AT Candlestick the other day for the Giants' final home game of the (regular) season, I overheard a couple of Pittsburgh scribes sneering at our slumping home team's personnel. When asked to list the Giant weaknesses, one scribe chortled: "Well, third base, second base, shortstop, catching, pitching, left field and right field."

Hmpf! When the Giants finish ahead of the Pirates I'm going to send that scribe a green weenie.

NICK KOBSEFF of Nicasio, chairman of Marin County March of Dimes, accompanied Pirate star Bill Mazeroski on a visit to Laguna Honda Hospital Tuesday. A young polio-muscular dystrophy victim had asked big-hearted Nick if he knew any ball players and could he get him an autograph? Nick did 100 per cent better than that by delivering Maz in person.

Pro Grid Merger Victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to legalize the proposed merger of the National and American Football Leagues goes before the full Senate after winning Judiciary Committee approval yesterday.

The measure provides that steps already taken to combine the two professional leagues would not be subject to antitrust action.

It would not grant complete antitrust immunity to the expanded league once it is established.

Under present merger plans, the 15 NFL teams and nine AFL teams would be combined into one league. Two more teams would be added by 1968 and eventually a total of 28 would be reached.

Plans include a championship game next January between champions of the NFL and AFL, a combined player draft and interleague preseason games next summer.

The Senate bill was introduced shortly after Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, refused to act on Senate-passed legislation completely exempting the merger from antitust laws.

Celler told NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle he would not act on the earlier bill this year but said the merger should go ahead anyway.

LEAGUES HESITANT

However, the two leagues were hesitant to proceed without legislative sanction. Earlier this week, Rozelle explained:

"We must be able to assure a sound and permanent structure for the entire plan. . ."We cannot do this if we are faced with the prospect of a prolonged period of disruptive legal challenge and uncertain litigation.

"The antitrust laws, designed for conventional business operations, are inappropriate and confusing when applied to professional team sports. The teams in a league must take certain joint action. Yet no one can be sure now just how the antitrust laws might be applied to these actions."

The bill would also extend to high schools the same protection against televising of pro games that colleges have had for several years.

The expanded professional league would be prohibited from televising games within 75 miles of the site of a high school game on Friday nights or Saturday afternoons between the second Friday in September and the second Saturday in December each year.

The new bill is sponsored by Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the Democratic whip, and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican minority leader. An identical bill has not been acted upon in the House.

Cal Bears Host Michigan; Injuns Invade Minnesota

Upset-Minded Bears Face Stern Test

BERKELEY (AP) — Michigan's Wolverines, ranked No. 9 nationally among collegiate football teams in The Associated Press poll, run into an upset-minded California club tomorrow which looks to spring its second surprise of 1966.

Michigan humiliated Oregon State of the Pacific-8 by a 41-0 count in its opener but could find California a more rugged foe from the West Coast group.

The Bears' defensive unit scored three touchdowns to overcome Washington State 21-6 in a conference game where the seasoned Cougars were favored.

All week, Coach Ray Willsey has stressed offense while saying, "To win, you have to be able to rely on defense and we certainly stood up under pressure."

The coach has shuffled the offensive line seeking to gain more punch after his runners gained only 142 yards against Washington State and the three passes thrown all fell incomplete.

Dan Berry again starts at quarterback with Frank Lynch at fullback and sophomore Rick Bennett at the running back spot. Bennett gained only 39 yards net in his debut but Cal looks for better things from him.

Assistant coach Bill Dutton, who scouted Michigan, told Willsey, "To win, we have to control the ball more and have a good balanced attack. Michigan has an explosive team.

California's sophomore defensive back Wayne Stewart, a basketball player standing 6 feet 7 inches, proved a standout as he intercepted three passes and ran one back 71 yards for a touchdown. The conference voted him the back of the week.

Senior safetyman Don Guest contributed another six-pointer when he ran a short field goal attempt back 108 yards for a conference record.

A crowd of about 40,000 is expected for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

Quarterbacks On Spot In Stanford Tilt

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Stanford and Minnesota, both still wondering just how good their rookie quarterbacks are, collide here tomorrow afternoon in an intersectional football game.

Neither team got the answers they were looking for in their season openers last week when the Indians rallied to defeat stubborn San Jose State 25-21 and the Gophers pushed Missouri around the first half and then collapsed, 24-0.

Stanford unveiled flashy sophomore quarterback Gene Washington in its season debut and the Long Beach yearling lived up to his advance billing. He scored one touchdown on a seven-yard run and threw two touchdown passes.

Minnesota opened at quarterback with Curt Wilson, a junior from Lawton, Okla., who lettered in 1965 as a kick return specialist because the Gophers had John Hankinson around. Hankinson rewrote Minnesota passing records in winding up a brilliant college career.

"Well, we lost," was Minnesota coach Murray Warmath's succinct appraisal of Wilson's debut. But the slick-running Wilson gained 70 yards in 14 carries and had a touchdown pass of 82 yards to end Ken Last nullified by a penalty in the first half against Missouri.

Wilson couldn't get the Gophers moving in the second half, however, while the Tigers bombed Minnesota out of the game in the final 30 minutes.

Wilson won't have Last to pass to Saturday, so the Gophers may have to resort even more to their running game against Stanford. Last is sidelined with a bad knee. So are defensive tackle Ed Duren and defensive back Dick Seitz.

Besides Washington's multitalents, Stanford hopes to have converted quarterback Dave Lewis back at full strength at right halfback. Lewis has been bothered by a sore arm, but if he is recovered he can give the Indians an added passing threat from a halfback slot.

Perry, Bolin Get Weekend Starts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Giants leave for Houston today for the start of a two-game weekend series but among the missing will be outfielder Ken Henderson, whose first major league home run ignited San Francisco to its 6-5 victory over Pittsburgh on Wednesday.

Henderson, the high-priced bonus baby who languished on the San Francisco bench during 1965 and played creditably at Phoenix this past summer, went home to San Diego a few hours after the Giants beat the Pirates on Wednesday.

The 20-year-old outfielder, who is being groomed for Willie Mays' replacement in center field—maybe even next year—reports for six months of Army duty on Monday.

Henderson hit .310 for the Giants since they called him up from Phoenix at the close of the Pacific Coast League season on Labor Day. He started seven games during the Giants' final home stand and got at least one hit in each game.

But the 390-foot homer he ripped on Wednesday was his big hit. It not only was Henderson's first major league homer but it also got the Giants rolling. They added another run in that same frame—the seventh—one more in the eighth and then won it with three runs in the ninth, one of them Juan Marichal's first homer of 1966 and only his second in the big leagues.

PERRY TOMORROW

The Giants send Gaylord Perry (20-8) against Larry Dierker in Saturday's game and will follow with Bob Bolin (10-10) on Sunday.

They then move on to Atlanta for a three-game set with the red-hot Braves, take off on Sept. 29 and conclude their season's work with a three-game series against the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

As of today, the Giants are in third place, four games behind the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers and two behind the second-place Pirates.

"We ain't dead yet," said a not too happy manager Herman Franks before the Giants departed town. "In this league almost anything can happen, but I have to admit our chances are not very good because there are two teams in front of us."

A Crippling Loss For The Pirates

By RON SPEER

ATLANTA (AP) — Pittsburgh Manager Harry Walker hopes Atlanta cools off and the Chicago Cubs get hot.

"The Braves are hot, but it's time for them to cool off before they burn themselves up," Walker said after Atlanta whipped the Pirates 14-1 last night in the first of a four-game series.

The rout knocked the second-place Pirates two games behind National League-leading Los Angeles, which started a series at Chicago today.

"Come on, Leo, don't let up now — get hot," said Walker, pulling for Leo Durocher's Cubs to slow the Dodgers' pennant drive. Walker, baseball's most talkative manager, wasn't silenced by the Atlanta outburst, touched off by Hank Aaron's 40th homer which drove in three in a six-run outburst in the fourth inning.

"This won't bother us," Walker said. "It was just one of those things. We got the hell beat out of us. All you can do when you lose that way is forget it.

"It's too late to get down now. Either we do it or we don't. There's not much you can do against a hot club except to hope they cool off," added Walker, who said one of the Pirates' problems "has been that we never have been able to get on an eight or 10-game streak."

RED HOT BRAVES

The victory was Atlanta's sixth in a row and the 19th of the Braves' last 21 games, a streak in which they have outscored their foes 134-54.

Seventh in the league when Billy Hitchcock took over as manager Aug. 9, Atlanta has won 30 and lost only 12 since Bobby Bragan was fired and now is fourth, eight games out of the lead.

The Braves moved a full game in front of fifth-place Philadelphia by slamming 13 hits off five Pittsburgh pitchers, with Aaron, Mack Jones and Gene Oliver clubbing homers.

Hitchcock, however, was proudest of Pat Jarvis, rookie pitcher who won his sixth straight game by stopping the Pirates on a five-hitter and giving up only two singles after the first inning.

Jarvis has lost only his opening assignment since coming up to the Braves from Richmond.

"He pitched a good ball game against us," said Walker, who hoped to check the Braves tonight with the pitching of big Bob Veale. Ken Johnson was scheduled to pitch for the Braves.

Novato Hornets In Home Opener

The defense was just fine—now the offense gets a chance to get untracked.

Novato High's football defenders put in overtime last week and were a large part responsible in giving the Hornets a 7-6 spine-tingler at College Park but the offense didn't generate sparks.

The fireworks may come when the Hornets host Petaluma at Novato tomorrow afternoon at 2.

The I-J football seers have made the Hornets favorites over Petaluma.

Petaluma had just the reverse kind of problem and was not half as fortunate.

Petaluma showed spurts of offensive strength especially in the late going but its defense was powdered on every side by a diversified Drake attack in a 25-12 Pirate victory at Kentfield Saturday.

"We'll have to be on our toes," Hornet coach Al Scott said. "But I think we'll do a good job."

Scott was pleased with the Hornet's performance Friday, especially by the way the defense rose to the occasion on numerous occasions.

"They were hungry, that's all," Scott said. "They kept them out.'

The Hornets will have to watch Petaluma quarterback Mike Martin, who will almost certainly get the starting job. Martin didn't start against Drake but came off the bench to complete 12 of 16 passes and fire two touchdown strikes in the second half.

"They're big and strong, but they're slow, too," Scott said of Petaluma. "They don't work together too well yet. But we'll certainly have to be on our toes."

It will be an older (by one game) team that faces Petaluma.

"A lot of boys came of age last week," Scott said. "We matured, and that's important.'

Scott thinks his offense should get untracked against Petaluma. Potentially, there could be a lot of untracking.

The Hornets have as fine a backfield as anyone in the country with fullback Mike Mazzoni, halfbacks Frank Perachiotti and Chuck Ashworth and quarterback Harold Fain.

The Novato lineup, barring injuries will remain unchanged with John Stewart, a rugged 205-pound tackle leading a small but quick-hitting line that also has Harry Johnson and Dennis Welch at the guards, Tom Hernberger at the other tackle and ends Gary Dinkle and Ray Jones.

Leading the well-tested defense will be 170-pound monster man Larry Stewart. Also added to the defensive lineup are middle guard George Maleciumus, tackles John Russell and Ron Dinkel and ends Rick Smith and Lewis Butty.

Finals Today In Women's Tourney

Mrs. Charles Gondak and Mrs. W. S. Sichel teed off for the championship of the Marin Country Club today, after winning semi-final rounds yesterday at the Novato course.

In Ruth's Shadow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Selkirk, general manager of the Washington Senators, replaced Babe Ruth in the New York Yankee outfield in 1934 and went on to compile a .290 lifetime batting average.

Terra Linda Vs. Ukiah Tomorrow

Terra Linda's football team, hurt by costly mistakes and the absence of a starting quarterback, lost its opener last week, 6-0.

Trojan coach Brad Squires hopes the mistakes won't be repeated and besides that he'll have Don Bowman, who sat out most of last week's game with a hand injury, back in action.

The Trojans won't be able to make too many mistakes when they travel to Ukiah for a practice game at 2 tomorrow afternoon.

Ukiah is reported to be big and strong, depending on a running game from some hefty backs and passing just enough to keep the defense honest.

The Woldcats trounced Headsburg, 34-6, last week with five different players scoring touchdowns. Two of the touchdowns came on 42 and 27-yard passes from quarterback Jim Slack, who also scored once on a 1-yard sneak.

But the big boom was lowered by backs Bob Jackson and Len Loe. Jackson amassed 213 yards in 28 carries for a 7.6 average and Loe punched out 69 yards in 14 tries.

The I-J football forecasters tabbed Ukiah to stop Terra Linda.

Actually, although the Trojans were shut out, Terra Linda was far from punchless. The Trojans moved the ball well but were hurt by errors or penalties at crucial times.

"We made a few mistakes. That hurt us," Squires said. "Our pass protection didn't help the passer too much, either."

With Bowman back, the Trojans will be passing quite a bit too, alternating between an aerial attack and handing the ball to little speedster Bill McNeill, full back Rich Jones, and his twin counterpart, Rod Jones at halfback.

Bowman probably will not have Paul Lee, who did a fine job in a substitute's role last week, to back him up. Lee suffered a charley horse last week and is a doubtful starter.

Drake Has Stiff Test At Vallejo Tonight

The Drake Pirates (and Petaluma) found they had a running attack after all, and that makes Coach Bob Franceschini a happy man.

But he's also wary about Drake's game at Vallejo High at 8 tonight.

Vallejo is favored over Drake in the weekly predictions by the fearless I-J forecasters.

"I was surprised with our running against Petaluma," Franceschini said. "We're a lot further along than I thought we would be."

The Pirates, with 145-pound John Brown quick-hitting for 138 yards, rolled over Petaluma in surprisingly easy fashion, 25-13, Saturday at Kentfield.

But they'll face a horse of a different color tonight.

Vallejo, big tough and constantly running, bowled over its first opponent with a grinding, explosive running attack, ripping highly-regarded Arroyo, 27-13, behind halfback Chris Reading, who rolled to 186 yards in nine carries and added an 86-yard touchdown run.

The Pirates are lucky. It seems they won't run up against Reading who suffered a dislocated finger joint in practice Wednesday. He has been declared out of the starting lineup.

"They're big, they hit hard and quick," Franceschini said. "They play like we do. They're going to be tough, and we're not taking them lightly."

Vallejo is defending champion of the North Bay League.

"I thought our defense did a real fine job the whole game," Franceschini said. "I think we need to bone up on our long pass coverage a little more though."

The Pirates worked more on passing this week and junior quarterback Don Stone will probably throw a lot more, although he did fire a pair of touchdown passes against Petaluma.

Franceschini will go with the same lineup that clicked so well against Petaluma, with Stone, Brown, fullback Tom Mauer and halfback Mark Rasmussen in the backfield.

Big, bruising Bill Hickerson, all 235 pounds of him, will be at center, matched by tackles Jerry Sprout, 6-5, 225, and Carl Gonser, 210. The guards will be Larry Gare and Al Logan, while Don Alvarado, who caught a 50-yard screen pass for a touchdown Saturday, and Chet Carlisle will be at the ends.

Franceschini indicated that Alvarado may possibly start at defensive right end, also.

Perry Hedin and Dennis Hernsmeyer will be in the defensive lineup in place of Logan and Stone.

Tam Indians Vs. Concord Team

There may be some football fireworks at College of Marin stadium tomorrow afternoon at 1:30.

That's when Tamalpais High clashes with College Park of Concord in a practice grid game and it will mark the Marin County debut of the Indians' sophomore quarterback Don Mackin.

Tamalpais is the unanimous choice of the I-J football prognosticators to whip College Park.

If Mackin comes anywhere close to his performance against Riordan at Kezar Stadium last week, the local debut ought to be a dandy.

Mackin racked up 256 yards through the airways and clicked on four touchdown passes, in addition to calling his own game, which is showing a lot of poise for a sophomore.

Unfortunately, the Tam defense was not quite as ready as Mackin and his crew of glue-fingered receivers. It gave up 36 points and the Indians lost, 24-36. But coach Willie Hector figures that his defenders will be ready this time.

"I think the defensive players will work together now," he said. "they had a little trouble with some of their stuff last week. We got hurt by three big mistakes and a fantastic catch by one of their ends and that was four touchdowns right there."

Hector has made three changes on his defensive team with Mike Fowler, already an established halfback, doubling up at linebacker and Pete Gardner and James Webb taking over at defensive tackles.

Otherwise it will be Leroy Barrow, Steve Woodward, Scott Laurie and Larry Adams in the defensive backfield, Bobby Chivers at middle guard, Barry Brink and Ron Kelly at defensive tackles and Phil Simpson at the other linebacker spot.

Fowler, fullback Reggie Walker and tailback Kirk Sparks give the Indians a solid running attack to go with Mackin's aerial tactics.

Catching a good share of Mackin's passes will be end Mike Biber, who caught two for touchdowns last week and his partner Scott Nelson.

College Park lost a toughie last Friday to Novato, 7-6, despite keeping the Hornets in their own backyard for most of a long game.

San Rafael Hosts Montgomery '11'

Keep your eye on Montgomery High's halfback Mel Gray tonight. San Rafael's football team will be doing that for sure, when the two teams clash at San Rafael at 8.

San Rafael, which emerged with a 7-7 tie at Canyon last week, will have to bottle up the elusive Bray if they hope to stop Montgomery at all. It would be close to stopping the entire Montgomery offensive machinery.

Montgomery is a unanimous choice to top San Rafael in the weekly poll of the I-J predictors.

For openers, here's what Gray did against Encinal last week in a 30-13 Montgomery victory:

Ran for four touchdowns on an 80-yard punt return, a 38-yard run after a screen pass, a 56-yard reverse, and a 25-yard run.

Passed for the other Montgomery touchdown, good for a 50-yard scoring play.

Returned a kickoff 51 yards to set up a touchdown.

Had one touchdown of 54 yards called back.

San Rafael plans to be in the air.

"We're going to pass," San Rafael coach Bob Muster said. "It's as good a way to move the ball as any Our quarterback, Bill Joost, did a real fine job for us last week and we're blessed with some kids that can catch the ball real well."

Muster had mixed reactions to the Canyon game.

"We need to pursue better, especially with this Gray boy coming," he said. "We made some mental mistakes and we need to hit a little quicker. On the other hand, I thought our pass defense did an excellent job, our pass protection was sound, we threw the ball well and I was satisfied with our kicking game."

Muster plans no major lineup changes, with Joost at quarterback, Mike Donahue at fullback and Bill Meredith and Dick Loomis at the halfbacks to round out the backfield.

Chris Klyse, a 210-pound junior tackle will spearhead a light line which also has 185-pound guard Mike Rosso, 160-pound guard Bob Maglione, 165-pound center Dave Wagg, and ends Rodger Widmer and Sam Crowell.

Steve Dilman may see some action at defensive tackle as will Doug Jones at defensive end. Mark Stevens may also wind up at offensive guard during the course of the game.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Heres' Place To Get Your Fish Smoked; Angling Is Improving

STEVENS

From Tony Caruso, of Caruso's Sausalito Harbor, comes word of where you may get your salmon, stripers or sturgeon kippered or smoked. Take 'em to Paladini's on Gold Street in San Francisco. Look for large sign near Sampson Street.

Tony assured me Paladini does a super job, and you get your own fish back.

FISHING HAS definitely taken an upward swing. That applies principally to salmon, rockfish and striped bass. Betty Urbais of the Sausalito Boat and Tackle called Wednesday morning to report the New Merimac boating 21 salmon to 32 pounds. "All of the fish weighed in excess of 20 pounds," she said. Then added, "The rockfishing boat, Blue Horizon, took limits of salmon to one lunker that weighed 44 pounds, caught by "Buck" Drake of Dos Palos."

By the way, The Blue Horizon will run for rockfish on Sunday. Call for a seat aboard her.

Tony Caruso reported the boat Marion boating two lunker salmon, one went 30 pounds and one weighed 42.

BEST ACTION AT this writing seems to be between the Lightship and Rocky Point. The boat, Kihaku, took limits (rockfish) for all aboard. To reserve a seat aboard the Kihaku, call Caruso's.

Here are congratulations to a new sturgeon fishing champ — Joe Wun of Castro Valley Sports Center reported 10-year-old Vicki Truscott, while fishing with Mom and Dad near the Sisters, hooked, played (one hour and 15 minutes) and brought in a nice 50-pound fish.

SAY! DID YOU ever hear of a hunter killing a wolf (the four-legged critter, not the whistling kind)? Well, Russ Musgrove did just that recently. It weighed 60 pounds and had long sharp teeth. The place was on the O'Connell Ranch above Mason. Seems the beast was seen by some of the O'Connell cowboys, and had been raising hob with the stock.

Jim Roads, of the Klamath River Guide Service reports: "Steelhead action picking up, particularly in the half-pound size. Few fish have reached Happy Camp, but the area above Ishi-Pishi Falls is loaded. Next big run of salmon will show in the Ishi-Pishi area the last week in September."

THE LATE DEER season opens tomorrow, the early season ends on Sunday.

Prospects in most areas are rated "fair," but the animals seem to be in good condition and maybe you will get yours. Here's hoping, and reminding you that the fire hazard is very high, so be careful.

$3.6 Million TV Deal For Nat'l Hockey Loop

NEW YORK (AP) — National Hockey League games will be televised coast-to-coast for the next three years, the result of an agreement reached yesterday between the expanding circuit and the Columbia Broadcasting System Television Network.

The contract covers Stanley Cup games during the upcoming season plus regular season and Cup games the following two years.

Details of the money package were not disclosed. However, it was learned that the NHL will receive $600,000 the first year, $1.2 million the second and $1.8 million in 1968-69.

Eight regular season games this year will be televised on weekends by an independent network from Feb. 10 through April 2. CBS will then telecast the Cup games.

For the next two years of the contract, CBS will telecast regular season afternoon games on week-ends, starting in January, plus the post-season games.

The NHL is scheduled to expand from six to 12 teams in Oct. 1967. The new teams will represent Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Los Angeles and San Francisco-Oakland.

Chicago, Detroit, New York, Boston, Toronto and Montreal are the existing six clubs.

Rams' All-Pro Finally Signs

LOS ANGELES (AP) Now there are none.

All-Pro defensive tackle Merlin Olsen ended his holdout of several weeks yesterday by signing a three-year contract with the Los Angeles Rams. He was the last player to sign a 1966 contract.

The National Football League team scheduled a workout today at Long Beach, before flying to Milwaukee, Wis., Saturday for Sunday's game with the Green Bay Packers. Both the Packers and Rams are 2-0 in the NFL Western Division.

Dallas Attendance Up

DALLAS (UPI) —The Dallas Cowboys' average attendance for home games increased from 21,417 per game when the team was formed in 1960 to 55,559 in 1965.

Redwood Treks To Antioch Tonight

"I still think this is going to be our year."

Coach Bob Troppmann is still confident that his Redwood Giants have a more than good shot at the Marin Athletic League football title this year. But he has worries, not the least of which are a rash of injuries and the thought of last week's unsettling 27-14 setback at the hands of El Cerrito.

The fearless I-J handicappers pick Redwood to rebound against Antioch tonight, 8 o'clock, at Antioch.

"We've got a good team," the veteran coach said. "The water is just a little muddy right now. Our blocking and tackling was not what it should have been last week and we made some mistakes. But we've worked on that this week."

The Giants will go to Antioch of the Diablo Valley League in search of their first win. And it won't be easy. Antioch was a 34-14 winner in its season opener."

"They're big and strong," Troppmann said. "Their backfield averages around 200 pounds."

Injuries have suddenly popped up all over the place. Alternate quarterback Ken Johnson and fullback Harvey Hand will be out for at least a week, maybe more with knee injuries. And tackle Jim Rogers, who was expected to see quite a bit of action, suffered a broken wrist last week and will be out for the season.

Even my barber is sick," Troppmann said.

Either Kevin Wilson, who completed nine of 11 passes against El Cerrito for two touchdowns or Jim Peters, an all-around athlete sophomore, will start at quarterback.

Peters has fine potential," Troppmann said. "We're going to see if we can't get him some experience.

A new face on the line will be 6-1, 195-pound senior center Doug Gray. He'll start along with ends Craig Scott and Joe Cooper, tackles Mark Herroro and Ken Erskine and guards Bud Lyons and Bill Poole.

One-way defensive players will be Bob Wayne at defensive halfback, Ward Johnson and Bill Schwab at defensive end and Joe Murphy at another defensive halfback.

Packer Ties Hirsch

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Don Hutson of the Green Bay Packers led the National Football League in pass receiving for eight seasons and is tied with Elroy Hirsch of Los Angeles for the league record of 17 touchdown catches in one season.

GOALBY LEADS GOLF

Big Blast Out Of Style At Seattle

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—The Big Blast was completely out of style and golfdom's touring clouters were playing for position instead of distance today as they moved into the second round of the $50,000 Greater Seattle-Everett Open with Bob Goalby in front with a 65.

Goalby's six-under-par effort cracked the course competitive record by a stroke but the tight little 6,123-yard Everett Country and Golf Club yielded just 25 sub-par rounds to the field of nearly 150.

There were few holes where the increasingly cautious visitors dared use a driver or even a lesser wood. As you stand on the tee to line up your drive the towering firs that fringe the fairways seem threatening to close ranks.

Most players were using five irons on the 300-yard 16th, which Charles Coody described as "shooting down a tube." But Chi Chi Rodriguez and Homero Blancas turned brave with drivers and each carded an eagle two.

Blancas was in a second-place tie with M. C. Fitts of Tuscaloosa, Ala., at 66 after the first round, each matching the former competitive record set by Seattle amateur Tom Storey in the 1963 Northwest Open. Chi Chi—and seven others—had 70s.

The veteran Jim Ferrier found the distance to his liking and checked in with 67, as did Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash.

Defending champion Gay Brewer had trouble getting his putts down and checked in with a 78.

POLITICAL BRIEFS

Brown Boosters Set Muir Beach Outing

A barbecue and dance will be held at Muir Beach Lodge on Oct. 1 by the Marin County Committee to re-elect Governor Brown.

The Democratic fund-raiser, called the Indian Summer barbecue and dance, will start at 6 p.m. The program includes dinner, dancing, entertainment and a "bizarre auction of artistic junk," according to the co-chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Swadesh of Tiburon and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watkin of Kentfield.

Mrs. Swadesh of 4410 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, is handling the reservations.

POCKRUS TALK

James E. Pockrus, Democratic nominee for the Seventh Assembly District (Marin-Sonoma), will speak Tuesday on "the need for technical high schools" at a meeting of the Mill Valley Lions Club at 7:30 p.m. at the Mill Valley golf clubhouse.

DOCTOR NAMED

Dr. Robert H. Conner of Ross has been named chairman of a Marin County Doctors for Reagan Committee, according to Paul R. Haerle, chairman of Ronald Reagan's gubernatorial campaign in Marin County. Others on the committee are Doctors Donovan O. Cooke, Bradford Simmons, Edward C. Sargent, Bruce S. Manheim and Richard J. Schneider.

STORER OUTING

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Donati of Greenbrae, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rouder of San Geronimo, and Mr. and Mrs. Hollie Smith of Mill Valley have been named to a committee to plan fund-raising moonlight cruises of San Francisco Bay for Thomas T. Storer's congressional campaign.

A cruise aboard the Harbor Queen leaves Number 5, Main Street, Tiburon, at 6 p.m. Sunday and will feature Turk Murphy's Jazz Band, cocktails, buffet dinner and dancing. Tickets are available at Storer Headquarters, 922 Irwin Street, San Rafael.

DAHL POST

Walter Irving Dahl of 220 Canal Street, San Rafael, former assemblyman from Alameda County, has been named executive director of citizen groups supporting Ronald Reagan in his gubernatorial campaign.

Dahl, who was also once mayor of Piedmont, was an assemblyman for nine years. He was Republican caucus chairman in the legislature for two years.

FINANCE NAMES

Thirteen new appointments have been made to the finance committee of the Marin County Reagan for Governor Committee by Paul R. Haerle, chairman.

Named to the finance committee were: Albert E. Castle, Theodore B. Craig, Charles I. Daniels Jr., Edwin Grundstrom, Herbert M. Hanson Jr., Walter Kieckhefer, Peter Martin, William H. McDevitt, William P. Murray Jr., Melville Owen, Arthur P. Vogel, Edward K. Wachsman and William O. Weissich.

Bee Watcher Crashes Car

A 17-year-old Mill Valley youth drove his car into a utility pole Wednesday while watching a bee inside the vehicle.

Heinz Scheuenstuhl of 320 Miller Avenue was driving east in the 300 block of Sycamore Avenue at about 7 a.m. when he noticed a bee against the windshield. According to the police report, he rolled down a window "and watched the bee edge toward it. The next thing he can recall is sitting in his stopped vehicle."

Scheuenstuhl was treated by his doctor for cuts on both legs and bruises on his forehead.

Judges Put Off Merger Date For Railroads

NEW YORK (AP) — A three-judge federal court has temporarily shelved the scheduled Sept. 30 merger of the Pennsylvania Railroad, the nation's largest, with the New York Central.

The judges said, however, their restraining order Wednesday does not mean they will issue a temporary injunction against the merger. They said that decision will be made either next week — when the merger was to formally take place — or the week after.

The Pennsy said it would have no comment on the court's action.

The court acted at a hearing on the request of nine other railroads to delay the merger until their protests were resolved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Larkspur Resident Speaks At Vienna Parley On Aging

James C. Frush Jr., of Larkspur has returned after speaking at the World Congress of Gerontology in Vienna.

Frush, vice president of Retirement Residence Inc., developer-administrator of the Tamalpais, a life-care housing development at Greenbrae, reported on a nine-month study on the economic and social problems of medical care for the elderly conducted at the Canterbury Woods retirement home at Pacific Grove.

He told delegates that proximity of medical facilities to housing meant greater economies as well as medical advantages in the treatment of persons over 75.

Among other points he made was that on-site medical facilities increase the scope and quality of out-patient treatment.

The accessibility of medical counsel, he said, facilitates early diagnosis of many illnesses which ultimately results in the need for less treatment.

The older a person gets after the age of 78, Frush told the congress, the greater his need for treatment of chronic illnesses as opposed to hospitalization for acute medical problems.

Commenting on the congress, Frush said American authorities submitted about one-third of the 900 papers accepted for reading.

The largest commercial shipment of UF 6, a uranium compound, in a single container was made recently in a new 30-inch diameter steel cylinder placed within a protective outer cylinder.

Youth Job Plan Gets U.S. Cash

The Neighborhood Youth Project, sponsored by Marin County supervisors, has been awarded a $114,360 grant by the federal government, Rep. Donald H. Clausen (R-First District) announced yesterday.

The project provides work experience for youngsters, provided they attend some type of school while working under the project, according to James E. McKenna of the county auditor's office.

McKenna said the funds, supplemented by $18,000 in county funds, will enable the project to run another year. Youths under the project worked at Tiburon, the Hilarita Housing Project, Marin City and the Civic Center this summer, receiving $1.30 an hour.

SUCCESSFUL CONDOMINIUM DEVELOPMENT

Harbor Village Townhouses, located on Canal Street between Larkspur and Novato streets, San Rafael, has experienced unusual spring and summer sales and units are now almost completely sold out. Apartments are grouped to form a hollow square permitting each family to overlook a large free-form pool in a park-like setting. Harbor Village was developed by Red Hill Properties Co. Sequoia Construction Co. was the builder.

SIMPLE ARCHITECTURAL LINES—Architect Gordon A. Phillips, who designed Harbor Village, gave apartment units almost severe lines, all finished in earthy or dull wood tones. But the play of light on this harmonious mixture of wood, stucco and masonary is very pleasing.

Air Conditioning Uses Heat Ducts

If you have central heating in your home you can easily enjoy the most popular form of indoor summer comfort today. For the centralized air cooling system uses the same ductwork that warms your home in the winter.

This form of cool air distribution eliminates shutting off rooms, uncomfortable areas, noise and other common summer annoyances.

You simply install the cooling unit next to your furnace and hook it up to the ductwork for evenly cooled and filtered air throughout the house.

Obsolete Drips

The dripping faucet, the historic bugaboo of many homes, has been made obsolete by the development of new types of valve units which can be slipped in or out of faucets and valves easily and quickly. The new faucet opens and closes with an easy up and down movement which presses the seat washer firmly against the seat.

Double Bedroom From Big Room

Here's how you can turn an oversize bedroom into a double bedroom for two children without cutting the larger room up into tiny cubicles.

Use a room divider which is fairly open, but still defines the two separate areas.

A good way to achieve this result is to build identical desks, one on each side of the divider and at opposite ends, but leave the area above the desks open. In this way, one child can look directly into the other part of the room, but, since the desks are at opposite ends, there is no conflict or diversion when the boys or girls are studying.

The room divider can have a center panel between the desks with shelves on each side for books and children's toys. Finish the wood in clear lacquer to make an attractive installation.

Shrewd Homes Sellers Cater To Hidden Buying Influences

AP NEWSFEATURES

If there is one thing the prospective home buyer isn't lacking, it's advice. It comes from anywhere and everywhere.

Two of the more interesting recent statements on the subject come from such widely divergent authorities as a motivational research expert and the president of a savings and loan association. The motivational research authority, Dr. Ernest Dichter, says the shrewd seller "caters to the hidden influences as well as the more obvious ones." And the president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of New York, Wesley J. Bahr, thinks most home buyers don't spend enough time studying the characteristics of the neighborhoods in which they plan to live.

What are these hidden influences Dr. Dichter is referring to? For one thing, he says, many builders make a mistake by reducing the sizes of rooms "when in fact it is against the wishes of the future home owner." In conducting a study of home buyers for Weyerhaeuser Company, he discovered that it's not only for space reasons that people these days want larger rooms. "It's because," he asserts, "space means freedom, growth and prosperity, and people resent being denied the full gratification of these basic desires."

A house, according to Dr. Dichter, has masculine and feminine domains. The woman worries about style and color, while the man looks at a house wondering what he will have to repair and how often he will have to paint. (When that painting time arrives, home owners will benefit from Andy Lang's booklet, "Paint Your House Inside and Out," available by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y. 11431.)

Bahr advises prospective home buyers to take a more careful look at neighborhoods. He says the age of the community's dwellings "are less important than the outward evidence they are well maintained." He points out that "nearby homes in disrepair can ultimately downgrade the value of the best-maintained individual home."

As a general rule, Bahr thinks "home buyers would be wiser to compromise on issues of exterior styling or interior decorative features in order to find a home with basically good location values, than to overlook negative elements in the neighborhood because the home design seems just right." He adds that the common-sense approach is to purchase a home that is generally priced within the average represented in the neighborhood, avoiding the highest and lowest extremes.

"A home buyer," he explains, "may select a standout lavish, expensive home in the midst of moderately priced homes and find it a source of pride, but it could be a source of concern or monetary loss in the event he wants to sell it at a later date."

One-Stop Stores

Ever notice the big difference between the old lumber yard down by the railroad tracks and the modern, one-stop building products dealer? In the old days, you bought your lumber at the yard, your paint someplace else, your plumbing repair materials in a third place, and so on. Today, most lumber yards have a kind of supermarket setup, where you can purchase virtually anything you need to repair, remodel or refurnish.

Paint Can Be Useful For Dangerous Areas

You can make your home a safer place by using paint to warn against dangerous areas and to serve as a reminder to be careful.

Stripes are the best way to mark the top and bottom steps of treacherous basement stairs, using orange and black, yellow and black, or black and white. First, paint the entire step the lighter color. When the paint has thoroughly dried, put on self-adhering masking tape in a striped pattern and paint the exposed area black. When this has dried, strip off the tape and there are the stripes.

MAKE IT BLEND

If you feel that such a pattern will detract from the appearance of a finished basement used as a playroom or family room, then paint the bottom step in a contrasting color that fits in with the general decorative scheme and still highlights the danger.

Walls of dark, enclosed stairwells throughout the house should be painted white, ivory or yellow — the colors with the highest reflective power — and should be well illuminated. This is especially true where there are older people in the family, for they are the most frequent victims of falls.

LIGHT SWITCHES

Dab light switches with luminescent paint for easy location. Just a few minutes exposure to light will guarantee luminescence for hours. The luminescent quality retains its activity for years indoors, though not so long when used on exterior surfaces exposed to weather conditions. It is usually recommended that the luminescent paint be applied against a white or very light painted background. Follow the instructions given on the container implicity.

Where there are very small children or elderly members of the household, draw attention to all thresholds by applying floor enamel in a color to contrast with the surrounding floor colors.

Garage doors that slide into the roof of the garage are ideal head-bumpers when they are left partly open. A bright hue painted along the bottom edge of the door will be a constant reminder of the hazard involved. A driveway in the suburbs or country that is not lighted can be outlined by rocks painted with white or fluorescent paint. Gates and posts marking entranceways can be indicated in the same manner.

As yellow has the highest visibility, this color is a good choice to paint on low pipes in the basement to protect skulls. Or any bright attention-getting color, plain or in stripes, will fill the bill.

Red paint should be used to indicate where the home fire extinguisher is kept. Fuse boxes should be painted with light-colored or luminescent paint as they usually need to be located when the house is in the dark. The emergency first-aid cabinet might be identified with a green paint as this color is traditionally associated with safety.

Falling from ladders is high on the home-hazard list so rings of color to indicate the bottom and top rung are a good idea. Don't paint the whole ladder as the coating may hide cracks.

STOP ROT

A painted wooden surface is less likely to rot, so paint the weathered back porch steps before they deteriorate and cause someone to stumble. Hand rails must be checked regularly to insure their stability. Paint will protect wooden ones from rotting and metal ones from rusting. Unpainted wooden shingles on a roof welcome stray sparks and invite conflagration.

Touches of white or luminescent paint on garden furniture left outside will minimize the possibility of falling over them at night. The fisherman who takes his sport while it's still dark will find luminescent paint invaluable on fish lures, bait box, and other necessary equipment.

A flashlight touched with luminous paint will be easier to find in the dark and a telephone, especially where there is sickness in the home, can be made more visible by the same magic "glow-in-the-dark" paint touch.

Building Materials Dealers For Boats

The boating boom won't leave building products dealers all at sea.

Many dealers now stock oars, cleats, bilge pumps and compasses for their marine-minded customers. Some offer building plans and technical help for do-it-yourself boat-builders.

FHA Buys May Break Laws, Hoover Warns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Buying a new house with government-insured mortgage? Better make certain you're not breaking the law.

That's the word from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The Federal Housing Administration, FHA, insures mortgages on new houses and home improvements. Naturally, the FHA insists that whoever gets the loan be a good credit risk.

But according to Hoover, a number of unscrupulous real estate salesmen and developers are taking advantage of the current housing boom to circumvent the letter and the spirit of the rules.

The FBI has uncovered instances where a salesman has sold a house financed with an FHA-backed mortgage to someone who didn't have enough cash to make the required payment.

In one southern state, mortgage applications were drawn up to make it look as though prospective buyers had made their required $200 down payments when some in fact had paid as little as $5.

As a result of this fraud, FHA had to foreclose on new houses valued at more than $1 million.

Another trick is to change a poor credit risk into a good one by omitting or understating debts or creating or inflating income or savings. In one instance, a salesman valued furniture worth less than $1,000 at $3,500 on the loan application.

He ignored a $350 debt on a car and put the car down as an asset worth more than $500. Finally, he "created" a good job for the borrower, whose real job was unsteady.

Often the borrower gives the salesman honest information about his finances and the salesman alone falsifies the application. But this doesn't exonerate the borrower.

"It is a federal crime to make any false statement in an application for an FHA-insured loan," Hoover says. "The borrower also violates the law by signing an application which contains false information."

Hoover's advice:

To real estate firms: When choosing a salesman, carefully check his background and reputation.

To prospective house buyers: Be wary of anything which may sound or look a little suspicious. Think the matter over carefully. Be sure to read closely everything you are asked to sign.

"Do not be a party to any deviation from the truth, however slight, when filling out an application form for a loan," Hoover says.

Some Extra Work

A combination of do-it-yourself interests and the high cost of labor is keeping homeowners hard at work after office hours. It's estimated that the average wage earner spends 5½ hours of his weekly leisure time working on his house and yard.

Simple Days Not Really So Simple

Those good old days are best forgotten.

That's the opinion of Mary Huck, home economics director of Frigidaire division of General Motors.

"The so-called simple life in the 19th Century was really quite complex," she says. Although electricity and inside plumbing had appeared, the homemaker in many homes still pumped water—at the kitchen sink, if she were lucky — still fed wood or coal into the kitchen stove to get the meals and heat the wash water, and still made daily trips to the garbage can in the alley.

"And in a corner of the kitchen, the ice box silently filled its drain pan and spilled over onto the floor," adds Miss Huck.

Drawing a deep breath, she ticked off the homemaker's laundering methods as a cast in point:

"She checked her soap supply (some women still were making their own then), checked the firewood supply before heating the old-fashioned stove, pumped water, heated it, stirred the boiling clothes, scrubbed them on the washboard, pumped cold water for rinsing, wrung out the clothes by hand, and toted them to the outdoor clothesline. Usually, the stove was kept warm to heat the hand iron after a second trip outside to take down the clothes."

By contrast, time- and labor-saving laundry appliances available to today's homemaker include washers that are automatic from soak through optional rinse cycles and dryers with electronic controls as sensitive as a homemaker's hand.

There are fond memories surrounding grandma's wood-burning stove and the ice box, admits the home economist. But she points out with a shudder the constant attention required of the cook, the lack of conveniences, beauty or styling, and the sheer drudgery of cleaning those then contemporary appliances.

Three chores as bothersome today as they were years ago are defrosting, oven-cleaning, and washing dishes and pots and pans. Yet, says Miss Huck, the appliance industry has progressively lightened the homemaker's load to a point where such chores have been virtually eliminated.

Frost-proof freezing systems, for example, have eliminated defrosting. Advanced dishwashers, some with pots and pans cycles, have even eliminated pre-rinsing and much of the dish preparation to which women—and men—have been accustomed.

"The exciting element about 50 million products over the years," to Miss Huck, "is that the record sets a pattern for even more remarkable advancements in future appliances—designed with the homemaker in mind."

Tomorrow's home may have walls which can change color as desired and even provide "instant" windows. The time and care given to meal preparation may be greatly reduced by pre-prepared foods and special utensils, creating new requirements for refrigeration and cooking equipment.

"Houses probably will not have rooms dedicated solely to home utilities," she emphasized. "Appliances will be positioned for point of need and use throughout the interior and the surroundings. This will give rise to completely new concepts in appliances, many beyond the imagination of today's homemaker."

Corner Fireplaces

Corner fireplaces are becoming popular in contemporary homes. They go well with modern furniture and give an airy look to a room.

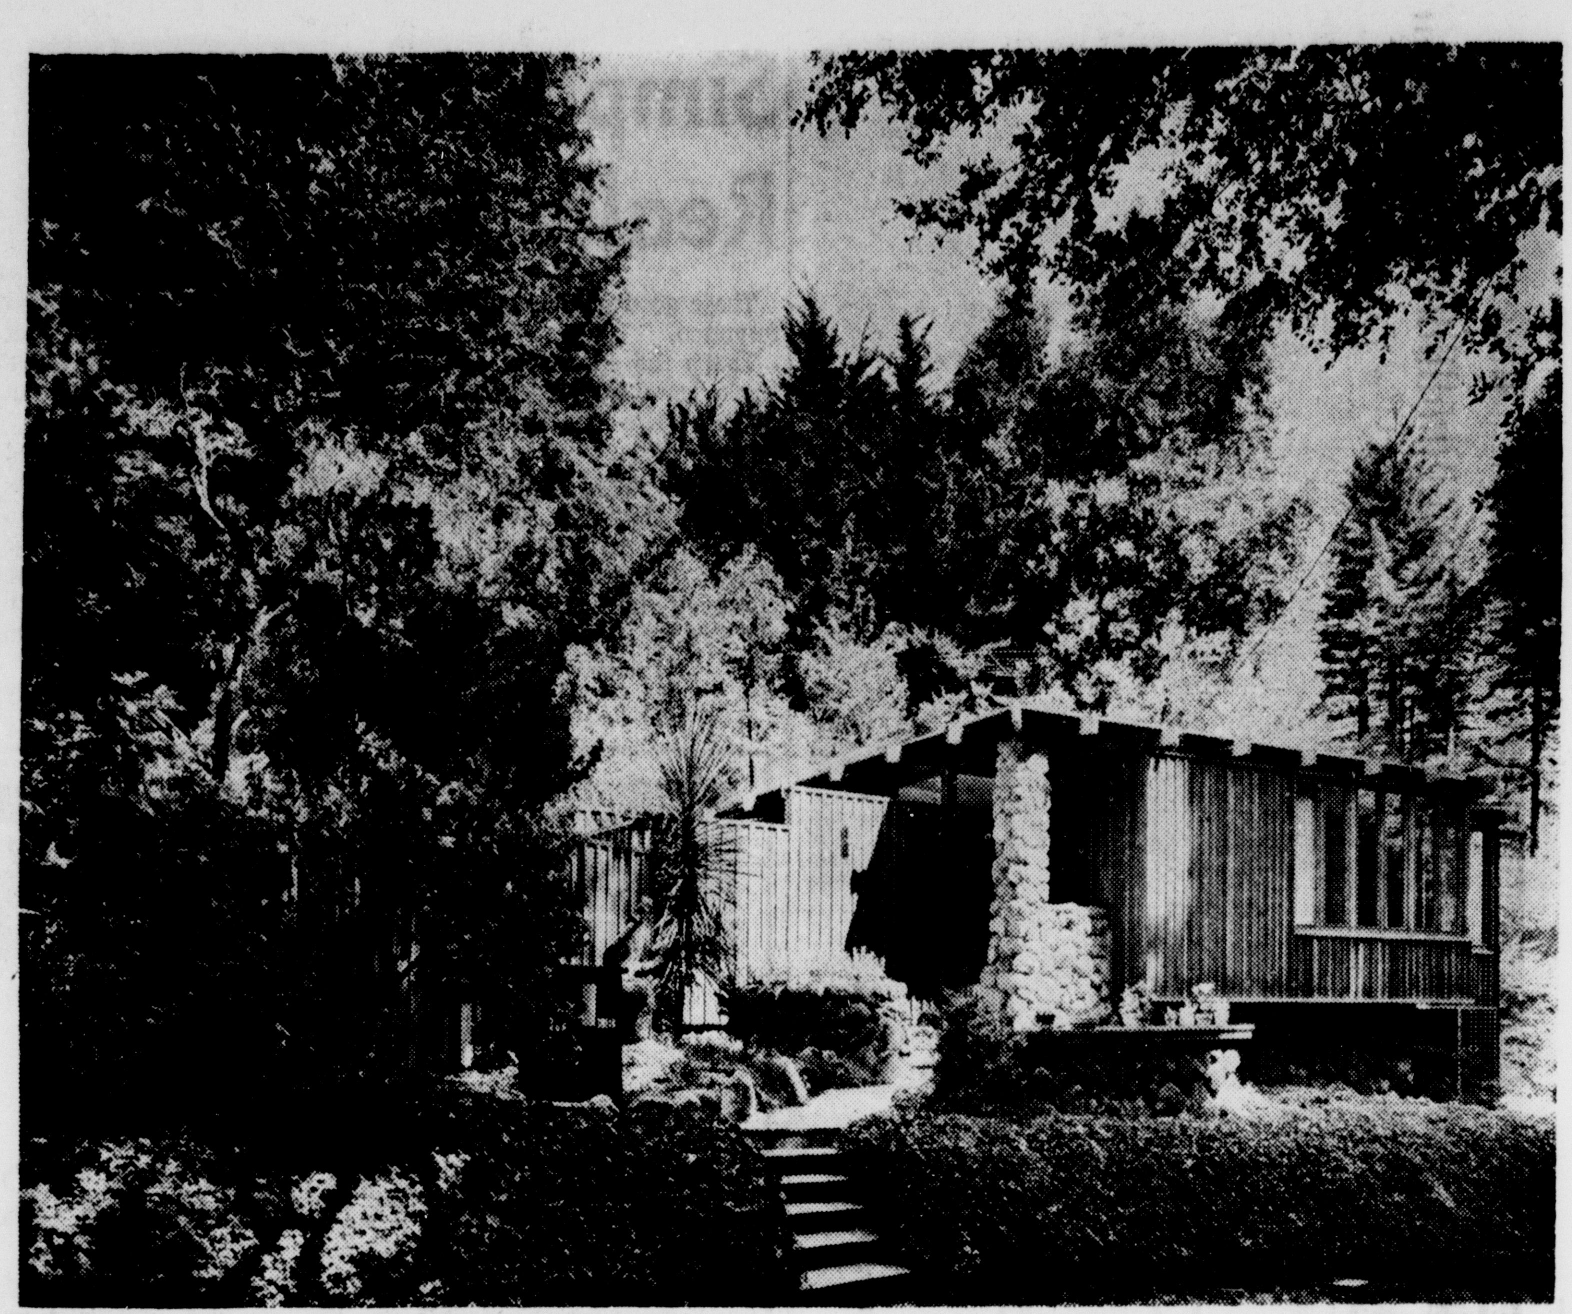
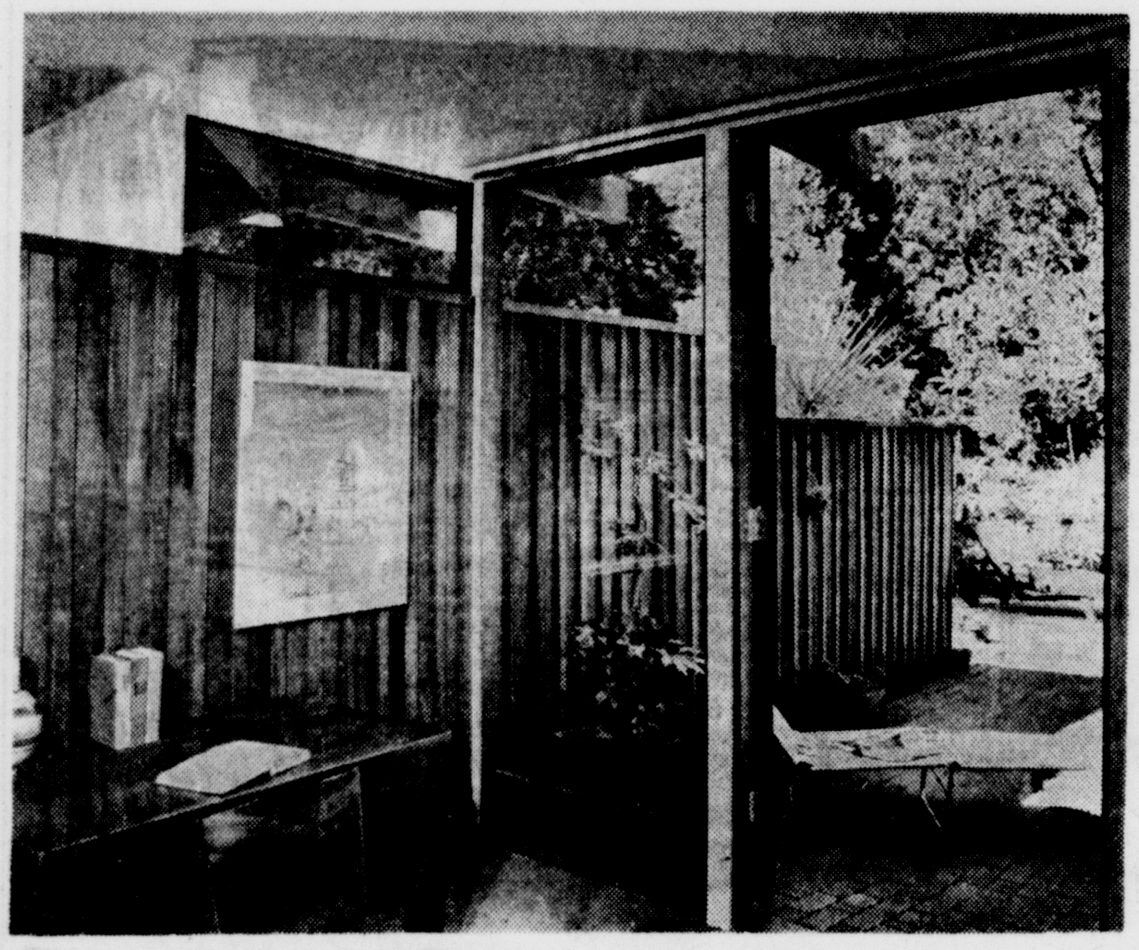
ARCHITECT'S HOME BEFORE REMODELING

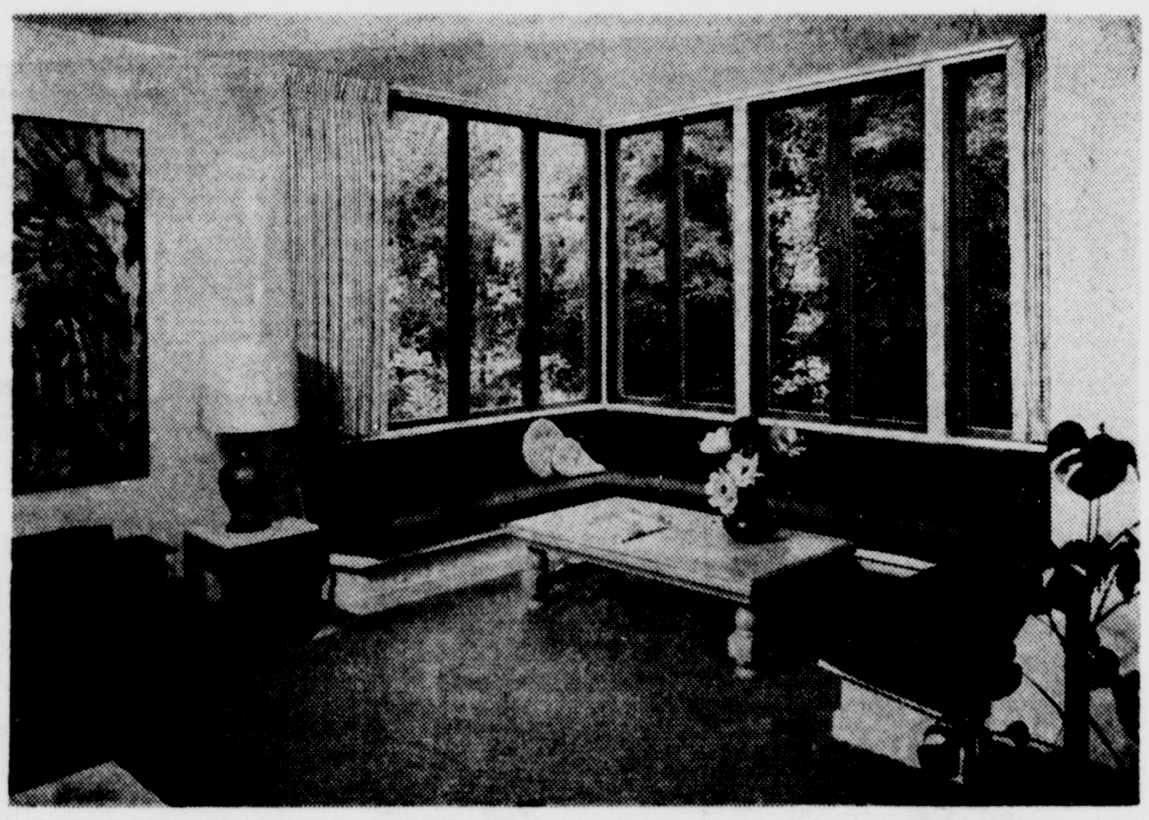
This was the Mill Valley home of architect Barry G. Smith before any work was done on it. Originally a 1920 bungalow with green asphalt roof shingles, the house was not in harmony with its beautiful rustic site on Cascade Drive. Poor exterior orientation caused by small, old-fashioned high-sill windows cut off the natural view and badly needed southern sunlight.



REMODELED WITH COMPLETELY NEW LINES—Architect's solution consisted of eliminating two walls and constructing all new exterior surfaces of native materials. Massive recessed fieldstone relates the building to the grounds; high stone column focuses attention toward the entry door and provides a center of interest. Upper walls are rough redwood boards and closely spaced battens. New roofing is cedar shingles left unfinished.



VIEW OF NORTH—Nine-foot high redwood French doors at the Smith home open into a brick-paved secluded garden, with inside penetration of board and batten fence which meanders around the property. All windows, trim and beams are redwood and left unfinished.



BUILT-IN SEATING SECTION—New walls built out beyond the old wall line of the original Smith house yielded this extra seating area in an enlarged living room. Tall redwood casements overlook the creek and admit floods of south sunlight.

Better Conditions Can Help Those Who Sleep During Day

Along with several million night workers who do their sleeping when the sun shines, there are an even larger number of youngster who nap during the day. And, added to this total, are an indeterminate number of housewives who try to get in an extra "40 winks" after seeing the family off in the morning.

Although you can't stop people and vehicles from making noise during the day, there are some steps that can be taken to insure better sleeping conditions.

First, make sure that the room used for sleeping is made completely dark.

Next, pick a room for sleeping that does not face the street and is as far as possible from the playroom, TV set and other indoor noisemaking areas.

Finally, if you are buying a new home or remodeling an existing one, consider the installation of soundproofing materials in walls and ceilings. This will help keep out many of the harsh noises that lead to unhappy awakenings.

Cat Is Thermometer

One sure sign of cold floors in your house is when the cat relaxes on top of the TV set as the only comfortable snoozing spot within jumping distance.

Quality Paint Brush Is Good Home Security

A good quality paint brush is a good investment. It will last a long time—if you take care of it. Unfortunately, most householders don't. How many homes are there in the country right now where paint brushes have been allowed to harden in a can of paint or a container of solvent that has evaporated?

A new paint brush should be soaked in linseed oil, placed back in its original wrapper and submerged in linseed oil for several days. A brush should never be rested on its bristles.

When you are through painting, a brush should be washed in the proper solvent: Turpentine or mineral spirits for oil paint or varnish, denatured alcohol for shellac, lacquer thinner for lacquer, and water for latex paints. Then wash the bristles with warm water and soap, dry and store in a wrapper.

Dial-A-Door

Now you can dial your way in or out of the front door. A new type of lock which resembles a telephone dial opens with a fingertip touch when you know the combfination, but connot be picked.

Center Windows For Circulation

Window location has a lot to do with the comfortable ventilation of your house.

Windows placed toward the center of the room afford a freer circulation of air than those placed in the corner. And windows placed in the lower part of the wall direct air through the room level at which occupants sit and stand.

Casement, awning and hopper style wood windows in stock units of ponderosa pine, offer maximum ventilation because they open at a 90-degree angle and help direct air flow.

Father-Son Idea May Be Paneling Boy's Bedroom

A good father-and-son handyman project is the paneling of the boy's bedroom, according to a home improvement expert.

"It's always easier to recruit help around the house if the teen knows that he will have a part in the creative aspect of the project. Work will progress faster, too, if the teen is improving his own room," points out Robert Huff, home improvement director.

Before starting the project, the two partners should make out a checklist of features to be considered. These would include new lighting, storage, decorative treatment, furnishings, etc. Then this checklist must be balanced with the budget!

"Many teens like to build a combination work-hobby area in their room," Huff adds, "which can be used for school work, small projects, and typing. In short, it's their private home office. Built-ins go a long way toward providing the necessary storage space."

Wall space can be used for storage and display, too, if prefinished hardboard paneling in perforated sheets is used in certain areas. The perforated panels come in a variety of colors and patterns.

Modern Range Easy To Clean

Modern electric ranges are designed to ease a homemaker's clean-up chores.

Electric surface units burn off spilled food quickly, heating elements can be tilted or lifted off, and control knobs and trim are removable.

Ovens have chrome or teflon-coated walls, disposable liners, or pull-out drawers. Some models have self-cleaning ovens that burn off all grease and grime automatically.

FAMILY ROOM ADDITION

A fireplace built of field stone and brick with a metal hood divides a new family room addition from the breakfast room at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cliff in Marinwood, and is open on two sides. Architect Donald Keith Olsen designed the addition with heavy post and beam construction. Walls are rough-sawn Douglas fir boards. Indirect lighting illuminates the ceiling.

Excessive Noise Can Break Nerves, Tempers And Family

Excessive noise around the home makes many persons irritable and short-tempered with their families, builds up nervous tensions and even leads some to nervous breakdowns.

A recent test in eight large U. S. cities shows that "home noise" is the source of about one-fourth the annoying noise that Americans hear today. Major culprits are blaring radio and TV sound, banging doors, rattling windows, slamming pots and pans, stamping on floors, mechanical household equipment, dripping faucets, clanging pipes, phones and doorbells.

The din of these and hundreds of other home noise-makers interfere with sleep, upset the digestion, cause physical strain, allergies and temporary deafness, increase irritability and hamper mental activity. But they can be hushed. Here are a few practical ways to quiet "home noise":

1. Fibrous boards which resist noise can be easily installed on basement ceilings and playroom walls.

2. Solid walls can be made sound resistant by putting a plastered building board on either side, fastened with insulating clips about two inches away from the wall.

3. Heavy draperies and curtains help to absorb noise. Use thick, large-sized mats in bathrooms.

4. Install rubber floor tile, which is resilient and springly underfoot and acts to retard and absorb noise traveling through walls and ceilings and deadens the noise of hard heels. A great many hospitals use rubber tile on their floors.

5. Put in a muted telephone bell and use door chimes instead of a buzzer.

6. Oil the hinges and metal working parts of fixtures, stoves, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, furnaces, garbage cans, heaters and mixers. Line the edges with rubber.

7. Increase the thickness of windows. Quarter inch panes are better than standard 21-ounce glass. Double windows four inches apart insulate a room and are as soundproof as a nine-inch brick wall.

8. Use soft-humming electric clocks wherever possible instead of loud-ticking handwound clocks.

9. Never raise volume excessively of radio, TV or phonograph.

10. Repair all loose boards on house exterior. Cover pipes with insulating material, put in silent electric switches, easy-sliding ping on doors and windows.

Poison Safety

If it's poison, keep it away from children!

To help you heed this advice, several manufacturers of medicine cabinets are offering a new type of protection that consists of a small chest or compartment within the top of the cabinet which can be securely closed.

This presents a "locked door" to small prying hands, but is easily opened by an adult by means of an out-of-the-way button on top of the chest. Such cabinets are available in various styles and sizes.

Traps On Drains Used To Catch Sewer Gas

Some people think those funny-looking "S" and "P" shaped pipes beneath plumbing fixtures are there to catch bobbie pins, rings and other odds and ends that fall into the drain.

They may indeed do that, but that's not their primary reason for being there. Every plumbing fixture in your house is connected to a sewage system. If there were no safeguard, sewer gases would back up through drains and into the house.

Traps, then, are devices that keep these gases in captivity. They are installed directly below sinks, lavatories and laundry tubs. On water closets (toilets) they are built in, and for bathtubs and shower stalls they're installed in the floor.

Because of its shape, a trap retains a column of water which acts to seal off sewer gas. As long as there is water in the trap, it will function properly, but if the drain is not used frequently, the seal will evaporate, letting in the foul-smelling fumes. It is important, therefore, that fixtures not in constant use have water poured into them at periodic intervals.

If sewer odor is noticed in the basement or laundry room, it probably means that the water has evaporated from the traps in the floor drains. Pour at least a gallon into these drains regularly.

There are other ways that a trap can lose its seal. One is self-siphonage — a natural phenomenon which sucks water out of the trap because a fixture is not properly vented. Another trap-drainer is called assistant-siphonage, resulting from suction built up when the water from another waste pipe flows too close to the trap. A third problem is a leaking trap. Here again, the seal may be removed and gases permitted back through the drain.

All are jobs for a qualified plumbing contractor. A few minutes of his work can save you a lot of annoyance and some unhealthful, unpleasant fumes in the home.

More Rest From Sleeping Less

We soon may be sleeping less and enjoying it more.

A mattress manufacturer is devising a "sleep capsule" bed which cuts down the effects of gravity during sleep and eliminates noise, light, cold or overheating. Modeled after the astronauts' capsule "beds," the mattress would permit greater rest and relaxation during shorter periods of sleep.

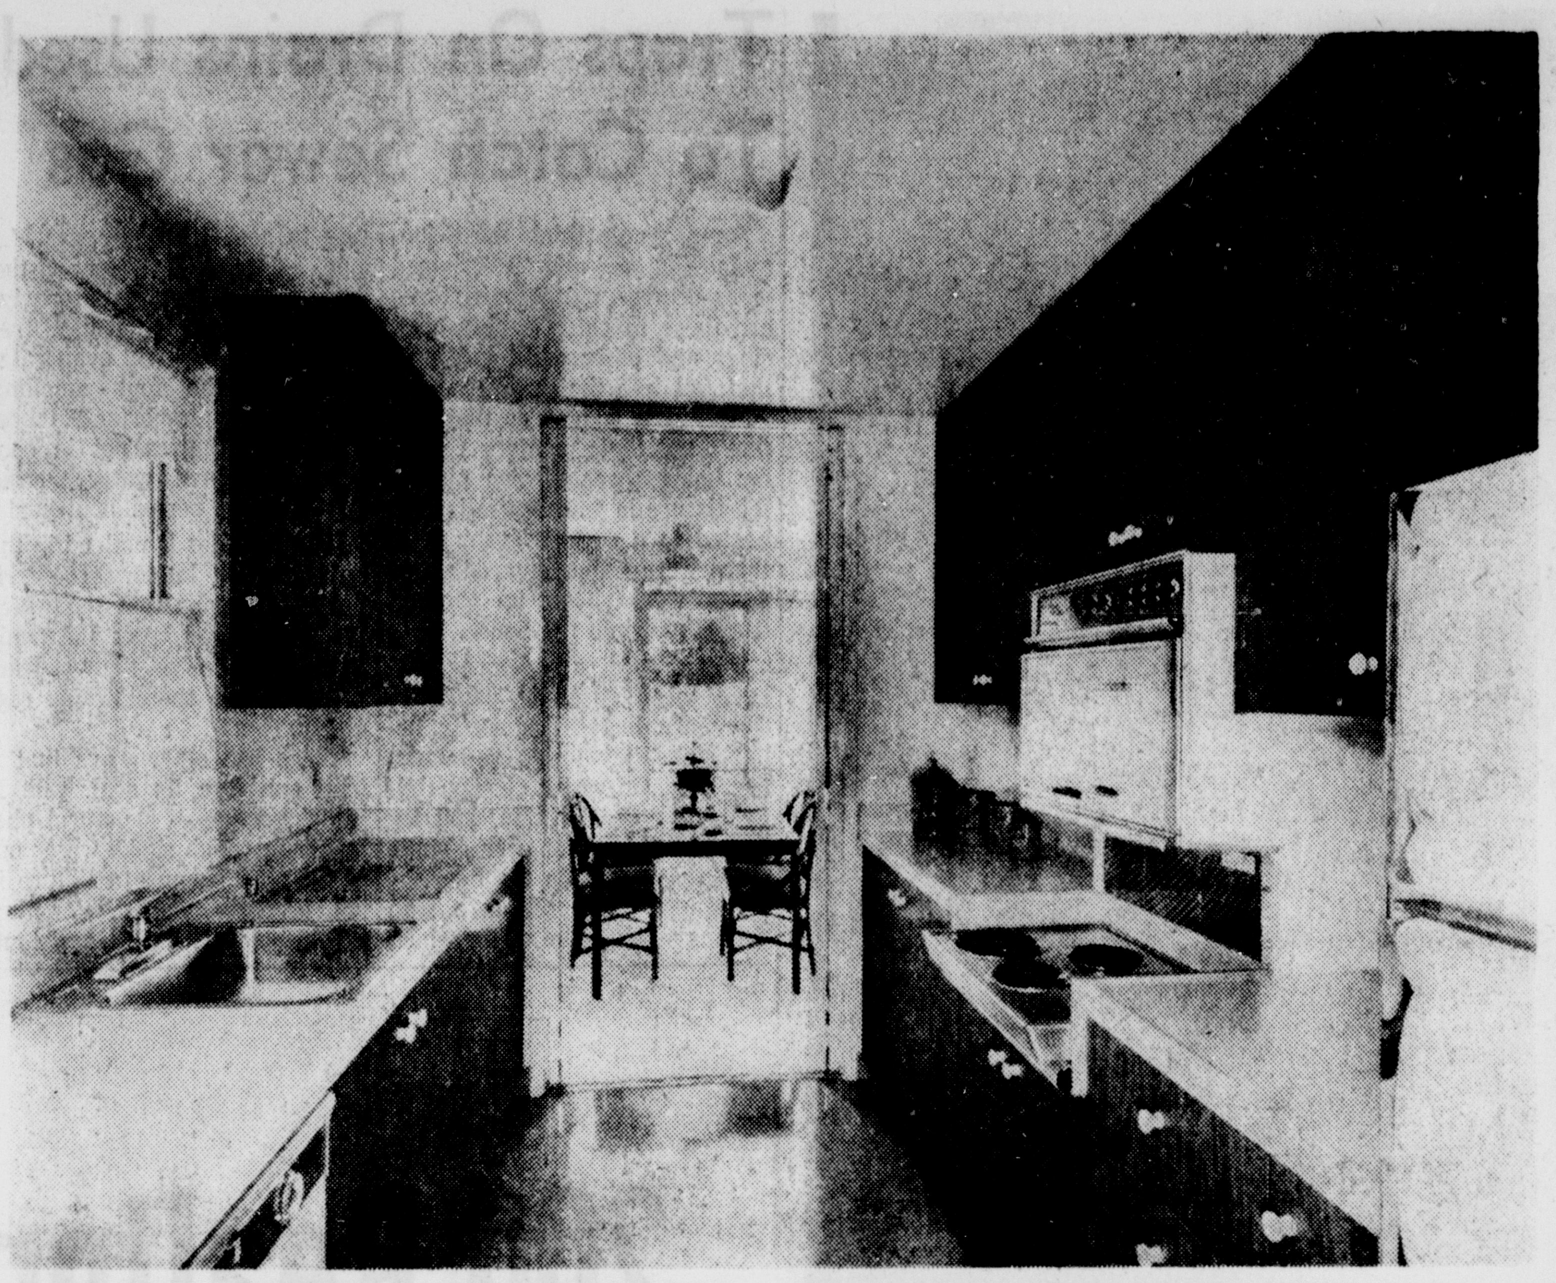
DESIGNED FOR MAN AND HIS BOAT

Waterside convenience and boating are the main lures for residents at Shelter Bay Apartments on Richardson Bay, development of Alcan Pacific Corp. Apartments with one to four bedrooms have large window walls with sliding glass doors, fireplaces, full carpeting and draperies and patios or decks—many offering unobstructed views. Architect for the development was the late John Lord King.



HANDSOME KITCHEN — Shelter Bay kitchens include electric range with eye-level double ovens, dishwasher, disposal unit and range fan and hood. Cabinets and counter tops are surfaced with laminated plastic in teak and antique white which are easily cleaned to permit residents time for recreational pursuits available in the development. Junk Poses Big Danger To Houses

Accumulation of junk in out-of-the-way areas of the house is one of the most serious perils to home safety.

That's why safety experts recommend that homeowners regularly make a scavenger hunt of their own—throughout the basement, garage, attic, utility and laundry rooms—and discard all articles that have outlived their usefulness or pose a threat to the safety of the home.

Proper fire-resistant metal trash containers should be placed in these areas to encourage and remind members of the family to get rid of accumulated junk.

WOOD SCRAPS

Wood scraps and other flammable materials that collect in the workshop area of the basement or garage, for instance, should be placed in a galvanized steel trash pail until hauled out for removal by local refuse collectors.

In the garage or back yard area, large metal trash containers are recommended for the storage of grass clippings, leaves, broken branches, scraps of paper and other back yard debris. Because these items are subject to spontaneous combustion under some conditions, keep the containers covered when unattended.

Storing flammable materials in bushel baskets, wooden crates, cardboard boxes and other combustible containers represents a very definite fire hazard. These combustible containers and their contents can easily be ignited by a carelessly discarded cigaret, a lighted match, or even a spark from the exhaust of an automobile. Nonmetal receptacles are incapable of containing a fire should it start.

FIRE RULES

Home safety experts suggest, that the same basic rules of good housekeeping which apply in the regular living areas of the house should be applied to the garage, basement, attic and utility room. A fire which starts in one of these out-of-the-way areas or an accident that occurs there will be just as serious as if it occurred in the living room.

Courtyard Not Really A New Idea

The resurgence in popularity of the centuries-old atrium or inner court seems to prove the old saying that there are no new ideas, only refinements of old ones.

Today more and more home owners are resorting to the inner court for "a private world of light, air and greenery." Their reasons are much the same as those which motivated the Greeks and Romans.

In ancient days the atrium was designed as a source of light and air for houses whose outer walls were solid to protect them from the proximity of neighbors and thoroughfares. As our crowded conditions begin to approximate those of old, the atrium finds more and more acceptance in home design, with, of course, some modern improvements.

While the Romans had to contend with bad weather which might limit their use of the atrium, present-day ingenuity provides electronically-controlled plastic skylights that can close in the ceiling when storm clouds threaten.

The placement and designs of atriums may be as varied as the houses in which they are located. Some may place a heavy emphasis on decorative gardening; others may highlight such features as cantilevered aggregate slabs over a reflecting pool.

But all of them add a unique touch to the modern dwelling-place by opening up an inner view of the sky and bringing nature into the home.

Modern Kitchens Smaller, Better Than Yesterday's

How can you get a big kitchen into a small space?

Much as this may sound like an impossible Chinese puzzle, it's a trick that's being solved every day in every neighborhood across the nation.

With building lots becoming generally more expensive and choice land dwindling, the average family is erecting a house that's considerably smaller in equare footage than their parents' home. The number of rooms remains about the same, but the size of each is being paired.

Happily, the kitchen is one room that has profited from its reducing diet. Architects have discovered that they can design a fully equipped and much more efficient kitchen than yesteryear's rambling cuisine when using about half the space. And the housewife has taken great delight in her new, compact cook area, for even the most elaborate meal can be prepared in a matter of only two or three steps.

PULLMAN STYLE

Oftentimes, the new-look kitchen is built in pullman-car style, with cabinets and work counters arranged along two parallel walls that are separated by about five feet. The small kitchen is usually designed in conjunction with a dining area or family room and opens into it at one end. Or the wall separating kitchen and adjoining area may be designed with open pass throughs or open space between the top bank of cabinets and the ceiling to visually expand the kitchen's space.

When devising a compact kitchen, every inch counts and must be put to maximum use. The result has been a resurgence in exciting, individualistic cabinetwork tailored to meet specific needs and dimensions. Beautifully, easily shaped woods have again come into play in kitchen design. New plastic lacquer finishes protect these fine woods from water spotting and grease stains while capturing their natural beauties of color and graining.

FLEXIBLE DESIGN

Flexibility of design is increased by the wide variety of built-in dish washers, cooking units and refrigerators available today from top manufacturers. Many a new kitchen, however, begins with an older standard range in its plans, which can be replaced by svelte counter units at a later date.

Exciting color possibilities in modern laminated plastic countertops and flooring materials add to the tiny kitchen's potential elegance, as well as its practicality.

Dial-A-Meter

The days of home-visiting meter-readers may be numbered.

Gas and electric companies are experimenting with telephone hook-ups that would "read" meters electronically from the central office.

Atrium Home Gaining In Popularity

Although it's still an oddity in most areas, the atrium house is growing in popularity as the builder's answer to small lots. An atrium house has a center, roofless room that is modeled after the classic courtyard. Usually many rooms open onto this inside-outside enclosure.

Its chief value is the maximum privacy it gives to families whose homes are on small and irregular lots. Bringing the outdoors inside also allows mothers to keep closer tabs on small children.

Atriums most often are designed as no-care rooms with emphasis on natural materials and plantings. Domestic quarry tile, a type of ceramic tile, is a favorite flooring material as it is weatherproof and needs only an occasional light mopping. The atrium needn't be a large area to accommodate a tree or two and flower beds.

Whethher elegant or simple, the atrium has proved to be a joy to most homeowners who have purchased this type of house. Some builders now are adapting the atrium house to whole developments because of its attractive and different qaulities.

Mortar Mixes

Hydrated lime tends to make concrete and mortar mixes flow more easily. For that reason, it usually is used in mortar mixes which are to be packed between bricks.

Zone Heating Offers Larger Home Savings

Zoning saves up to 20 per cent on fuel bills since it allows the home heating boiler to send heat only where it is needed. Temperatures can be set lower to effect savings in rooms not used during the day.

Zoned heating is most useful in large, rambling ranch houses where rooms are remote from each other and thus have different heating needs. For instance, where one side of the house receives sunshine and the other doesn't there is a tendency toward underheating or overheating, if the house is not zoned.

The same holds true for two-story or split-level houses where heat from downstairs rooms rises to the upstairs causing overheating on the upper levels if there are not separate zones. Split-level is the one design where zone control is most important for balanced heating. Rooms located over unheated garages also have special heating needs, so zoning is again desirable.

Area zoning is generally recognized as the most practical method of heating when the areas to be zoned are of similar occupancy or have common traffic. The bedrooms, for instance, can be on one zone and thermostatically controlled for one temperature, while the dining room, kitchen and living room area are on a second zone. A basement recreation area can be on a third zone.

Although the subject of room-by-room zoning is receiving much attention, consensus among industry experts is that room-by-room control is an expensive and "unnecessary refinement." The reason is that rooms which do have common traffic balance each other in temperature despite thermostatic control because of the free flow of air from one room to another.

Inflatable Sofa

Plastics have invaded the furniture field, causing a revolution in design. One of the newest items is an inflatable sofa. When in use, the plastic sofa is inflated, when time comes to move, the owner can deflate it and carry it away, reports Modern Plastics, McGraw-Hill publication.

Start At Top For Good Design

Roofs play an important role in architectural design.

According to a national roofing magazine, architects consider a roof's shape, color and texture to be "critical" to the over-all design of residences and other buildings.

At present, about 80 per cent of new homes are roofed with colored asphalt shingles, ranging from white and pastel shades to black and earth-tone brown. Heavyweight shingles, which have a thick butt that gives a textured look, are also popular in roof design.

Checkboard Drive

Colored concrete blocks are adding a touch of individuality to driveways. Some homeowners now have pastel-colored drives, others are combining dark and light shades in decorative checkerboard patterns.

MARINITE UTILIZES SCENIC SEA VIEW

Oceana Marina Offers Houses In Carefree California Style

Sixteen Marinites have started to build luxury homes at Oceana Marin, spectacular oceanside community now rising on the bluffs just north of Dillon Beach.

Oceana Marin homes are being fashioned in carefree California-seaside motif, taking full advantage of the many blessings offered by nature in a rugged coastline setting.

Sweeping verandas, massive stone fireplaces and huge picture windows presenting superb views of Tomales Bluff and Bodega Head are typical of weekend and year-around dwellings beginning to sprout on the grassy slopes overlooking what has been called "the most intriguing coastline between Monterey and the Oregon Coast."

Of 68 homesites available at Oceana Marin, 20 have been purchased as of the beginning of this month — mostly by Marinites — according to Robert A. Roumiguiere of A. R. Roumiguiere, Inc., San Rafael, exclusive agent for the new community being developed by the Oceana Marin Development Corp.

Most of the purchasers, he reports, have their hearts set on "second homes" away from the hustle and bustle of city life yet near enough to reach quickly. Oceana Marin is an easy (and scenic) 50 minute drive, for example, from San Rafael.

All new residents of the seaside community are outdoor living lovers, to whom the sun, blue sky and rugged surroundings are no more alluring than the fog and wind.

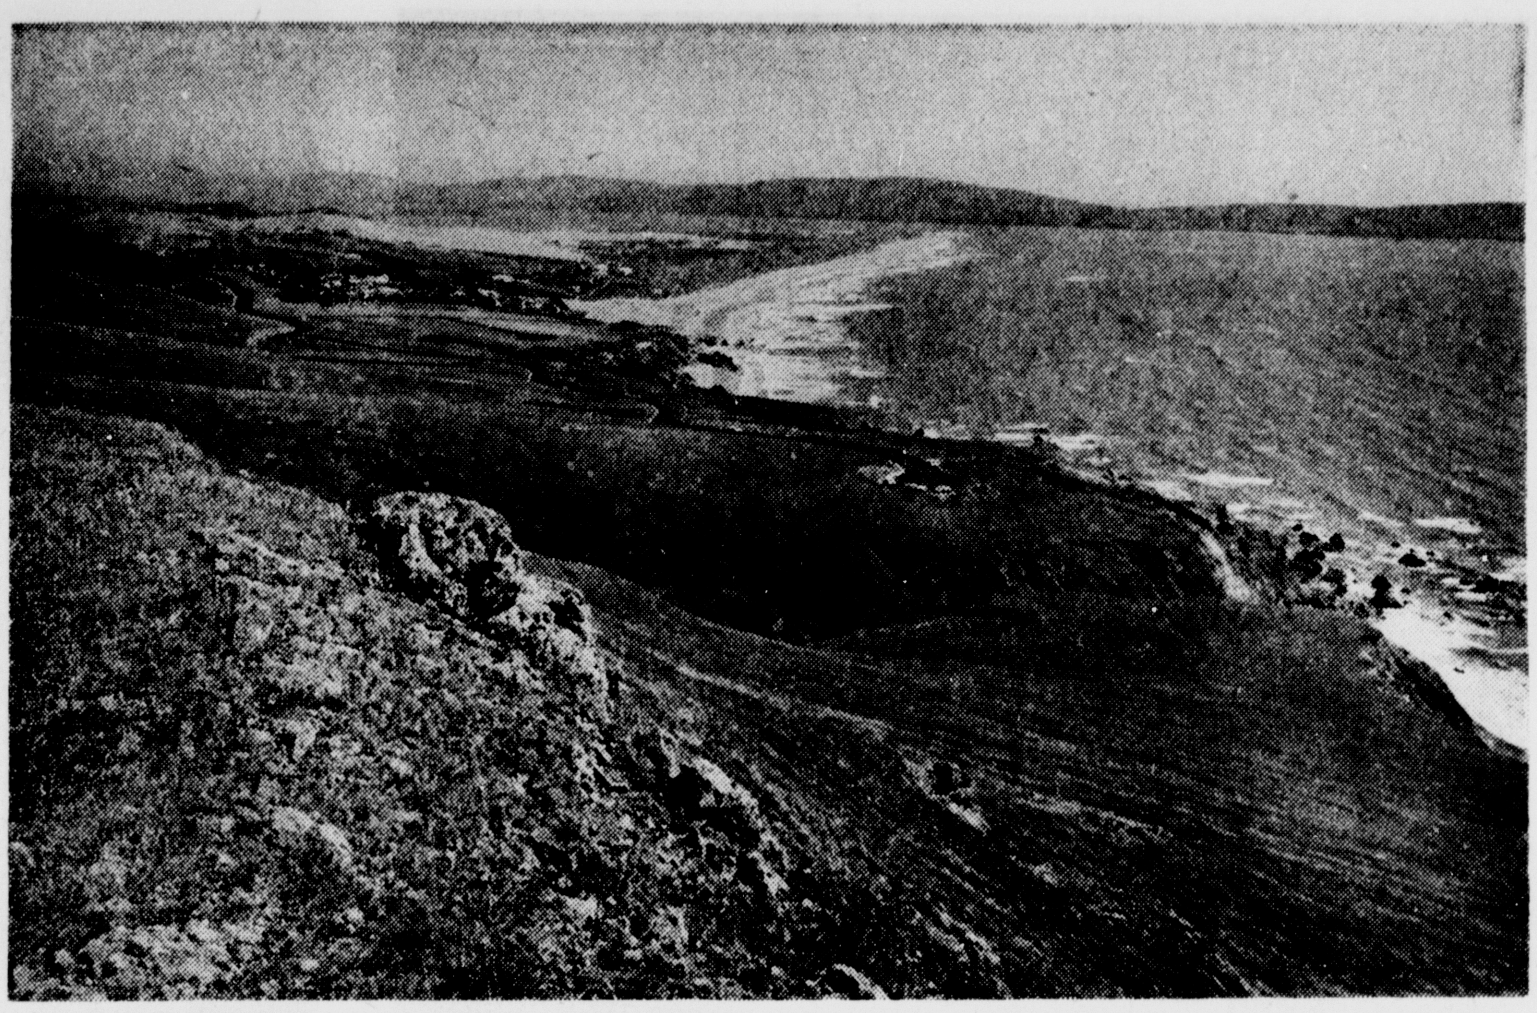
Oceana Marin is a short walk from the picturesque little town of Dillon Beach. The new community sits on gentle slopes ending at bluffs overlooking sandy beaches, coves, and wide stretches of yellow sand and surf crashing on sentinel-like rocks.

To the left is a vista of curving shoreline with the wooded heights of Tomales Bluff rising behind Tomales Bay. Straight ahead is the wide Pacific. To the right is the spectacular view of Bodega Head.

Behind are picturesque hills. A short distance away is the secluded mouth of San Geronimo Creek with its own beautiful little beach.

Residents with boats find docking and berthing facilities nearby at Lawson's Landing. There, too, they can enjoy clam digging, oystering and abaloneing. Those who like spear-fishing find plenty of excitement in the rocks just below their homes.

Oceana Marin is being developed along the most modern concepts, according to Roumiguiere. Subdivision roads are wide and smooth, with no steep inclines. An area along the entire length of the bluffs is reserved for all residents to enjoy — not just those whose homes happen to be at cliffside. Utilities are being placed underground.



COAST HOMESITES—This section of the coast north of Dillon's Beach is the location of Oceana Marin, a new development devoted mostly to "second" and weekend homes. Slopes are gentle, ending at bluffs overlooking sandy beaches, coves and rugged, rock-strewn shoreline. A. R. Roumiguiere, Inc., San Rafael is exclusive agent.

Too Much Water Common Mistake In Cement Work

The most common mistake of the amateur in the mixing of concrete is the addition of too much water. Concrete made with too much water hardens into a mass that appears to be very strong. But it usually is only half as durable as concrete made with the correct volume of water.

The condition of the sand used is closely related to the amount of water you'll need. About five gallons of water is recommended for each sack of Portland cement, but this will vary depending on whether the sand is wet or dry. With very wet sand you may need only four gallons, with very dry six gallons.

When using a pre-mix, the bag tells how much water should be added. The problem arises when only a portion of a bag is needed. Care should be taken to see that the proportion is correct.

Silencing Windows

Silence rattling windows by driving two or three large rubber-headed tacks against the bottom edge of the lower sash. When the window is closed and locked these will take up the slack, and prevent vibration.

SOLAR HEATER FOR POOLS

Pool owners in areas without natural gas service may find this inter-reflector solar heater suggested by electrical engineer Lloyd G. Dehrer of Fairfax, a practical means of keeping up water temperatures. On days of 80 degrees air temperatures and above, the system is said to have a greater efficiency than a boiler and is economical to operate.

Tile Makers Open 'Bathroom' As Proper Topic Of Conversation

Polite conversation has never included much talk of (excuse the expression) "the bathroom."

But now the subject may be wide open for description, analysis, debate and prediction, say the tile manufacturers who have an interest in the w.c., lavatory, powder room, rest room, washroom or john.

The hope that the bathroom will be explored in the interests of greater safety, sanitation and comfort was sparked by a Cornell University study, which characterized the modern bath as little changed from a half century ago.

While attention has been paid to safety in the design of bathroom flooring materials, such as slipproof ceramic mosaics, there are other elements that have been ignored. For example, thhe Cornell University study cited the protrusion of faucets and the slick condition of many tubs as areas needing change.

As to sanitation, many building materials have been brought to a satisfactory level, but redesigning some fixtures could contribute to greater cleanliness. The Cornell study recommended that the bathtub drain be placed at the opposite end of the tub from the faucets so that the tub would be easier to clean.

Personal habits and comfort, too, are determined by fixture design. Baths do not allow for a constant change of water. Showers do.

The trend in bathrooms is toward thhe spacious and the comfortable and affluent conditions in the U.S. are gradually transforming this room into a lounge.

The point of openly discussing the subject, however, is to effect desirable changes before anothher half century goes by. Technology isn't preventing change but conversation taboos may be.

Sonoma Proper City Setting For Spanish Homes Project

The City of Sonoma was chosen for the establishment of Mission Point Homes, a unique town house development, to combine modern Spanish architecture with that of the historic old city.

"Where else could our Spanish type community be better placed?" asks A. L. Hershey and W. L. Anderson, developers.

Mission Point homes built this year, form a community of one and two-story Spanish town houses, equipped with two and three bedrooms. Wall-to-wall carpeting and modern kitchens have been included. Each home also has its own private patio.

The inner recreational area facing the Sonoma hillsides, provides a large swimming pool. Landscaped gardens and green lawns are an invitation to sit here and enjoy the sunny days native to Sonoma.

Deer and quail are frequently found wandering across the fields to the community during the quiet morning and evening hours.

Mission Point is located at 183 Second Street East, north of Spain Street, and only about three blocks from Sonoma Plaza, where shopping centers, banks, churches, and all other facilities are available.

Visitors are welcome to inspect Mission Point model homes daily. Brochures are available upon request.

Keep kitchen and bathroom faucets bright by sponging them with full-strength pine cleaner, then wiping dry.

New Finishes Protect Oak

The modern long-wearing, scuff- and scratch-resistant finishes make the care of oak floors an easy matter nowadays, home maintenance specialists say.

But, the experts add, there are two particularly important points to bear in mind:

1. Don't scrub with soap and water. That's apt to mar the finish and roughen the wood. Use a wax base cleaning preparation. Some such cleaners have a relatively heavy wax content so that they clean and wax in one operation.

2. Don't use self-polishing wax. This is fine for certain kinds of floors but is not recommended for wood because it contains water. Use the rubbing type of paste or liquid wax. Buff occasionally between waxings.

Firemen Suggest Trash Burners

If combustible trash is to be burned, fire-safety officials recommend that it be done in a perforated galvanized steel rubbish burner.

These units feature close-fitting covers which prevent flaming pieces of debris from escaping and endangering adjoining property.

Rubbish should not be burned in an open fire under any circumstances. A sudden gust of wind can scatter sparks from an open fire and might easily start a roof or grass fire. Open fires also are difficult to extinguish once they really get going.

Iron-Age Dwelling

Archeologists have unearthed urban tract houses on the Jordan River that date back to 900 B.C. They had about 700 square feet of living space, faced five-foot wide streets, and were made of mud bricks and wood.

FLY TIME NECESSITY

Most Screens Need Painting Regularly

Don't be caught with your screens down during the fly season. Check them to see whether the frames and mesh need repairing and whether there is any rust that will lead to holes unless it is removed.

Paint is the best way to protect screening against rust, and bear in mind that while screens made of aluminum, brass or copper will not rust away, they will corrode. The result is that when it rains, there is an ugly downwash from the metal which can easily stain the woodwork or masonry below.

The easiest way to paint a screen is to lay it across a pair of saw horses, but two boxes the same height will do.

Since paint does not adhere well to dirt, oil or grease, first clean the screens by going over them with a cloth saturated with turpentine or odorless paint thinner. If you're doing the job inside be sure to have adequate ventilation. Remove rust from steel screening by carefully rubbing with steel wool. Prime any bare spots with a metal primer.

The paint industry, which has a quality product for almost every purpose, has developed special screen enamels. These are thin, high-gloss enamels which do not clog the mesh and which give the wire a strong, rust - resistant coating. These enamels can also be used for the frames.

Galvanized steel screening requires its own special primer. This is known as metallic zinc paint or as zinc-dust—zinc oxide paint. If you don't like its silver gray color, this paint can be tinted to your taste with oil colors.

If you want to keep the original color of copper or brass screens, use spar varnish or any exterior varnish, or exterior lacquer.

Aluminum screening and frames should be primed with zinc chromate and then be finished off with screen enamel. If you want to keep the gleam of the aluminum, do not prime, but instead use a good exterior lacquer or a longer lasting spar varnish.

While screen enamels can be used for the frames, many people prefer to use the tough, color-fast trim-and-trellis enamels. You can use regular house paint on the frames providing the metal ones have been primed.

While the familiar brush can be used on screens, the job will be easier if you use a well-loaded roller or a screen painter that can be bought at paint stores or be made from an old piece of carpet tacked to a wooden block.

If you have a spray gun or a spray attachment for your vacuum, you can stack the screens several layers high and spray the paint on. The spray that passes through the top screen will partially coat the one underneath.

Don't worry if the paint fills some of the mesh. Just turn the screen over and go over the surface with a dry brush. This will open any clogged spots.

Termites Can Sneak In And Create Damage

Businesses come and go, but the termite exterminator is here to stay.

And so are the termites, unless home owners maintain a constant vigilance against them.

While building foundations and other parts of the houses may be considered termite-proof, these pests can still sneak in and do damage in other ways.

Termites will eat almost any organic substance. Books, furniture, rugs, draperies, upholstery and even window shades are a few of their choice tidbits. However, to a termite, wood is their gourmet dish. A kitchen chair is just as tasty as a grand piano or a Hepplewhite escritoire.

Man's battle with the insect world has been going on since the dawn of time, but the insect appears to be holding its own. One way to protect your home against mass invasion by these social insects is to use builiding materials that they can't damage.

For example, you'll seldom find termites in areas that are surfaced with ceramic tile. This durable material is much too tough for any insect. And tile has other advantages. Aside from being verminproof, it's also heatproof, scratchproof, waterproof and stainproof.

Quarry tile, one of the most rugged of all floor surfacing materials, is not only impervious to the ravages of hungry insects, it's the perfect flooring material for patios, hallways, lobbies and foyers.

LANDSCAPED TO PRESERVE WOODLANDS EFFECT

Landscape architect William Kapranos took advantage of a tree-studded downslope at this Stanley Breyer home in Kent Woodlands, retaining the growth and stone outcroppings, providing good access and screening out the road from the pool site. Working closely with house architect John Lee was necessary. Landscape contractor was John Stobbe; pool was by Mardy. (Independent-Journal photo)

Care Of Paint Roller Determines Its Life

Like a paint brush, a paint roller will give neither satisfactory nor lengthy service if it is not given proper care. What is done to the roller after using it determines whether it will be ready for action the next time.

A roller that has been used with oil paint should be cleaned with turpentine; one used with a water-mix paint requires only soap and water. Sometimes the cover of a roller, especially if the material is lamb's wool, tends to become matted, in that event, comb it out with an ordinary comb before wrapping it in paper or foil for storage.

Take a few extra minutes with the cleaning to be sure you remove all the paint from the roller. If you don't, the cover will be stiff as a board the next time you plan to use it. For those who do a considerable amount of painting, it might be wise to invest in one of the special containers designed to keep rollers in prime condition between paintings.

Rollers have different types of covers, made from materials such as lamb's wool, mohair, sponge rubber and several of the synthetics. Your paint dealer will assist you in making the proper choice if you advise him what kind of paint you will be using. Wherever possible, buy the roller at the time you buy the paint. You can keep two or three different rollers on hand or you can buy the kind on which the covers can be changed.

The dip roller is the most popular. As the name implies, the roller is dipped into a paint tray and put into use. Some persons prefer the fill-type, which eliminates the dipping. Paint is poured inside the roller, with the cover so constructed that the paint oozes through it as it is being rolled on the surface.

In using the roller, do not try to cover too wide an area at one time. Cover a section as wide as the roller and about two feet long, working the roller back and forth evenly and not too quickly. Using fast strokes and pressing too much cause splattering. Redip the roller and cover another section of the same size, blending the paint into the part previously covered with a slight overlapping.

Along the edges of walls and ceilings, the ordinary rollers will not perform satisfactorily. These difficult areas can be covered first with brushed-on strips of paint or with small, edging rollers. There is some difference of opinion on whether it is better to use a brush or an edging roller.

Living Room Refreshment Center Makes Life Easier

Who wouldn't like to have a full-time maid working free of charge during the busy holiday season?

With the inevitable round of entertaining facing them, many a family will wish desperately for a faithful genie to cook, serve, and clean up at party time. Some families have wished for one so hard, that they've actually managed to conjure one up.

These smart homeowners haven't rubbed a magic lamp, they've built their servant into the house—in the form of a refreshment center, handily located right in the living or dining room.

Although the refreshment center may not do their every bidding, it's the next best thing to an old-fashioned genie, for it keeps all the entertaining aids in one central spot, ready to help the hostess at a moment's notice.

One good design for a refreshment center utilizes a niche in the room or a corner. It can be built in bar style with cabinets or enclosed shelving mounted on the wall and a serving counter set in front.

The backbar cabinets should be designed to house glassware, coffee cups, hors d'oeuvre plates and so forth. Underneath the serving counter, cabinets should be tailored for bottled goods, a coffee percolator, paper napkins, ash trays, and other party paraphernalia. If possible, a tiny sink should be added below the backbar cabinets, for this will prove an invaluable aid to quick clean-ups, saving the hostess many steps between living room and kitchen. A miniature refrigerator for ice and chilled snacks built into this area is also a big help to the hostess, and there should be electrical outlets for hot plates and the coffee pot.

Why Can't We Go Back To The Pantry?

Why can't we go back to the pantry?

Homemakers ask architects and builders that question every day. The answer usually is: "We can, but . . ."

Most designers do not feel the additional expense of a pantry is practical, but many families with older houses are updating their pantry. Other families with a seldom-used closet or small porch off the kitchen are considering the possibility of turning it into an efficient pantry.

A well-planned pantry, of course, is an ideal solution to the storage problem. If space permits, it can do double duty.

The freezer can be located in the pantry so that provisions are just a few steps away. Dad also can lay claim to a section for his bar supplies. Then, during a party, he can have his own base of operations.

What's In A Name? Contractor Rebels

Home builders often seek immortality by naming streets or entire communities after themselves. If the main street in Jones Village is called Jones Boulevard, Mr. Jones is likely to have directed construction, and the first streets in the development were probably named for his wife and children.

But a builder in Clinton, Conn., would rather be honest than immortal. He named a major street High Taxes Road after "a little trouble with local politicians."

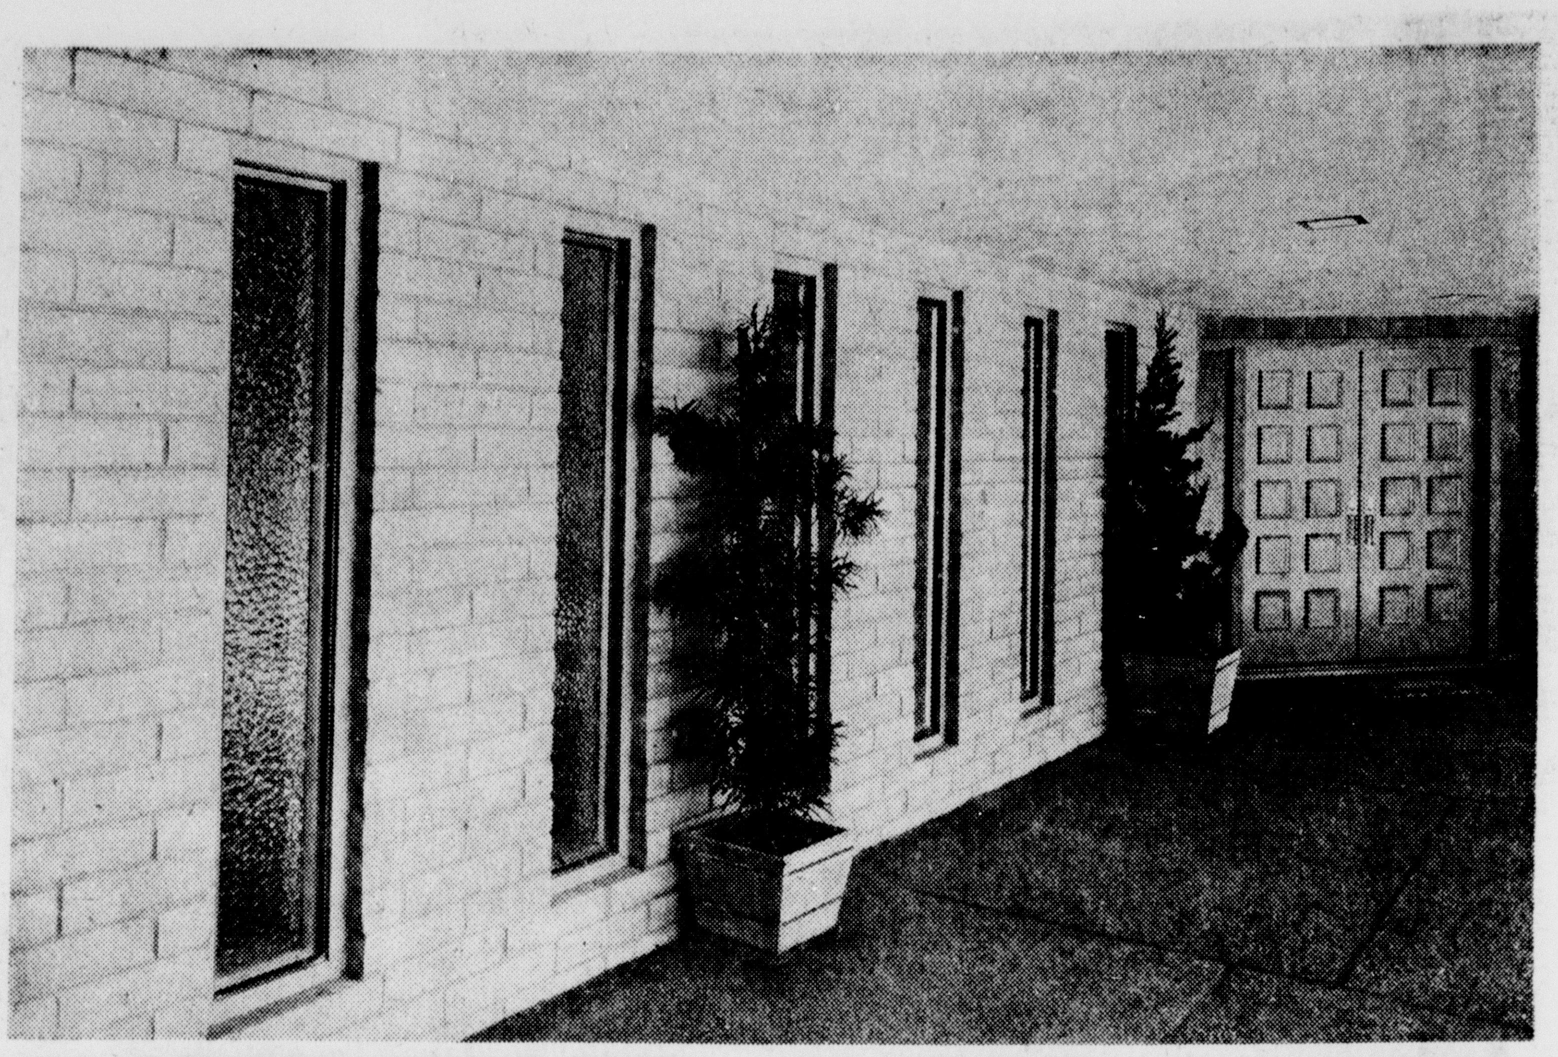
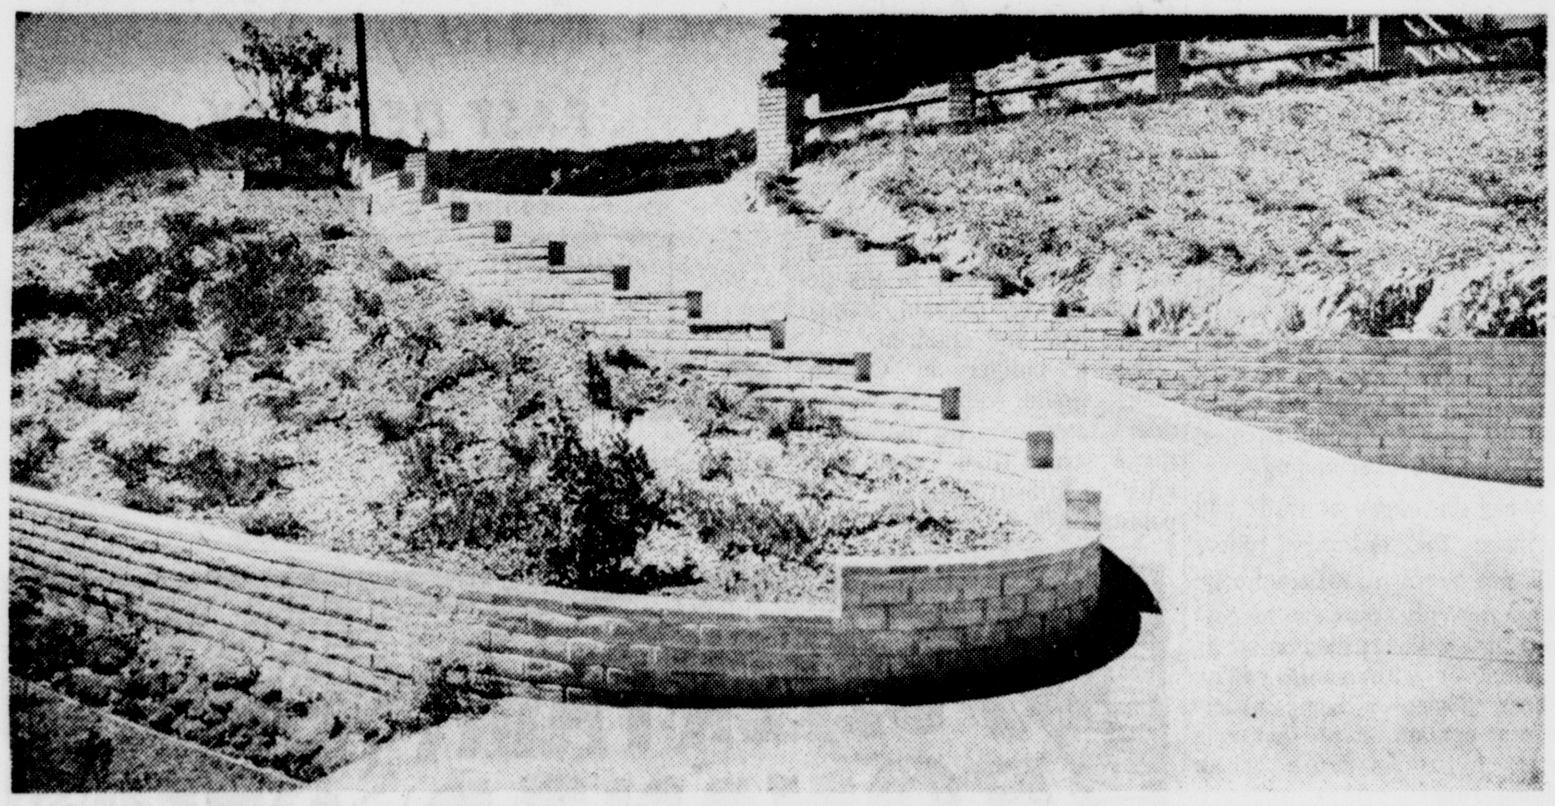
SLUMPSTONE COMPATIBLE WITH ARCHITECTURE

The popular new "Slumplite" building blocks manufactured by the McNear Co. in San Rafael blend nicely with other materials used in construction. At this frame and stucco house designed by Hageman-Thomas-Eklund, Inc. for Mr. and Mrs. Edson W. Berlin in Loma Verde the blocks have been used effectively in chimney, columns, stairs and garden walls. (Ken Molino photos).



MAKE DISTINCTIVE ENTRANCE DESIGN— Many homes make use of building blocks or field stone at the main entry. At the Berlin home, McNear's Slumplite blocks offer an interesting wall between the aggregate floor and the stucco overhead.



VERSATILITY OF BUILDING BLOCKS — McNear's Slumplite blocks have the appearance of adobe but are much more durable over the years. They fit in equally well with a severe architectural building design or a rustic layout of rambling garden walls as shown here.

Stippling, Striping For Easy Effect

Do-it-yourselfers can enjoy distinctive and imaginative painting results with stippling and striping. Ideal beauty treatments for walls and furniture, these "extra sepcials" take little time and effort.

Stippling produces a mottled pattern that gives a handsome textured look, which is practical as well as unique. The irregular design camouflages small surface mars and dirt marks and is excellent for walls and furniture that receive hard wear and tear.

The first step of the stippling process is to paint the surface the desired background color, allowing it to dry thoroughly. Next, brush the color to be stippled — either a contrasting hue or a lighter or darker version of the background color—generously onto a piece of wood, metal or heavy cardboard. Dip a slightly damp sponge into this brushed out paint and press it against the stippling color to the base coat in an irregular pattern. Repeat until the entire area is covered.

When stippling walls, you may prefer to use one of the special stippling rollers which also provide a mottled design. Some stippling rollers actually produce a definite pattern, such as a floral or abstract design.

Striping in a wonderful means of turning a plain wall into a focal point of interest.

Masking tape makes striping a wall an easy process. You have a selection of widths from which to choose. First, paint the wall the chosen background color and allow to dry. Next, apply strips of masking tape to the surface in the desired pattern. When the tape is securely in place, paint the exposed wall area in the chosen color and let dry. Afterwards, remove the tape. The results: a gayly striped wall that adds an ingenious touch to the entire room.

Vertical Panels Can Give Bedroom An Enlarged Look

Vertical paneling can make a small bedroom appear larger. This basic premise must be tied in with the use of light paneling, with the ceiling color even lighter.

The panels can be of wood, pre-decorated fiberboard planks or any of thet many dry materials which come in 16-inch widths. If ease of maintenance is an important consideration, try one of the plank boards with a plastic surface. Scuff marks, stains and hand prints can be wiped off easily with a damp cloth.

Be sure to get matching cove and base moldings with whatever wall material you select, so that there is a continuity of line and color.

If you want something different in ceilings, you can use the 16-inch-square plastic - surfaced blocks of the same material as the walls.

Baseboard Radiator Solves Heat Problem

Housewives often complain that the kitchen is either overheated at meal times or uncomfortably cold during the early morning and late evening hours.

The kitchen, of course, is one of the most difficult areas to heat properly because cabinets and appliances take up most of the wall space, frequently leaving no place for a heat distributer.

But that situation now can be remedied. Heating engineers have designed a new type of "baseboard" radiator that fits snugly against the wall right under the ceiling. Where kitchen cabinets reach all the way to the top of a wall, the trim heating unit then can be installed flush against the ceiling.

The high-wall or ceiling radiation can be painted to match the walls or ceiling, fits in with the kitchen's decor, and emits only radiant-type heat. Radiant heat will warm the room effectively from a high location because it travels like the rays of the sun in all directions, even downward, to warm solid objects.

This type of heating unit is suitable for modernization of the kitchen as it usually can be added easily to any exisiting hot water heating system which uses cast iron radiators, convectors or baseboards.

A new radiant heating baseboard can be installed as part of the kitchen's trim.

For example, if the wall or ceiling measures 20 feet long, and only 16 feet of radiation is needed for heating comfort, the remaining four feet can be "filled in" with a section of wood which is trimmed and painted to match the radiation.

Regular heating baseboards in other rooms are generally installed against exterior or window walls at floor level, taking the place of wooden baseboards.

Nylon Brushes

More than 50 leading paint brush manufacturers are now offering sash and trim brushes with tapered nylon filaments. It is said that this type of brush resists water and maintains its resilience through prolonged use with water-base paints. According to one school of thought, natural bristles tend to soak up water in these paints, becoming floppy and losing their shape. The new brushes also are said to eliminate "dumping," the term used by painters for the release of too much paint the instant the brush touches a surface.

Wood Imitations

The natural color and pattern of wood is beautiful and often copied. Although imitation is the most sincere form of flattery, most people would prefer natural wood instead of synthetic woods photographed on metals.

WORKING PAVILIONS FOR ROSS HOME

Meeting the requirements of a separate study for Dr. Joseph Henderson of Ross and a rehearsal area for his wife, a dancer and choreographer, architects Hooper, Olmstead and Emmons designed two hexagonal pavilions connected by a small roof and a large deck — all detached from the main house. Dance studio in the foreground opens in two directions through sliding doors to the deck where occasional performances will be held in good weather. Dr. Henderson's study (rear) turns its back to the deck, looking downhill to an undeveloped woodland. Structural engineers were Gilbert, Forsberg, Diekmann, Schmidt. (Gerald Ratto photo)

Pickup Truck Can Be Ideal For Suburban Home Owner

As a suburban home owner, have you ever considered the benefits of making your "second car" a pickup truck?

That pile of rubbish or clippings can be loaded aboard and whisked to the local dump in not much more time than you would ordinarily spend on a Saturday or Sunday morning wondering what to do with it.

Building a fence? A stone or brick wall? A trellis? Repaneling a room? Need shrubs, bushes or trees from the nursery, too large to fit in a station wagon?

Materials from your builders' emporium can usually be trucked home at a savings from having the supplier deliver them to your door. And they can be brought in when you need them —not after the mood to work has passed you by.

It isn't likely that these projects alone will give a truck full-time usage—but there are other ways to put it to work. Recent model pickups are as smooth and economical to operate as a passenger car, and many of them are just as well styled. They can be handled easily by a woman—who may not care to drive one to a swank afternoon party, but she should not mind taking it to market.

Perhaps on those days a prestige vehicle is required, the man of the family will agree to a swap.

With extra equipment, overload springs and shock absorbers, pickup trucks also make good campers and outing vehicles.

One-half ton trucks are generally large enough for most home jobs. Late models have wide cargo space; some have extra long beds.

Wet Bottom Problem Also Hits Houses

The wet bottom problem is as common to homes in damp soil as it is to babies, and builders have tried everything from sump pumps to diapers to solve it.

The latest, and most effective method of sealing basements from water seepage, according to Practical Builder magazine, is to coat and reinforce the concrete block masonry from the outside. This is done by applying a double layer of cement plaster and a final hot bituminous coating over the concrete blocks.

Children's Rooms Winning New, Necessary Attention

Time was when parents enforced the code that "children should be seen and not heard." Nowadays it seems the idea is that the little darlin's may be heard and not seen. And nobody wants it more than the young fry who glory in their delightful new home set-up. They are content to sleep and play in areas of the house set up for their own use. The house may ring with sounds of laughter but children are not underfoot or at loose ends as they were in years gone by.

WHAT HAPPENED

The difference is in what has happened to children's rooms and playrooms. No longer is a child's bedroom a place of cast-off beat-up furniture—unless it is livened with paint or paper. Rooms are geared to keep children happy in their own bailiwick. Space and gaiety are spelled out in bright colors, ingenious use of materials and decoration with child appeal. Furniture is kept to the useful minimum, rather than overwhelming the entire area.

A do-it-yourself father can create in his workshop many of the essentials in one of these rooms — shelves, desks, little tables. He can paint them in the bright colors children love. And he can find ideas that are different at stores and decorating shows.

Designers convert little used places to playrooms such as attics, equipping ceilings with bright tiles, livening up bare walls with gay, inexpensive posters, using old trunks brightly painted for toys. Wicker chairs and tables are inexpensive and easily painted.

As much ingenuity goes into creating a room for a child as goes into organization of a living area for the parents, in some instances. At a recent decoration show children's rooms were as full of ideas as other highlights of the show found in adults' quarters.

PLAID CARPET

In one room a chic tartan plaid carpet would delight any junior bagpiper. The red was repeated in the little rush-seat chairs and a modern style hanging lamp. The alphabet was spelled out in foot high letters, adding a decorative note across one wall. Another wall was strung with a line of paper dolls. And in one corner of the room was a plant that would have made Alice envious—the largest tulips imaginable in a play world, made out of crepe paper.

A novel vaudeville room was designed as a fun center for children who love to show off, play stage or enjoy puppets. A stylized omnibus in the room made out of plywood served as a soda bar with little stools at the windows. There was a bell fare box and other accessories obtained from old trolley cars. Inside where advertisements normally appear were examples of young artistry.

A collage on the door to the child's room was a decoration of real pennies, birds, animals and other child-like designs, an idea whether the child prefers old license plate markers or wooden soldiers.

PAINTED LOCKERS

One children's area showed green metal lockers that had been painted the colors used in the room—sort of a mauve. Another showed leopard plus fabric used for cushions and matching pupeteer curtain.

And if you want to know the answer to the nursery rhyme, "lady bug, lady bug, where have you been?" it'll probably be "to the floor, to the floor."

Random tiles were stencilled with red lady bugs, spaced between plain white floor tiles in a children's section of a family room for a delightful effect. The designer solved the problem of togetherness—too much or too little — whatever the case may be. He put a window-type wall to separate a family area and a child's area. The shade was used from the bottom up, so that children may be kept in view but not underfoot. Children and adults may join together when the occasion arises.

A small television set is built into their wall, and there are open shelves for the collection of "things," an innovation to please mothers the world over.

The rooms are tied together by the use of one color scheme, a moss-toned background with accents of lipstick red, tangerine, blues and mauve.

Special Cans For Gas Used

Gasoline which is stored in the garage for use in the power lawn mower should be kept in a galvanized steel fuel can equipped with a tight-fitting cap. These cans should be kept in cool places away from other flammable material, and out of reach of children.

Fire-safety experts caution against using non-metal gasoline containers. In extreme heat, gasoline will eat its way through a non-metal container and create a very serious fire hazard.

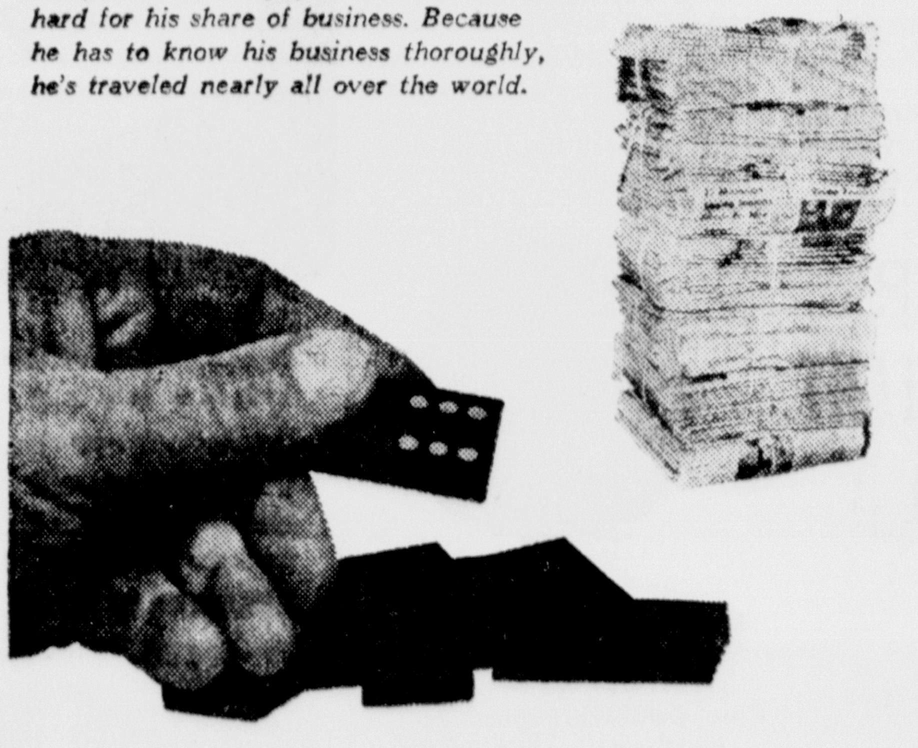
Should your son become an advertising man ...like Al?

Alden Crow works for a newspaper. His job is to interest travel firms and resorts in advertising in his paper. Their advertisements help you pick a vacation spot, and the best way to get there. Many other media compete with Al's paper, so he has to work hard for his share of business. Because he has to know his business thoroughly, he's traveled nearly all over the world.

Al still finds time for his favorite hobby—travel! (He writes travel articles, too.)



He relaxes by trying his luck at dominoes.

He leads a full life with his family.

Al's a skillful advertising man. He's young—but makes a good living. He ought to, because the advertising business demands a lot of him. It's a business where the average is above average. Sometimes it's tough. Often fun. And always challenging.

Advertising's important to you, too. Good advertising is the least expensive way to tell you what's for sale. This helps you enjoy vacations; buy at lower cost; lead a fuller life. When you buy a product you saw advertised in newspapers, magazines, or on TV—or heard about on the radio—you help keep people in jobs. When you learn about a new product and buy it, you help create jobs.

Of course, Al is not an average guy.
But then is your son?
Why shouldn't he become an advertising man?

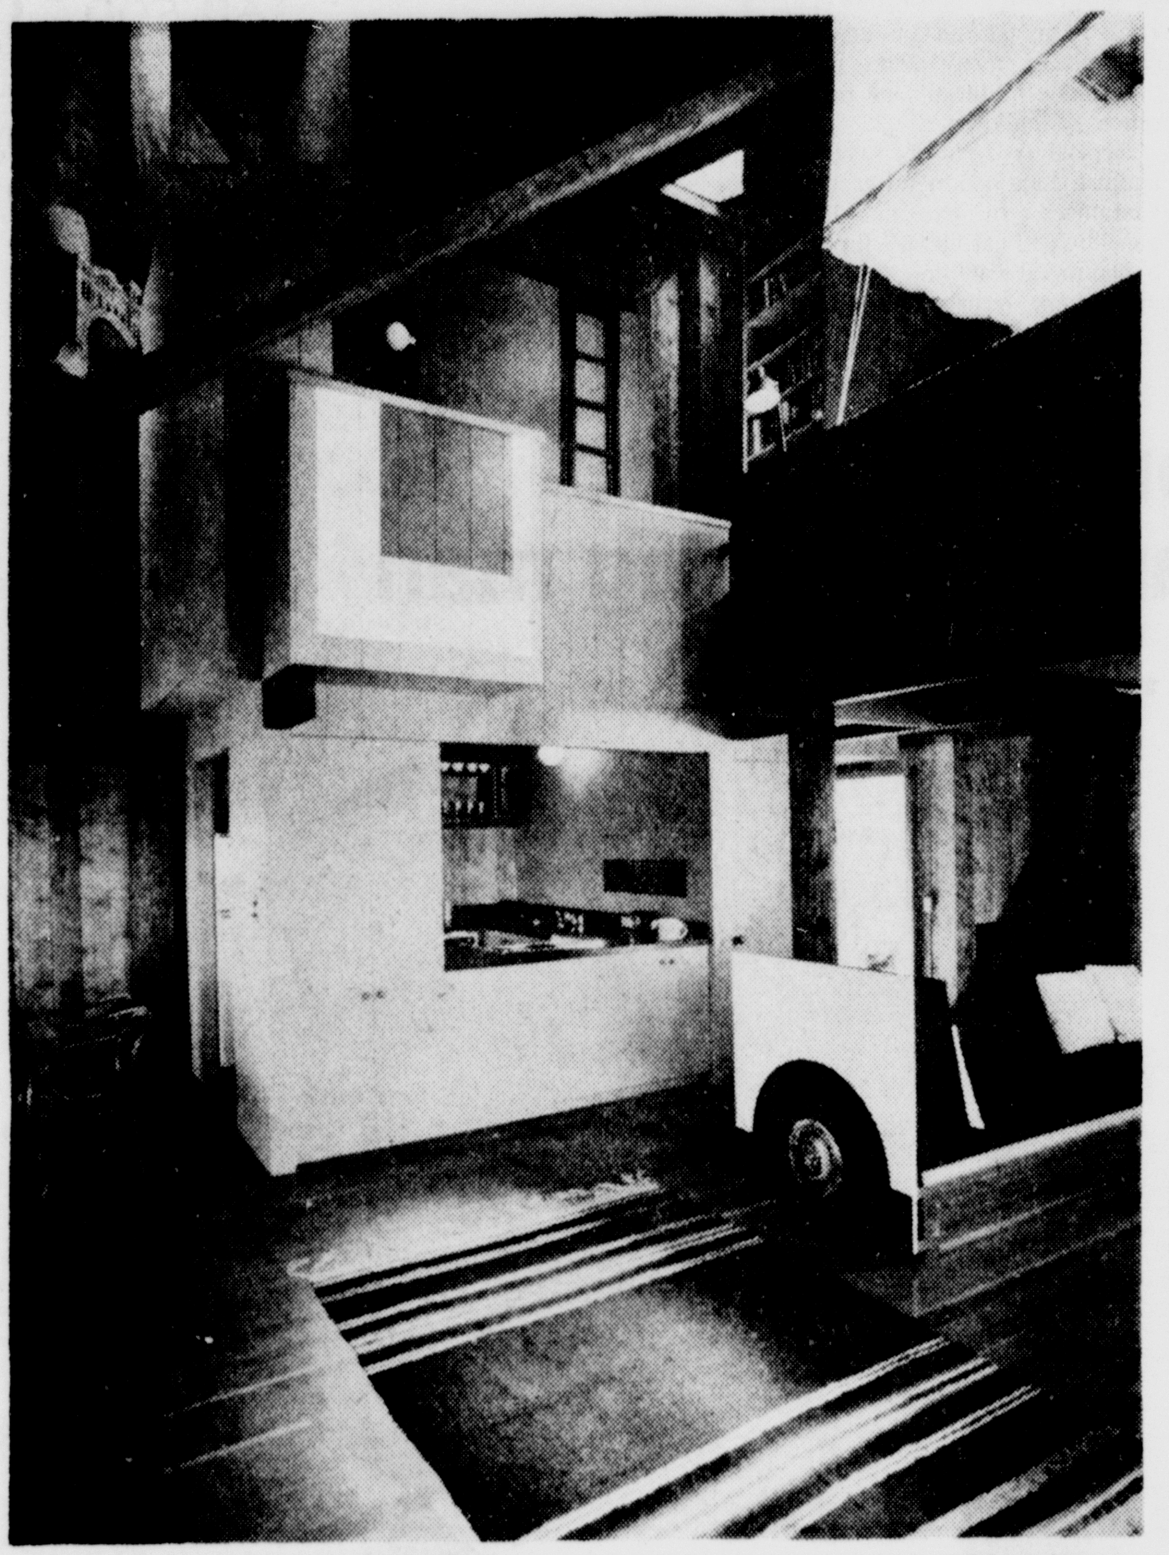
SECOND HOME COMMUNITY

This aerial view of a section of the northern Sonoma coast shows the site for Oceanic Properties' weekend and vacation community now under development. An award winning condominium in center foreground is located near a store and restaurant for property owners and visitors. Lots for private homes will follow the lines of the hedgerows at upper right, leaving large open areas for picturesque "commons." Private airport is scheduled for completion later this year.



SKYLIT LIVING AREA — Interior of this Sea Ranch condominium apartment features an unusual hearth at the right, while directly above it is a sleeping room, curtained with a canvas canopy for privacy. The coast development is located near the mouth of the Gualala River on Route 1. Lawrence Halprin and Associates created the master plan for the project.

Quick Act May Save Expenses

There is always something in need of attention around any house. It may be nothing more than the replacing of a worn-out washer in a leaky faucet, or putting a drop of oil on a squeaking hinge. A wise home owner with a mind toward saving a dollar here and there is constantly on the alert for domestic trouble spots.

Take a leaking tub, shower or sink, for example. If it is not repaired in time, the ensuing damage can be costly. And leaks will often happen even when the best of materials are used.

An astute home owner will check the source of trouble immediately, even if it appears just to be a simple leak. If it's a minor job, he can usually handle it himself. But a major repair project is a job for the professional, particularly if walls or floors have to be removed.

In many cases the leak may have resulted by flaking away of the caulking material, a sealing compound used between the tile and the bathtub or shower. Caulk is a putty-like substance that can dry out eventually and then sometimes chips away.

Most caulking compounds, which can be bought in any hardware store, come in a roll-up tube with a hollow applicator tip. Simply insert the applicator tip into the open seams separating the tub from the wall and squeeze, making sure to fill the opening completely. Smooth with your fingertip. Before applying the compound, be sure to remove all traces of the old material and wipe the space dust-free.

Gift For The Home May Be The Answer

A gift for the home may be the answer to some of your Christmas shopping problems this year.

Houses always need something and whether you buy the gift for your own home or for someone else's it's bound to be one that's appreciated by a whole family.

In addition to household gifts like dishwashers, garbage disposals, sofas, chairs, clocks, toasters, record players, pianos, china and glassware, the magazine has come up with a number of home gift suggestions that range from the luxurious to the practical. They include:

1. A swimming pool.
2. A fancy shower head that can be adjusted to produce everything from a gentle spray to a needle-like torrent.
3. Green growing plants or their man-made counterparts.
4. An all-purpose power mower that not only cuts grass but plows snow, tills, aerates, mulches, etc.
5. Logs for the fireplace.
6. Accoustical tiles.
7. Outdoor shutters.
8. Plywood panels for the basement.
9. A new light fixture.
10. A good looking mail box.
11. A door knocker.
12. Slate for a patio.
13. Cedar paneling for a closet.
14. A galvanized steel shed for cellar storage of tools.
15. A sauna — Finnish - style steam bath.

In addition to the above, Christmas might be the time to undertake needed home remodeling or refurnishing projects. These might include a needed electrical overhauling, new window treatments, or new rugs.

Tower Apartments

The newest idea in apartments is prefabricated modules suspended by cables from a utility tower.

The tower, supplying water, heat and electricity, would be constructed on site. Pre-built apartment units would then be attached by cables and connected to utility lines.

Charm Substitutes For Home Dollars

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It's time to take the charm quotient of your house.

And don't be fooled by its size. Just because your home "has everything," it doesn't mean you have that essential ingredient, charm.

The swimming pool may be there. The sauna is a big production. There may be specimen trees, flowers, bushes, a lush lawn and an imposing house.

But extravagance in living is not the answer.

It's an intangible thing, charm, usually acquired (1) by buying a house that has it or (2) having the knack to put it in.

It isn't in "things," the kind of expensive alterations that add to your taxes. The little house up the road that is on a tiny speck of land may have it. Little-house people often look for charm substitutes in lieu of monied things they can't afford.

Here's a check-off that may get you off to a charming summer:

FRONT DOOR

At the front door: Is it just another door? How would it look with a small flower-filled basket hanging from it? Is there a place for a tall urn filled with greens into which you could stick a few bright flowers from time to time?

Are the porch steps rickety, waiting for handyman help? Don't discourage visitors because of it. Line each side with flowering plants.

Is the porch drab? How would plants look hanging from the porch ceiling where the sun would keep them going? Is there a place to put a flower box on the railing?

If the entrance is plain, can the downstairs windows be dressed with window boxes of colorful plants? Red and white petunias and variegated ivy are a lively combination.

COZY FENCE

Is the front lawn the type that can be fenced in inexpensively so that you can have rambling roses? This makes for one of the warmest (and most romantic) entranceways. And a little gate, too, stresses a cozy sense of privacy.

Is there a place on a back lawn for statuary? A sun dial?

Is there a tree around which you can build a circular bench? Even if you don't sit on it, the illusion of solitude will add to the atmosphere.

Is there an oasis near the swimming pool? Not just a place where you change clothes, but a place where you can rest in the shade, something with a light cover or with an overhang of some kind—trees or a lattice frame covered with vines. The most expensive swimming pool can have a hot, sticky look when it isn't in use.

Do the birds seem at home around your place? Little bird houses can add vast amounts of charm and besides their decorative aspects provide a haven for our feathered friends. They'll reward you with songs.

Is there lots of shrubbery? A clump of it? It's an ideal spot for low benches. One answer is a slab of slate over white painted cinder block ends, cast concrete ends or metal stanchions such as those of old sewing machines that may be renewed by painting each year.

UNDER FEET

Charm can be in a brick or flagstone walk from the gate entrance to the door. (Plant creeping thyme or grass in between.) It can be in the color of shutters, the red of a barn or lily pads in a pond.

Many persons fail with the charm needle because they think in terms of bigness. Any do-it-yourself operation must be within the scope of the handyman's energies and the time at his disposal. It is much better to have a small lawn and flower border as your show piece, something you can do well, than to spread out everywhere with flowers and ground covers that take masses of time to propogate and weed.

Every home should have pinpoints of charm. Like lace and pailletes on a dress or a savory on the buffet table, a little of it will provide the final fillip that makes the difference between a house and a home.

Low Cost House

A low-cost, quick-construction house has been developed in Kentucky under grants from the Office of Economic Opportunity. The single-story structure sells for less than $6,000 and can be built by four unskilled laborers and one supervisor in about two weeks.

Outdoor Clothes Hanging Common

An outdoor clothesline still is an important item for thousands of housewives, even in this age of the automatic dryer.

Many housewives prefer to hang sheets, diapers, and other things outdoors on sunny days. The clothesline also is convenient for drying swim suits and towels during the summer.

And it's an ideal place to air rugs, bedding, slipcovers, drapes, and curtains during fall cleaning.

It's no trick for the home handyman to install the posts for a clothes-line in the backyard. A little digging, some small-scale concrete work, and the job is done.

Because of the weight they'll be holding, the posts should be set in concrete.

Curving Is Easy

Curved benches are easy to build. First build the desired frame of sturdy Douglas fir 2x4s, then use one-by-three inch strips laid on edge with quarter inch spacing to form the seat. You can bend these 1x3s to any desired shape.

AWARD WINNING CONDOMINIUM

This 10-unit structure, perched on a cliff at Sea Ranch, received a citation from Progressive Architecture. It was designed by Charles Moore, Donlyn Lyndon and William Turnbull Jr., who are now drawing plans for a 13-unit condominium to be constructed on a forested hillside of the development. Units are expected to be completed this fall.

Robot Takes Drudgery Out Of Cleaning Swim Pools

Now a robot-like device has been invented to eliminate the drudgery of cleaning backyard and public swimming pools.

Called Pool-Sweep it floats on the water and, unattended, proels itself about the pool in a predetermined pattern, pulling two specially designed, weighted hoses which travel along the pool's floor and walls. Jet streams of water, forced through the hoses under extremely high pressure, loosen dirt on the walls and floor, then sweep it out through the pool's main drain.

LEAF PROBLEM

A leaf-trap, positioned over the main drain, catches leaves and other objects that are too large for the drain.

Manufacturer of the patented Pool-Sweep is Arneson Products, Inc., of San Francisco. Inventor of the device is Howard M. Arneson, the firm's president.

The robot-like device is completely automatic; it need not be attended during operation. Eliminating the need to close down a pool during the day for cleaning, Pool-Sweep comes with a timer that can be pre-set to permit use of the cleaner at night or when the pool owner is away. Powered by water under high pressures, it can even be operated while swimmers are in the pool. The unit utilizes the pool water to do its cleaning; no outside water is needed.

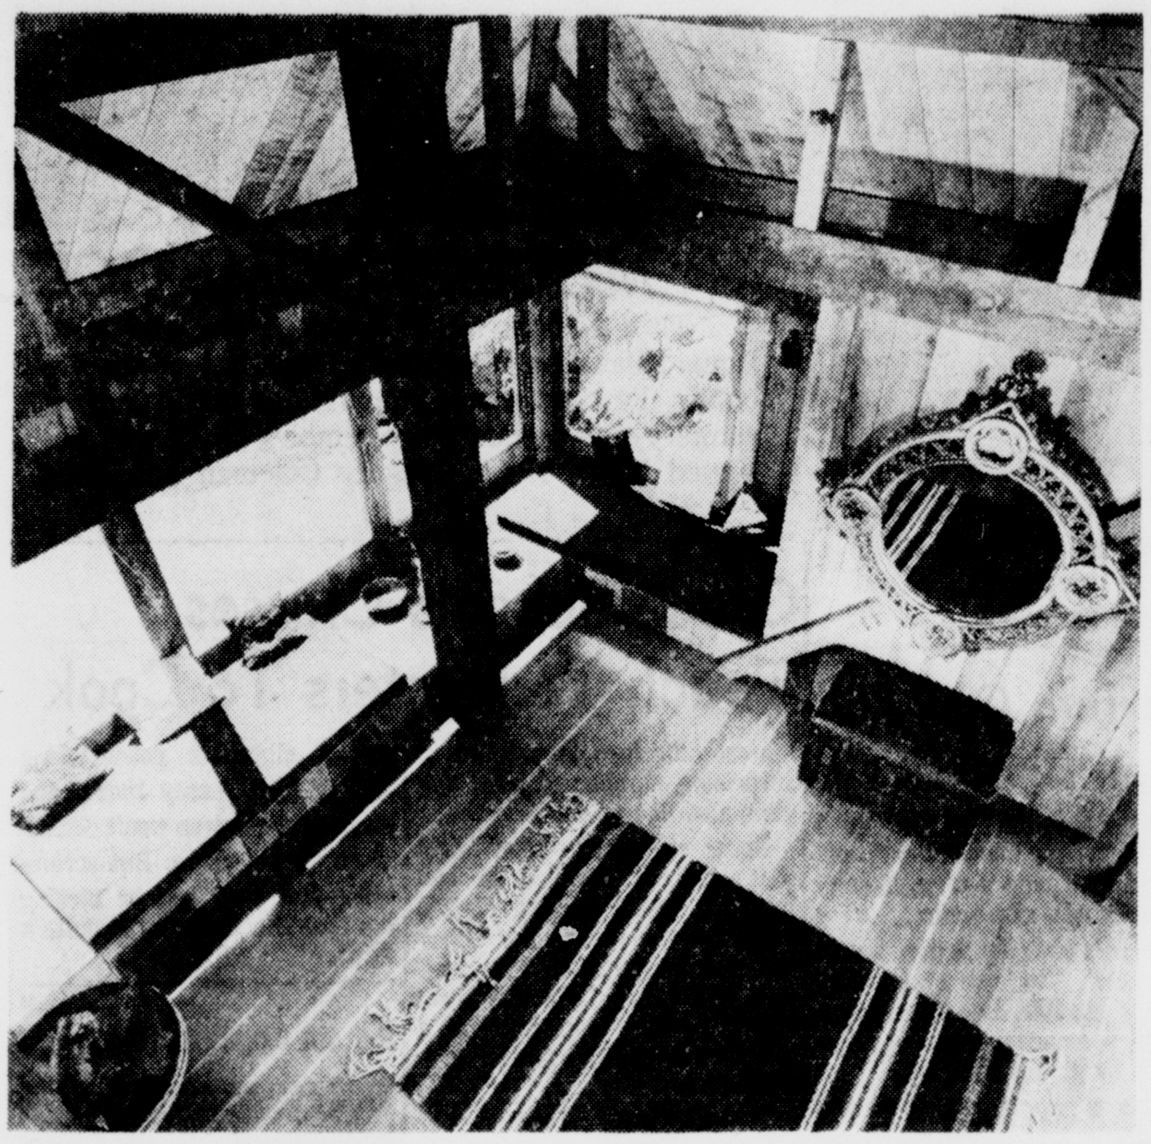
Key to the operation of Pool-Sweep is a water turbine housing able to withstand high pressure created by the continuous flow of chlorinated water, resist abrasion and chemically caused deformation.

The crucial component is made of Merlon polycarbonate, a rugged, space-age thermoplastic which recently was used to make the protective helmet over-visor that the two U.S. astronauts wore on the Gemini 4 flight.

LIKE OUTBOARD

Looking something like an outboard motor without a boat, Pool-Sweep is propelled around the pool in a clockwise direction by the force of a rotating driving jet, powered by water under high pressure. As the driving jet slowly revolves — it makes approximately one revolution every four and a half minutes—the cleaner is directed on its programmed path. The lower half of the unit's outer shell rotates so that, when it is in contact with the pool wall, it follows the pool's contour.

The two cleaning hoses, the lengths of which are determined by the pool's dimensions, hug the floor and side walls, covering approximately 15 miles of surface an hour. As the hoses move sideways and in a recoiling action on the pool walls and floor, the pressure of the water ejected from them loosens the dirt and washes it into the main drain and filtering systems.



RUGGED ARCHITECTURE—Looking downward into one of the living rooms of Moore and Turnbull's award winning condominum, where wide window seats afford an unobstructed view of the Pacific Ocean. The second home development of Oceanic Properties, where more than 100 homesites have been purchased, has a number of houses under construction or in the planning stage.

Supply Dealers Branching Out

Your building materials supplier may be much more than a retailer of building supplies. He may also be a builder, a remodeler, a land developer or even a manufacturer.

A survey conducted by Building Supply News showed that 80 per cent of the nation's 1502 building supply chains are engaged in other activities besides the sale of building materials.

The trade journal said 56 per cent do remodeling jobs, 48 per cent to contracting, 31 per cent make components and 27 per cent are engaged in land development activities. Many also sell fuel, grain and ready-mix concrete.

Center Location

The best workshop location for a power table saw is in the center of the room. This provides plenty of space for handling large pieces of wood. Where the machine must be placed against a wall, it can be moved easily when handling bulky lumber by installing special wheels on the legs of the table. These wheels have locks on them which prevent the table from moving while the saw is operating.

Housing Agency Joins People In Battle To Save Historic Places

WASHINGTON (UPI) —More persons than ever are living alone whether they like it or not.

There was a time when an elderly person automatically moved in with a relative rather than stay by himself. But there are signs the trend has changed.

Census Bureau figures for August showed there were about 9.5 million persons last year who lived alone in either a house or an apartment. Two-thirds of them were 55 years or older.

The total was twice the number in the same category in 1950. According to the Census Bureau, the big rise over the last 16 years reflects two things: the growing proportion of older persons in the total population and the growing tendency of older persons to maintain a home of their own rather than moving in with relatives.

Whether or not people want to live alone is up to them, but one government agency is trying to get not only the elderly, but the rest of the population, to work together in a good cause—preserving historic sites for future generations.

The agency is the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) which has issued a handbook telling groups how the government can help save bits and pieces of the American heritage ranging from 19th century row houses to Revolutionary era caverns.

Most of the historic sites are centered in the older parts of cities—the same ones that are victims today of decay, or are undergoing a renewal that can mean clearing away buildings with historical value.

But many of the same techniques used to renew slum areas can be used to rescue historic buildings, the housing agency points out. There are no federal urban renewal funds available for the single purpose of restoring buildings to authentic historic condition. But there are ways the programs sponsored by HUD can be used to help communities prevent landmarks from falling under the bulldozer.

For example, the agency said funds can be provided for:

An open space land program which improves the site around an historical building.

Relocating historic structures in the path of various public improvements.

Buying restorable buildings in jeopardy and selling them for restoration.

So far, more than 100 communities have used the programs to halt destruction of historic sites, the agency said.

Everyone In Family Should Know How Water Shut Off

Do you know where and how to shut off the water for your house?

Do you know how to shut off the water for the water heater?

Do you know where to turn off the water for the yard faucets so they won't freeze?

Perhaps you can answer "Yes" to all of these questions, but how about the other members of your family?

Plumbing contractors have observed that 90 per cent of their service calls do not come from the husband and father but from others in the house.

For this reason, everyone living in the house should know where to turn off thhe water for the whole house and for individual fixtures and appliances.

This very next week-end would be a good time for father to take all members of the family on a tour of the house explaining the function of the various shut off valves from the main valve at the meter to the water heater valve and the valves that control the flow of water to the various piping circuits.

In the orientation tour don't overlook the important valves found under the sink, lavatory and water closet for the individual control of these units.

Pattern On Floor

If you want to be different, you might want to design your wood deck so that the floor plan is in the form of a diamond, a trapezoid or even a circle. Wood, such as fir, is so flexible you can cut it to any shape.

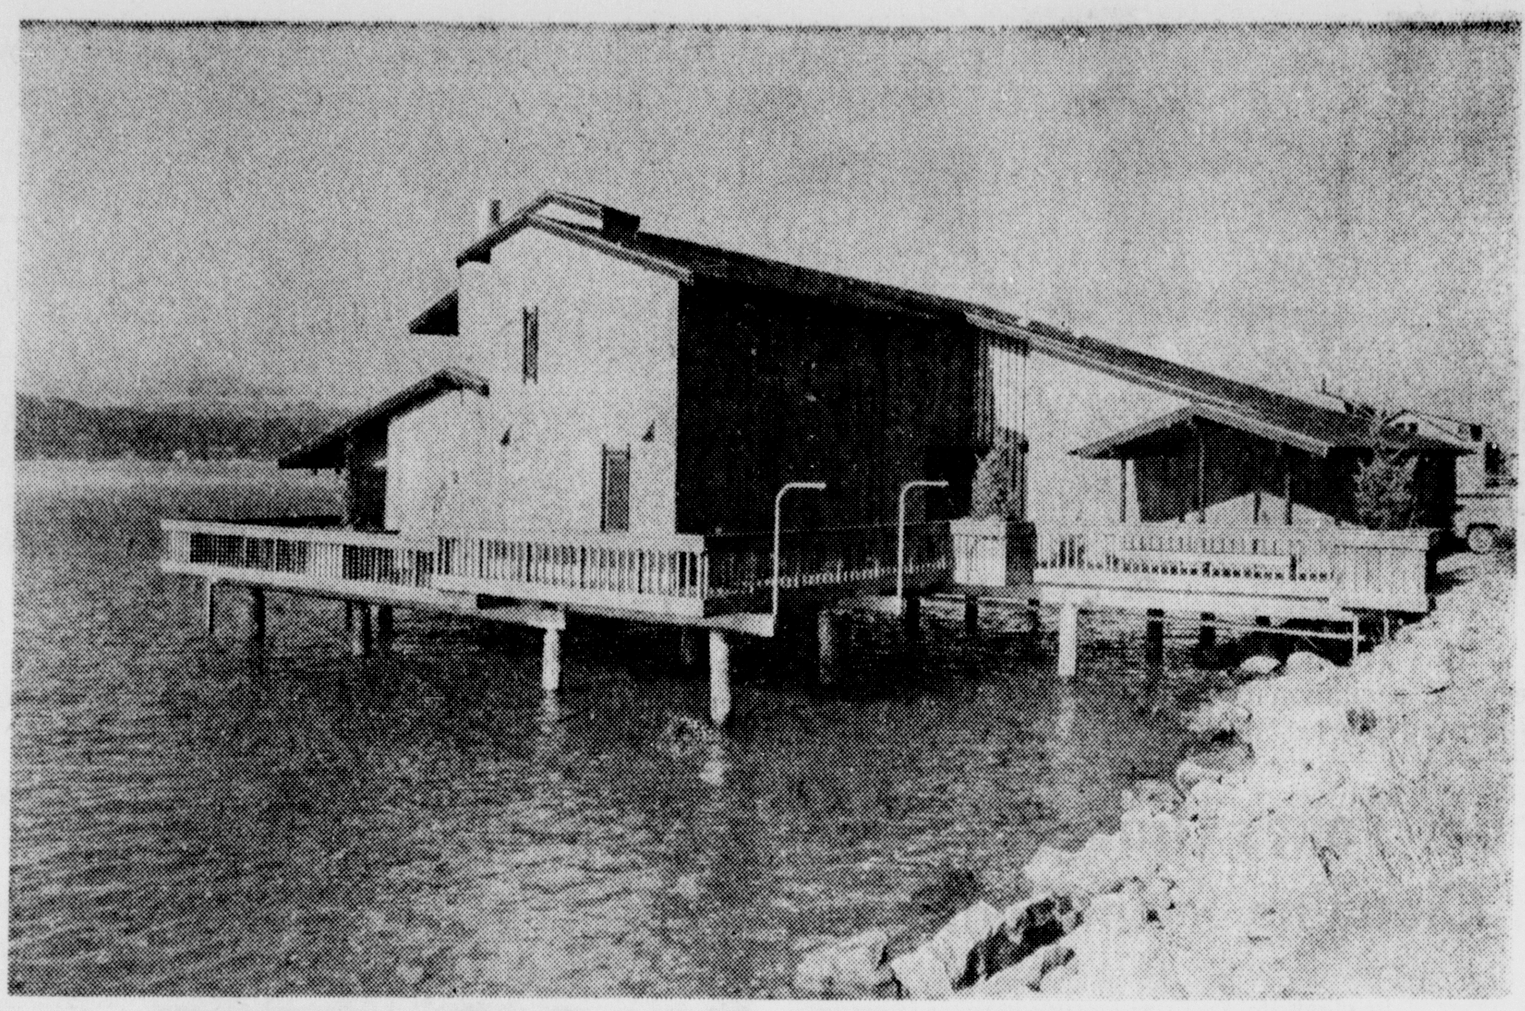
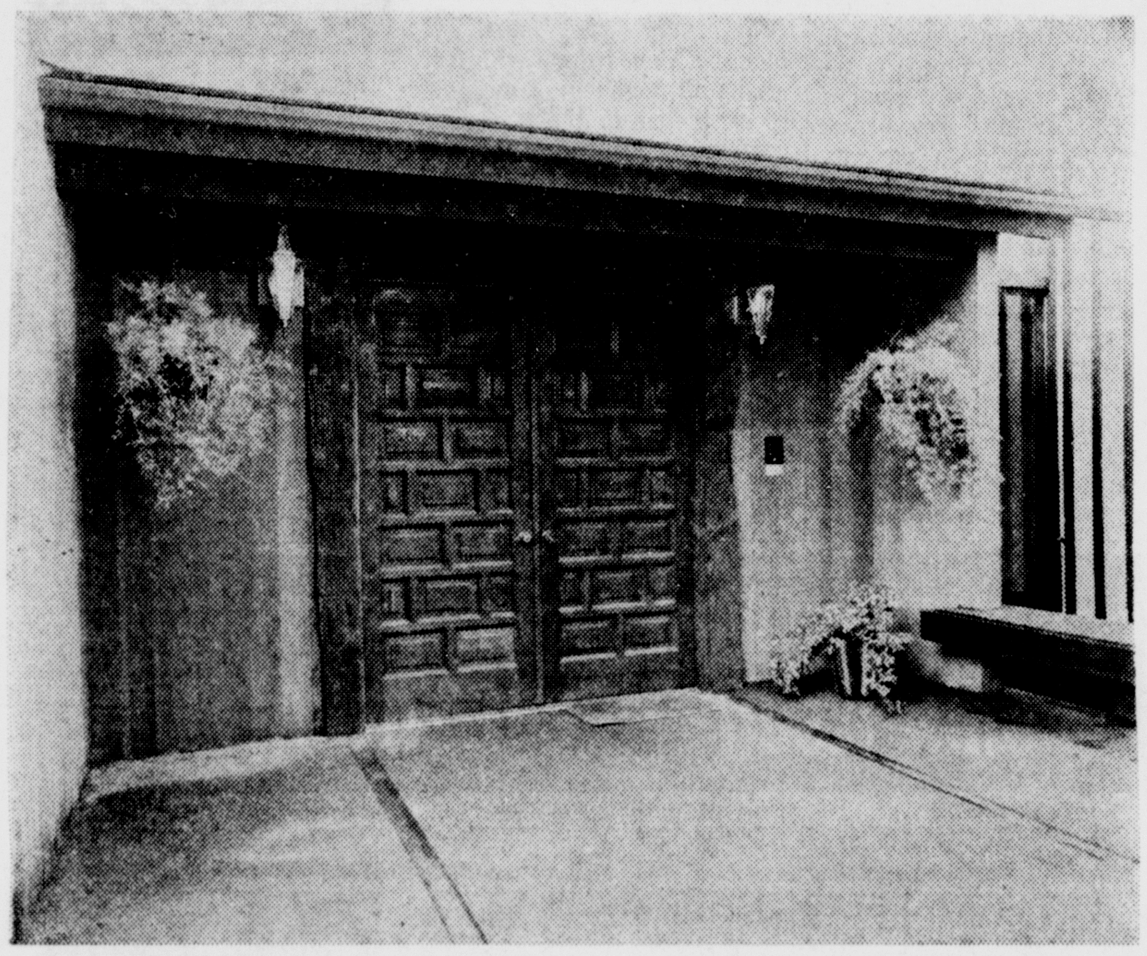
LIVING ROOM ALCOVE — This portion of the Davis living room is removed from the view. Comfortable built-in seating, upholstered in blues and greens of the water, make it a place for intimate conversation. The fireplace is made up of rusty boiler plates riveted together in the manner of old sailing vessels. Wall panels are redwood.



MODERN HOME OCCUPIES HISTORIC SPOT

This over-the-water home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davis on West Shore Road, Belvedere, occupies the exact site of an early-day Marin codfish cannery and somewhat resembles it. It was designed by D. Hugh Gregory Coleman and built by J. R. Coleman Construction Co. Offsets in the building create sun pockets and protection from the variable prevailing breezes. Absence of windows facing the street allows for maximum privacy. Deck areas represent the entire outdoor living space.



VIEW OF ENTRY — Hand carved doors at the Davis waterfront home in Belvedere were imported from the Mediterranean coast of Spain. Door framing was built of driftwood found floating in the water near the house. Exterior walls of the house are redwood treated with weathering oils to create a soft driftwood gray.

Texture Can Add Wall Dimension

There's nothing so flat as a flat wall. But take texture, add it to a wall, and you've literally added a new dimension.

Color is one way to give a wall character. The use of accessories is another. But the modern—and permanent—way to interest is by giving it depth.

It is a simple matter to add texture to a wall. V-grooved and striated hardboard paneling, both vertical and horizontal, are two popular ways of doing this.

Among the newest trends in this direction are walls with burlap, wicker, basket weave and louver patterns. This can be achieved by using factory-embossed hardboard, permanently textured during the manufacturing process.

Funneling String

An ordinary metal household funnel can serve as a string dispenser. Nailing it vertically to the wall, drop the ball of string in the top and feed the end of the string out through the bottom. Then pull from the bottom to feed out as much string as needed.

Grade Schools Classes Teach Youngsters To Cook

Most kids love to eat. But a surprising number of boys and girls also like to cook.

Home economists have found that students enrolled in elementary school cooking classes often show a facility for learning food preparation. They suggest that with a little help from mom, cooking can become a worthwhile hobby even for preteeners.

If you plan to introduce your youngsters to cooking, the experts advise that children learn as much from attitudes as from instruction. If you consider cooking a chore, chances are they will, too. If you find it pleasant and interesting, they'll react positively and learn more quickly.

One of the recommended ways to begin is with baking, because that involves fun food like cookies, cupcakes or pizzas. The modern features of an electric oven that simplify cooking for a housewife—automatic heat controls and timing devices, oven accessibility, see-through doors and quick and easy cleanups — make learning to bake easy and enjoyable for youngsters.

Kiddie-cooks will find range-top cooking equally easy and satisfying. Since automatic ranges eliminate pot-watching and prevent messy burns and boil-overs, children won't consider cooking a chore. But scrambling that first egg or turning the first pancake will be quite a thrill.

Light Colors Make Room Bigger

Light colors make a small room seem larger than it really is. If you have a small bathroom, keep this in mind when you remodel.

Another way to create a feeling of spaciousness is to stick to one color for walls and ceiling. You can introduce striking contrasts of color in your new fixtures — which run the gamut from soft yellows and beiges to brilliant reds and blues. Dozens of colors are now available.

When used with appropriate accessories, the color of the fixture can help suggest particular decors. Maroon fixtures, for example, are excellent for a Victorian or Italian Provincial motif. Pink is ideal for a young girl's bedroom. Pale green with black is appropriate for an Oriental theme.

Consumer Preferences In Cycles According To Experts In Colors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Consumer color preferences run in cycles, as do tastes in fashion.

A leading color consultant says the color cycle may run from 10 to 12 or to as many as 25 years, depending on the type of the product.

Faber Birren, head of American Color Trends, of New York, cites the trends in wall paint colors to show what he means.

"Consumer preferences . . . have gone through three dominant periods since World War II," he said. He listed the "Renaissance era" from 1946 to 1952 which was an epoch of green; the "pastel era" from 1954 to 1958 which saw sandalwood and beige continue to gain; and the "muted era" which took over the 1958 and has just recently started to give way to the demand for cleaner, bright tones.

How accurate are consultants on color? The DuPont Co., largely on the strength of Birren's advice, last year brought out a new off-white in both interior and exterior paint. The new shade was introduced formally at the House of Good Taste Exhibit at the New York World's Fair.

DuPont said the paint, named World's Fair white, became its most popular color in both lucite wall and house paints.

Birren predicted that the popularity of the off-white will continue. For interiors, the use of pastels — a trend that got its impetus in 1954—will dwindle. One tell-tale sign, he said, is the way appliance manufacturers are ditching yellows, pinks and blues and turning instead to copper, chrome and the like.

Popularity of beige will decline, he predicted, although it will still account for enough sales to rank as a standard color for some time. The dry, warm neutrals, such as gray warmed with yellow, will begin supplanting beige for interiors.

He predicted the bright pastels gaining over white for exterior painting.

Survey Shows Living Room Is Really A Big Misnomer

Living room is a misnomer, according to a recent survey.

Many families now consider the living room an area to be used mainly for company, while others see a return to a parlor-type room.

What has caused this change in thinking? The answer is simple—the overwhelming popularity of a recreation or family room.

Families with a large recreation room that has plenty of relaxing room, as well as space for hobby work, tend to reserve the living room for special occasions. Those with a limited family room turn it over to the children in the evening so that they have a private place to study; then use the living room as a quiet retreat for their own reading.

With this background, Robert Huff, home improvement director, points out that the living room is taking on a different character.

"People want to balance the informality of the recreation room with a more formal living room. There is a greater reliance on the traditional today. French, Spanish, Italian and especially English influences are making their impact felt in the decorating circles."

Take Look For Home Before Sale

Should you look for a new home before you sell your present one?

The answer is "yes" — if you can be sure you won't wind up paying for two homes simultaneously. The best safeguard against this is to make certain that your present house is as marketable as the one you're eyeing.

The marketability of a home, of course, is determined by its quality features. Prospective buyers want durable materials that never need replacing, require little maintenance and will add to the beauty, and the resale value, of the dwelling.

Your present home will sell if it's conveniently located, sensibly priced and offers such quality features. Even so, there are other steps you should take to protect yourself against the possibility of owning two homes at the same time—and paying two sets of bills for mortgage, taxes, interest, insurance and maintenance.

For example, you should get firm commitments from the mortgage lender, the seller of the house you want, and possibly a real estate broker. If you can't get terms that are satisfactory to you, your best bet is to sell your old house with the provision that you can occupy it for six months while you look for a new home.

Gift-Wrapped Home

You'll soon be able to order your home C.O.D. and have it gift-wrapped and delivered to your land in two big packages.

Practical Builder magazine reports that several home manufacturers now truck pre-built half-house sections ranging from 48 to 70 feet long. The halves are lowered onto a foundation, fastened together by two men, and ready for occupancy within 20 hours.

TOWNHOUSES SOON TO BE COMPLETED

Tiburon Terrace Townhouses on Lyford Drive, Tiburon are now farther along than when this photograph was taken early this month. Completion is expected by the end of September. The homes are spacious three and four-bedroom units averaging in excess of 2,000 square feet each and overlook Belvedere Lagoon and Richardson Bay, Mount Tamalpais and the Mill Valley Hills. Bell Associates is exclusive agent.

Vacation Homes Develop Along With Leisure Time

When is a vacation home not a vacation home? When is a mobile home not a mobile home? When is a retirement home not a retirement home?

One answer at a time, please.

Vacation—or second — homes began to grow popularity as people found themselves with more and more available leisure time. Instead of a day out with the kids, it became a weekend away at a second home in the woods or mountains or by the water. Which was fine, until the lady of the house discovered that she spent a considerable part of the weekend working instead of vacationing, principally because she had none or few of the maintenance conveniences available to her in her regular home. Pop, too, found that the rustic way of life might have its advantages but cut into the loafing or sports activity time, since something always seemed to need fixing.

The result? A definite trend toward vacation homes which are complete, modern and maintenance-free. In other words, the second home is becoming more and more like the first home except that it's smaller.

Mobile homes, the kind we think of as being pulled by family cars, are undergoing a somewhat similar transformation. They used to be small and rather basic in design and content. Now they are getting larger and larger, with high fashion interior design and furnishings. In many cases, they aren't even mobile, being far too big to be pulled around by anything less than a herd of elephants.

There must be many thousands of so-called mobile homes which were brought to particular sites by the sellers and haven't moved an inch since the buyers took over. These people are thus buying homes of this type for reasons other than their mobility. One factor is price. Another is psychological. When you live in a mobile home, you always have the feeling that you can hitch 'er up any time you please and head out for the wide open spaces.

Developments of retirement homes, tremendously popular at the start, are meeting resistance in some areas of the country. Builders have discovered that some old persons simply don't like the idea of living in a community peopled entirely by senior citizens. One major developer of retirement homes would not allow any couples in one particular new neighborhood unless they were at or close to retirement age. He recently lowered the age limit for new residents to forty, which is where life is supposed to begin anyhow. Despite this, other retirement communities have prospered. There apparently is no pat answer to this seeming contradiction, as you'd discover if you heard a group of builders and housing authorities debating the issue and attempting vainly to find a solution.

Slimline Is Key In Laundry Plans

"Slimline" is a key word for those homeowners planning a new laundry room.

Many of today's new washer and dryer units feature a compact size that can fit into small areas. For instance, a hallway off the kitchen now might be transformed into a convenient laundry center, saving the walk down the basement steps.

Other families have found that a large closet off the bathroom can be utilized as a laundry room. It is important, of course, to have water and sink facilities available.

If the new laundry center is to be located near another room in the main living area of the house, consider accenting it with an eye-catching decor.

Be sure to combine good looks and easy maintenance in this area, since heat and steam can ruin many floor, wall and ceiling treatments.

Split-Level Pool New Innovation

It is said that water seeks its own level, but this fact has not stopped imaginative pool builders from constructing split-level swimming pools.

Of course the water remains at one level, but the deck on one side of the pool is raised two to four feet above the level of the water to give the yard a three-dimensional look. Where the yard is sloping or rising, a split-level pool can reduce construction costs because less excavation is required.

The vertical wall makes an excellent, decorative back-drop for pool and patio activities if it is veneered with colorful ceramic tile. The same tile can be carried around the entire pool at the water level, and used on garden walls and decks in complimentary designs and colors.

Trend Toward Big Kitchen

The large kitchen around which family life centered in grandma's day is coming back.

Building Supply News reports a trend to larger kitchens in new and remodeled homes. What's more, homeowners want them fully equipped for both daily living and large-scale entertaining.

Kitchen experts told the magazine that advances in kitchen appliances and changes in family living habbits have given kitchens a dual role. "Beyond being efficient and functional, today's kitchens should reflect the way the family lives, and bear the stamp of its personality," they said.

Fast Cleanup

A major rule for keeping carpets and rugs in topnotch condition is to act quickly in the case of spots and stains. Before liquids or solids have a chance to soak in, use a cloth or sponge dampened with clear water or a cleaning fluid in the case of oily

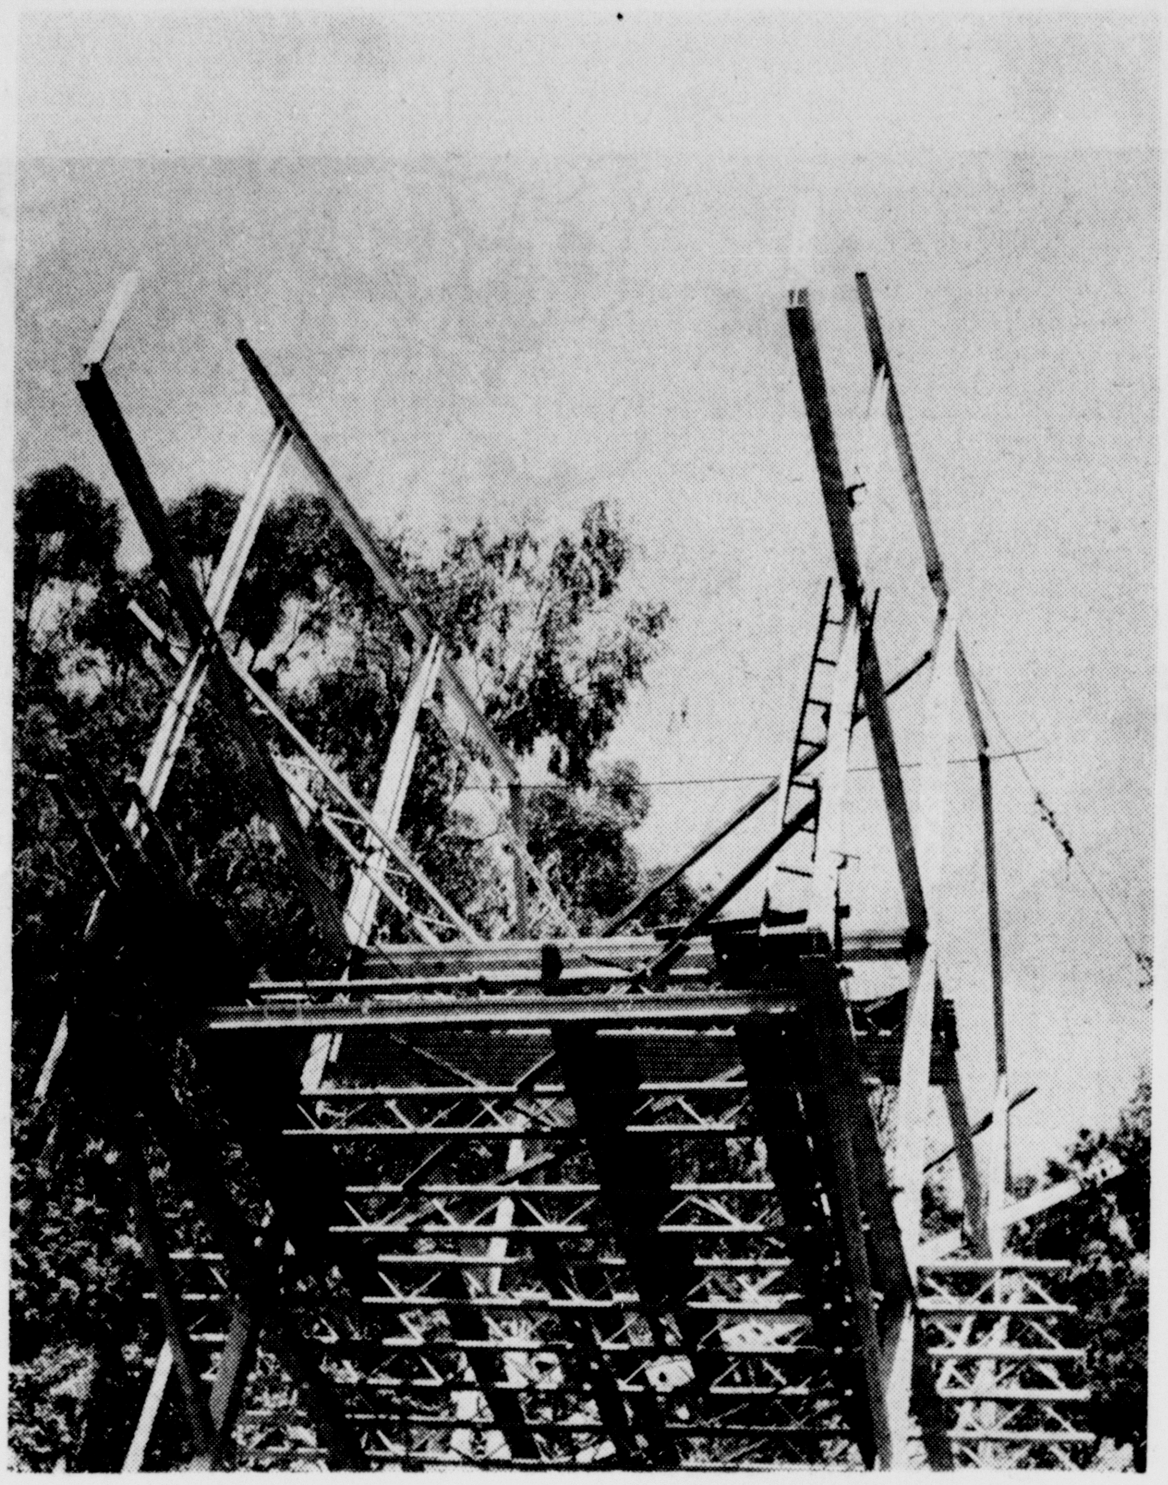
NEW CONCEPT FOR STEEP HILLSITE

A technique for building on precipitous terrain is shown in this dramatic view of the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Kaleys in Larkspur designed by architect Norman T. Gilroy. Built as a replacement for an adjacent summer cabin in which the owners lived prior to moving into their new home, the three-bedroom residence utilizes a site which slopes at more than a 2:1 ratio. Foundations consist of only four concrete piers drilled deeply into the rock by special equipment.



CANTILEVER CONSTRUCTION— Structural members of the Kaleys' house designed by architect Gilroy are steel, triangular for rigidity and strength. The house extends out 20 feet from the front footings, which would be a worrisome arrangement in a conventional wood frame structure. The Kaleys' house is a prototype for further applications of the cantilever principal being worked on for other steep slopes, with almost total elimination of grading.

In New Neighborhood

When moving into a new neighborhood, one of the first things the householder should do is establish working relations with a good plumbing contractor.

Moth Crystal To Protect Furniture

A sprinkling of para moth crystals or nuggets will keep carpet beetles from attacking and damaging upholstered furniture, the Chemical Specialties Manufacturers Association reports.

A slightly flared lamp shade gives a better spread of light than a straight or drum-shaped shade.

Use glass jars for freezing most fruits and vegetables, except those packed in water.

Remove crayon marks from linoleum with silver polish applied with a damp cloth.

Rub baking soda into hands, then wash thoroughly to remove lingering garlic or onion odor.

Striped denim is perfect as an ironing board cover. Stripes will line up the edges of jackets, skirt pleats, curtains.

Soak plastic shower curtains in a mild solution of liquid bleach and detergent for half an hour to remove soap film and soil. Wash curtains with a brush when soil is loosened and rinse well.

New Look Developing Along With Move Back To Dining

With many families turning back to the dining room for informal as well as formal meals, a new look in dining rooms is developing. It might be called a "semi-open" look — a compromise between the mere dining "area" and the completely separate dining room.

Since many homes built during the last two decades have open dining areas — at one end of the living room or the short leg of an "L"-shaped living room — there is a growing trend toward converting these open areas into distinct dining rooms, but without sacrificing the airy, spacious look that presently exists.

This compromise is being achieved in a variety of ways. One basic method is painting or wallpapering the dining area in a color or pattern that contrasts with the living room walls.

A different floor covering also will help set off the dining area. A vinyl or vinyl asbestos floor tile is easy to keep clean and comes in a variety of styles and colors.

For even greater separation without losing the desired spacious effect, hardboard grillework room dividers in such styles as Granada, Venetian, Oriental and classic can be used. These can be obtained already assembled or assembled easily with handy pre-sized grillework panels and pre-grooved moulding and then painted to fit in with the decor.

The ceiling also can be used to achieve separation between the two areas. With a few pieces of lumber, a false beam can be constructed and attached above the room divider.

As another architectural change, a sunken dining room effect can be created easily and without costly rebuilding of the floor simply by arranging a row of plants on the floor around the outer edge of the room. Bricks and stones can be used to fence them in and, if enough plants are not available, a bench can be built into one wall to help give the illusion of a "step."

A complete change in accessories from the living room to the dining area will add distinction. For example, if polished metal and glass objects predominate in the living room, you might use only porcelains in the dining area. Or, if paintings are used extensively in one area, sculpture or dimensional hangings can be used in the other.

New Homeowner Fixes Too-Small Living Room

Everything except the living room was right about the hillside house on a wooded drive in Cold Spring Harbor, N.Y. The three bedrooms were roomv, there were two full baths, the kitchen was light and ample, the grounds unusually attractive and the entire house was in good condition.

But the living room was so tiny it didn't appear to be part of a house so spacious in other respects. The new owners decided to do something about it. They had a contractor knock out the wall between the living room and the porch and extend the room to include all of the porch lying under the existing roof.

By using large sliding windows instead of solid walls to enclose the new room, the family gained not only an additional 212 square feet of living area, but a general sense of space. The entire backyard and its surrounding woods became an extension of the living room.

With such a large window area, it was important to choose windows that would blend attractively with the rest of the house, that would work easily and that would provide the greatest possible comfort. The owners chose sliding wood windows with insulating glass and a wood door, also glazed with insulating glass. All were stock units of pine, unpainted but chemically treated for weather resistance.

To make the new walls of windows completely comfortable, mineral wool insulation was installed in the areas above, below and between them.

The window and door frames were painted white to match the rest of the woodwork and walls. A brick fireplace was improved with the addition of a new wood frame and mantel. The wood planking that formed the surrounding wall was painted white to cover the brown paint with fake graining that previously covered the planks.

Opposite the fireplace wall, a combination storage wall and bookcase was installed. Storage shelves below and at the sides of the book shelves were covered by louver doors.

The once cramped living room was turned into a large room with charm and livability.

Heat Ducts Make Fine Stereo Set

For an inexpensive, whole-house hi-fi system, try using the heating ducts in your home.

It involves merely mounting a speaker on the warm air duct above the furnace and connecting the speaker to a hi-fi amplifier and record changer or tape machine.

The sound then is "piped" throughout the house by the ductwork and registers. With two registers in a room, there is even a stereophonic effect.

American Furnace developed the idea as an aid to builders in selling homes and is not selling sound systems commercially, but the company's experimental installations indicate ductwork sound can be practical as a home hi-fi system.

Tests have shown that vibrations at the speaker are not transmitted. Shape of the ducts and placement of the speaker do not affect the sound. Nor is the fidelity affected by air motion, which means the system will perform well even when the furnace blower is operating.

POOL WITH A VIEW

Landscape architects Katy and Paul Steinmetz designed this poolsite for their own home on Blossom Drive, San Rafael. Some trees had to be removed to make room for the pool, but several oaks such as at the left were saved to provide shade. Decking is non-skid concrete, surrounded by a strip of lawn. Ornamental shrubs are clustered under the oaks. Construction was by Anthony Pools. (Independent-Journal photo).

A POTENT ENEMY

Man Licks Space, But Not The Rat

Man may be getting closer to the day when he lands on the moon, but he isn't making too much headway about eliminating one of his worst enemies on earth—the rat.

U.S. health officials estimate that the rat population in this country is about equal to the human population. And in large metropolitan areas, there are 10 to 30 rat bites annually for every 100,000 residents.

Rodent control experts agree that it is almost impossible to get rid of rats entirely, but they are also in agreement that the rat population could be reduced substantially were it not for the apathy of the general public.

"We will never get to first base with rodent control until the public does its part," said John Childs, head of the Baltimore Department of Health's rodent control section.

"When people put out garbage in an open pail or throw it into an empty lot, they are feeding the rat just as though he was a family pet."

Irwin T. Howe, chief rodent control officer of the Chicago Board of Health, says rats would exterminate themselves if people would cut off their food supply.

"Rats are cannibalistic," Howe said. "They'll eat each other if people wouldn't feed them."

Childs, who with 10 sanitarians wages a constant war on rodents in Baltimore, said the public could help bring victory over the dreaded rat if they would shut off his main source of food—garbage.

He points out that all garbage must be disposed of in tightly covered metal containers; that food always should be kept covered; and that yards, basements and homes kept clear of filth and trash.

The covered galvanized steel refuse can is still the best safeguard against rats, health officers agree. Non-metal refuse containers can not deter a hungry rat. He will gnaw his way through anything short of metal if he's hungry enough.

Paper refuse containers are particularly easy prey for the hungry rat unless they are protected and covered by a metal enclosure.

Uncovered refuse containers of any material also present a serious health menace. If a garbage can is bent out of shape and no longer will accomodate a lid, then it's time to replace it, health officials warn.

There is universal agreement among health officers that garbage should be stored in rodent-proof galvanized steel containers and that the containers be kept covered at all times when unattended.

Lush Living Uses Bathroom Scales

Lush living now includes bathroom scales.

A French manufacturer has designed sit-down scales that are gold-plated and upholstered in white mink. Among those who plan to weigh-in in comfort are the Shah of Iran and singer Charles Aznavour.

Fixture Care Is Important

Here are some handy cleaning tips from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau to help keep your plumbing fixtures sparkling like new: Apply soap and water with a sponge or cloth, then rinse with clear water and polish with a dry cloth. If you must use a cleanser for more stubborn stains, be sure to select one that is not gritty or harsh, and never use a knife or razor blade to remove a spot. Clean spilled medicines, hair rinses and drain solvents immediately to avoid staining.

If a faucet leaks, fix it as soon as possible, since constant dripping in some types of water can cause fixture discoloration. In general, frequent rinsing and common-sense care will preserve fixture finishes indefinitely.

Good Planting Helps Pride Of Ownership

When the home and its grounds are well landscaped and planted, pride of ownership increases greatly. This, in turn, is of tremendous interest to mortgage bankers, since the funds loaned are a lot safer than if the property deteriorates. The home owner gains by higher resale value for the property, as well as happier and healthier "garden living."

Landscaping symbolizes the better neighborhood. Landscaping has grown rapidly in recent years. It serves several main purposes, as follows: (1) it makes the home more acceptable in the neighborhood; (2) good landscaping increases the resale value of the home up to 20 to 25 per cent of its value. If properly done, landscaping increases the pleasures of having a beautiful garden setting with plenty of lovely cut flowers like roses, camellias, lillies and many others for interior decorating. It also provides a setting for family recreation, as well as garden entertainment of friends and neighbors.

Landscaping should tie the home into its natural setting by plantings of shrubs and trees and lawns where needed. If properly done the appeal from the sidewalk should be one of beauty, with passersby thinking: "I'd like to live there!"

Amateur File Tips His Hand

An amateur user of a file can be detected immediately. He pushes the file forward and then, without releasing the pressure, pulls the file back towards himself.

The trick of using a file is to exert pressure on the forward stroke and little or no pressure on the return stroke. In fact, when working on especially fine stock or a small piece of wood, it is better to lift the file entirely on the return stroke.

Best results with a file are obtained when the work is on a level with your elbows. When through with a file, clean it and place it where it will not gather rust. And don't leave it in a drawer where it will bang against other metal tools.

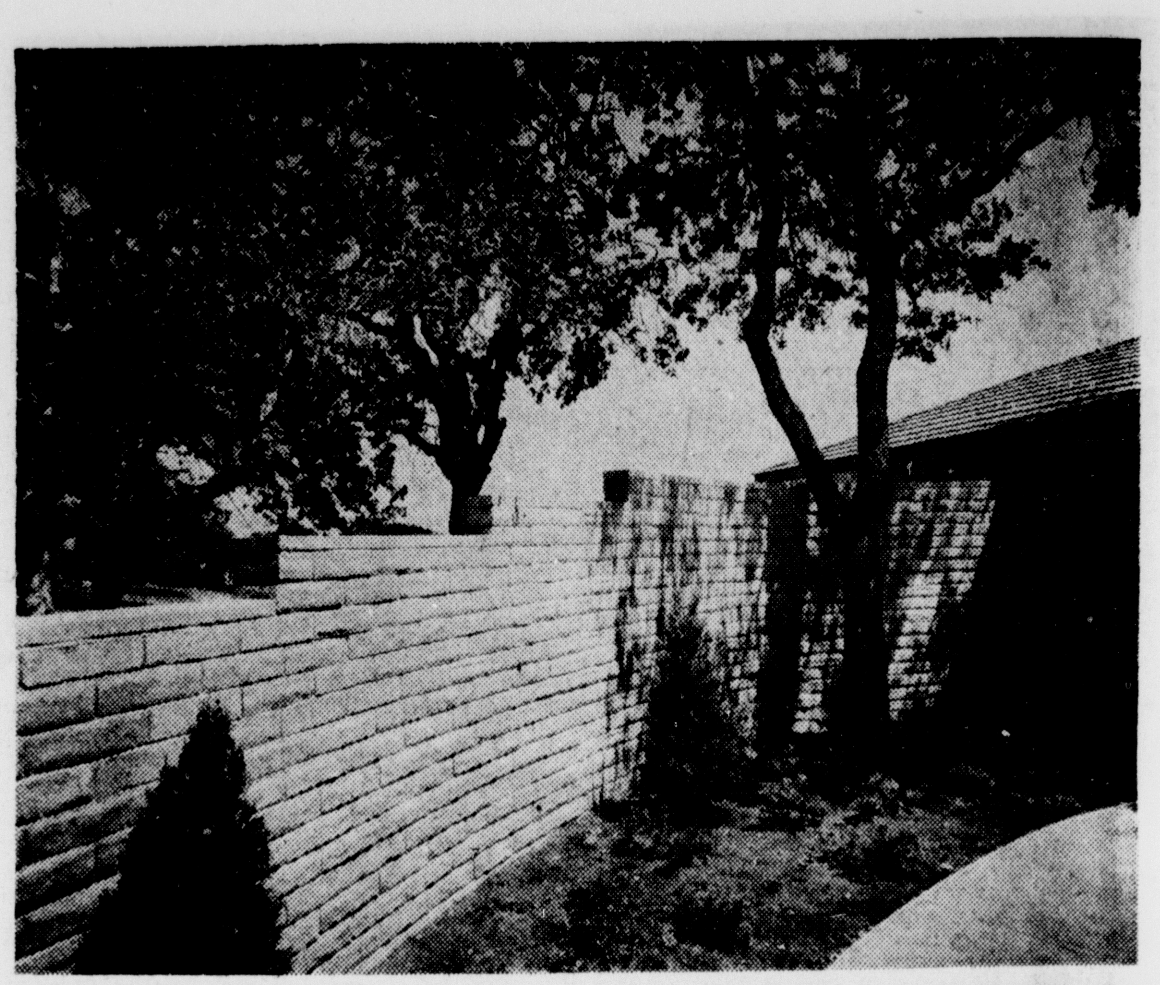
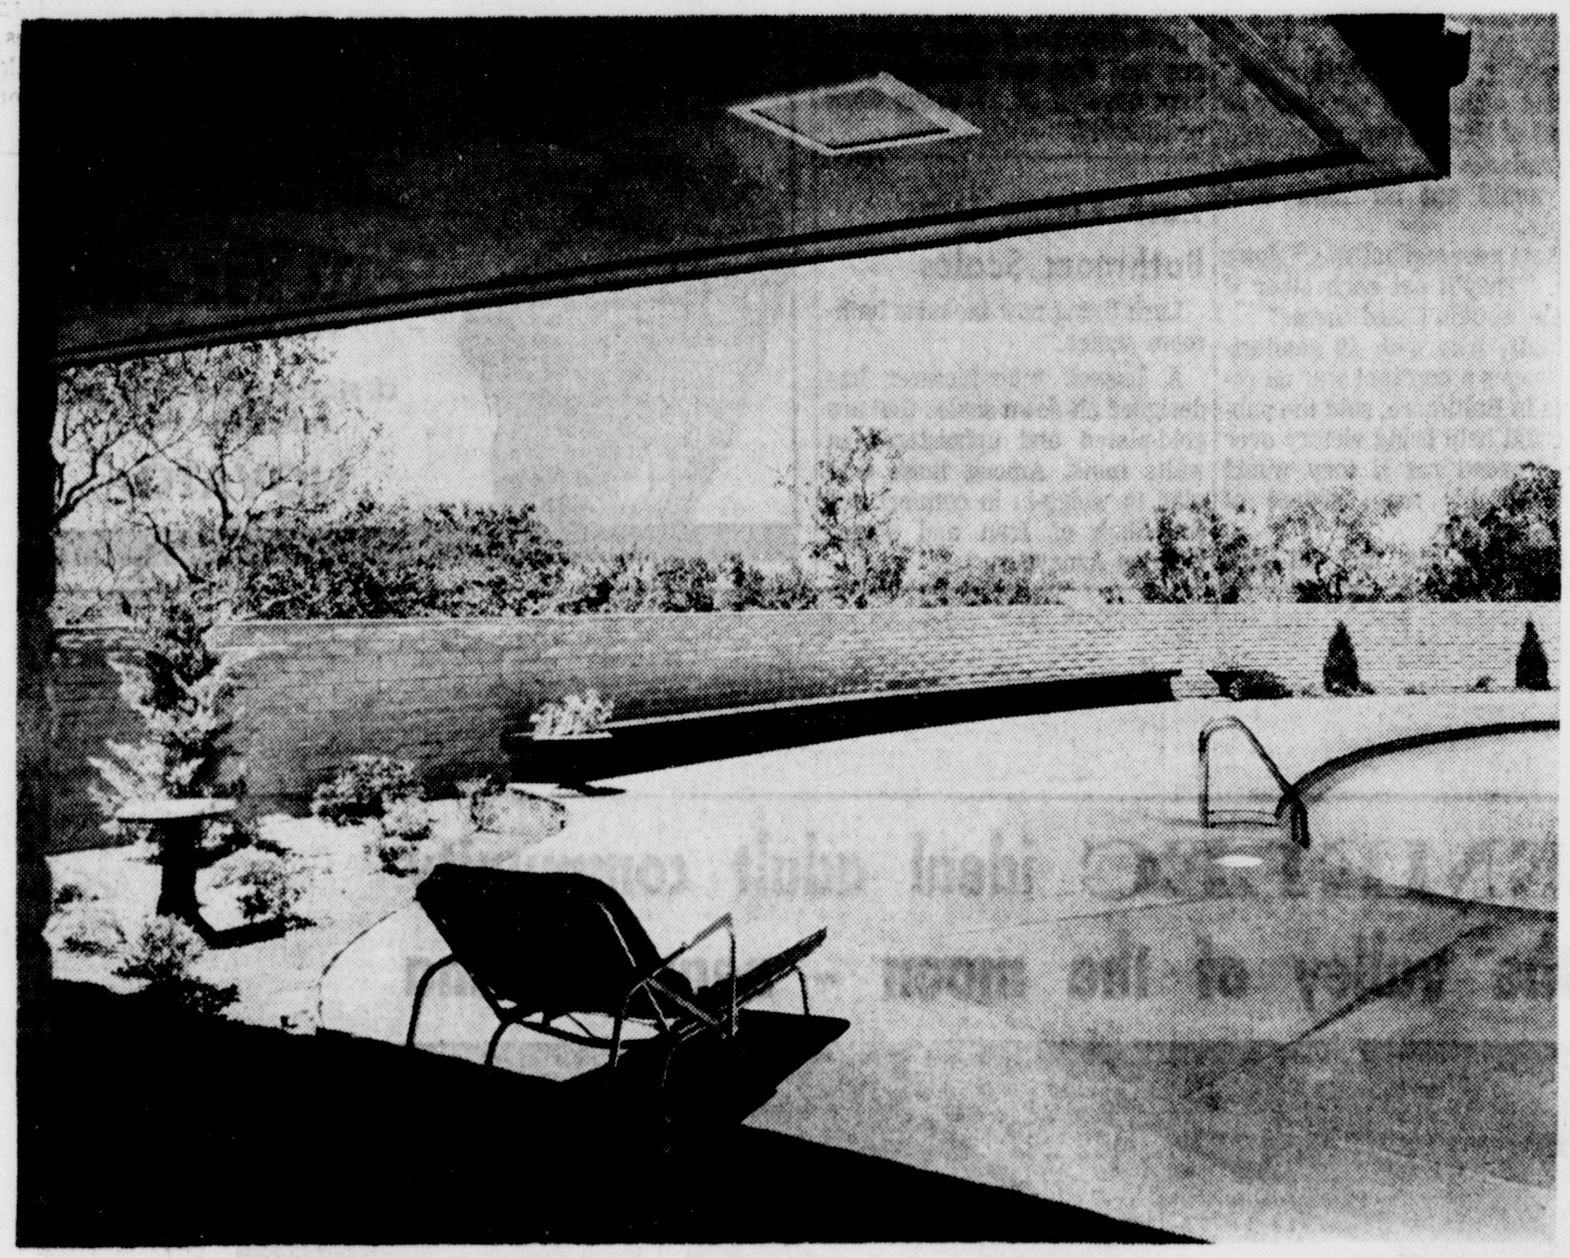
DESIGNED FOR PERMANENCE, LOW UPKEEP

The use of concrete tile roofing, copper facia trim and McNear "Slumplite" building blocks are combined in this home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Antonioli at Black Point for long wear. The house was designed for the Antoniolis by Dick Olmstead of Hooper, Olmstead and Emmons. Antonioli, a building contractor, did his own construction work. (Ken Molino photos)



FOR LEVEL OR SLOPE—Masonry will always be popular in landscape designing, and the Slumplite blocks of the McNear Co. have the advantage of lightness, strength and versatility. A "step-down" pattern was used on the garden slope of the Antonioli Black Point home.



IDEAL FOR PATIO USE—The length of McNear Slumplite blocks makes a textured pattern of shadows and highlights when used on a curved wall line. Once installed, the blocks require no painting or upkeep and blend with any color scheme.

Live Better 166 Ways

Today there are over 166 electric appliances helping the American family live better electrically. Believe it or not, such things as electric birdbath warmers and cradle rockers do exist! You can also have an electric back scratcher or foot warmer, depending on your need of the moment.

Even Fido comes into his own with electric dog clippers and electrically heated dog houses. And fishermen and their wives will welcome the electric fish scaler.

Most of the 166 products are in fairly common usage and the list keeps growing. Ten years ago, who would have thought of the electric toothbrush, pencil sharpener, floor washer or can opener?

Shower Gadget

If water supply is a problem in your home, you might try a shower water-saver. It's simply an extra valve that turns off the stream of water while you soap yourself, then turns it back on at the same pressure and temperature at the flick of a switch.

Working Women Want Easy House

In the past decade, two women for every man have joined the nation's labor force, according to the U. S. Census Bureau. Women now comprise one-third of our total working population—mainly teachers, nurses and office workers—and, with less time at home, they are seeking more short-cuts in house cleaning.

Here are eight easy ways to lighten the burden of home cleanup:

1. Much time can be saved by waxing wood surfaces such as tables, chairs, door frames, window sills and cabinet doors so they can easily be wiped clean with only a damp cloth.

2. Use stove-to-table and refrigerator-to-table utensils in cooking so that food may be served in the same containers in which it was cooked. This will cut down on the number of dishes, pots and pans that have to be washed.

3. Use special silver cleaners now available which not only clean the silver but retard tarnishing.

4. Use your vacuum cleaner to better advantage. Vacuum away dust that accumulates on porcelain accessories as well as books on shelves. And to reduce cleaning of books make sure they're placed as close to the outer edge of the shelf as possible. This will leave no room for dust to accumulate in front of them.

5. On floors, install a labor-saving floor covering such as solid vinyl tile, which never requires waxing and can be cleaned simply by mopping with a mild detergent.

6. Use a water softener in bath water to avoid bathtub rings and other stains and permit easy cleaning of the tub with only a rinsing.

7. Arrange kitchen utensils so they can easily be found. Put those used most frequently in fronts of drawers and cabinet shelves and group similar utensils together, The same should be done with food staples, both refrigerated and non-refrigerated.

8. Use the new plastic-coated wall covering to make wall cleaning only a matter of a soap-and-water rinse.

2 Of 3 Mishaps Occur In Home

"Home Sweet Home" is not as sweet and safe as it used to be. Two out of three serious accidents in the United States last year occured in the home, the National Safety Council reports. And these 4.2 million home accidents cost Americans some $1.15 billion in lost wages and medical expenses — or, a national average of $273.80 per mishap.

Here is a valuable tip from the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for building information, to help you avoid home accidents:

Since the greatest causes of these accidents are falls on stairs, in bathrooms and on slippery floors, these should be starting points for building safety into your home.

Women Workers

Reminiscent of World War II labor shortages is the situation at Lafayette, Indiana, where the National Homes Corporation is hiring women to make up the deficit caused by draft calls. Thirty women, out of a factory force of 650, are "doing just as well as men" assembling component house parts, working trim machines and installing insulation batts.

Utility Meters Have To Be Seen

Plans for a recreation room, laundry room or other finishing job in the basement must always include some provision for reading the utility meters.

The easiest way to do this is to install small doors which can be opened when it is necessary for a utility company employee to read the electric, gas and water meters. However, they should not be so small that, in an emergency, a repair could not be made on any of the meters.

Any one of various types of catches or latches can be used on each of the doors. One of the easiest to install and operate is the magnetic catch, which permits the door to be opened easily but which snaps shut quickly.

Sealing Shingles

The use of self-sealing roof shingles on residences has increased to 35 per cent of all shingles sold, the Asphalt Roofing Industry Bureau reports.

The shingles, which offer maximum protection in high wind areas, have a factory-applied adhesive backing which is activated by the sun and seals each shingle course to the one below. They carry an Underwriters' Laboratory seal for wind-resistance.

Tile Widely Used

Ceramic tile is being used by American architects and designers in every room of the home, and also on exterior walls, roof decks, terraces and swimming pools in all climates.

UNUSABLE-SLOPE CONVERTED

By developing a combined retaining wall and wood screen parallel to the front of the house of Ronald R. Hill, San Anselmo, landscape architect gained enough space to create this outdoor living space. The zone was paved and "roofed" with a wisteria canopy. Area includes raised planters, seating and a small fire pit. (Independent-Journal photo)

New Term Appears For Insulation

Don't be surprised, when you go to a building supply dealer to buy insulation, if you are asked, "What R number do you want?"

R numbers are used in a new system of designating amounts to insulation. Unlike the old way of referring ot insulation by its thickness in inches, the R numbers tell how much heat it will keep inside a house in winter and outside it in summer. The higher the R number, the more efficient the insulation.

Under the old method, thickness measurements did not provide a means of comparing one insulation with another. Because of different materials and manufacturing systems, three inches of one brand might be the equivalent of four inches of another.

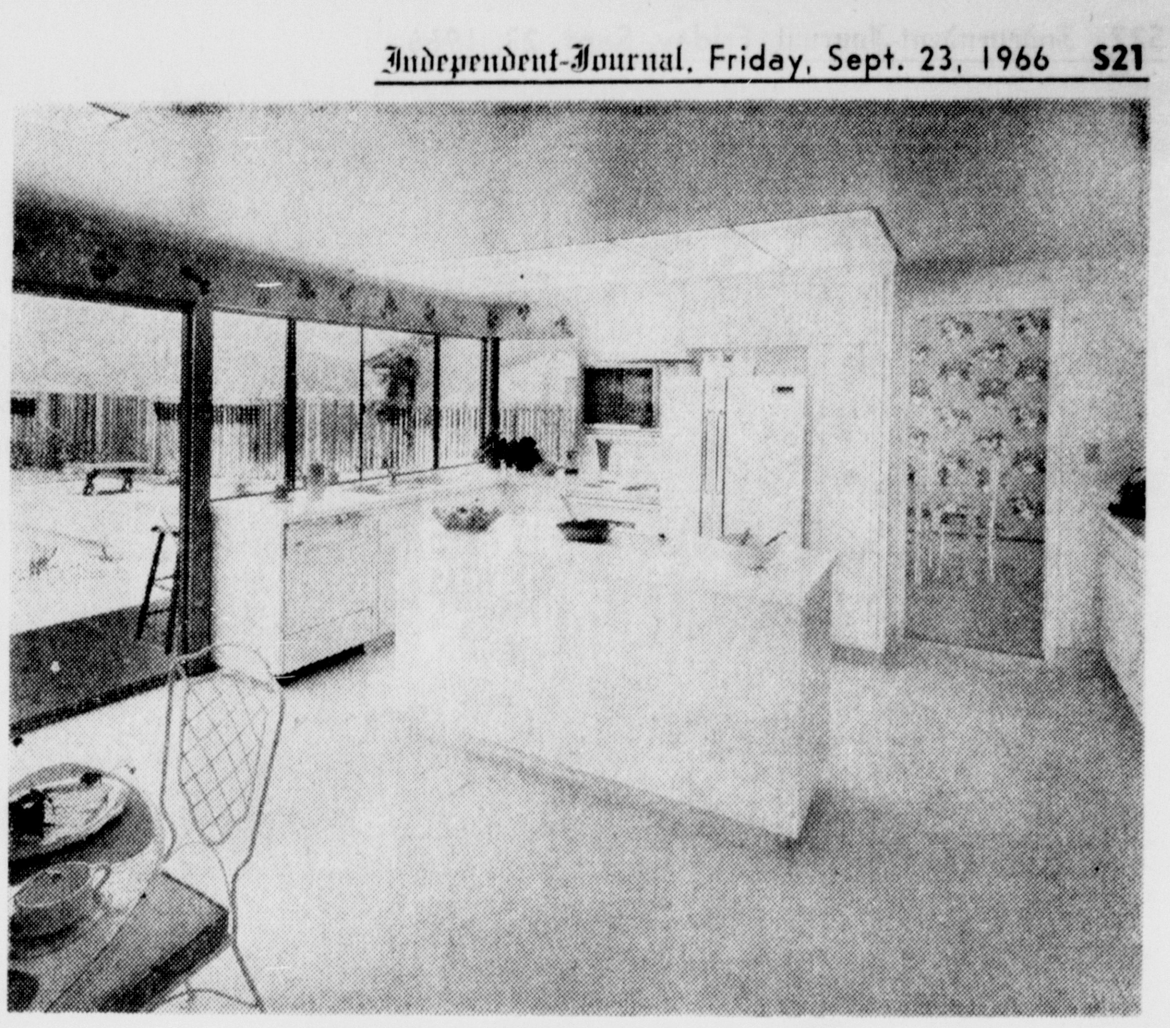
With R numbers, heating and cooling engineers have come up with formulas which manufacturers agree to accept. For instance, mineral wool with an installed resistance to heat loss of R-19 or R-24 should be used in ceilings, R-11 in walls and R-13 in floors above unheated spaces.

Home owners can rely on the standards whether batts, blankets, pouring or blowing wool are used. Incidentally, while the Federal Housing Administration has set minimum insulation standards, it encourages the use of materials rated higher than its minimums.

The matter of insulation at one time concerned only those persons living in areas where severe winters were prevalent. Engineers announced—and home owners soon substantiated it—that there was a considerable savings in heating costs in homes that were well insulated. This was entirely aside from the fact that insulated homes were far more comfortable during cold periods of the year.

Now, of course, insulation is considered vital in homes which use air conditioning, whether or not the same homes require heat in the winter time. The lack of insulation places an extra drain on the air conditioning facilities, just as the lack of it keeps the heating equipment going at full speed and wastes considerable fuel.

To start nails, use light taps with a hammer, holding the arm fairly steady and using the wrist in a pivot fashion.



AMPLE WORKING SPACE

Big family kitchens that are close-related to patio and garden area are featured in new homes recently opened at Mont Marin and built by American Housing Guild. The development is on a hill overlooking Lucas Valley. Homes contain three, four, five and six bedrooms.

Sink For Patio

With the growing trend toward outdoor living, a patio sink with hot and cold water supply is a handy addition to any home. It makes the ideal spot for washing barbecue utensils and dishes, as well as just getting a drink of water or washing dirty hands.

Don't use an acid flux when soldering electrical wires. It will corrode wiring metals such as copper. Use rosin or other non-acid flux material.

landscaping Important To A New Home

Buying a new home? Then check the land and the landscaping. Modern advances in landscaping and planting may make the difference between enjoyment of your land for living, and not.

Check the design, the position of the house on the lot and the quality of the landscaping. It usually will pay a prospective home buyer to hire a good landscape nurseryman to go over the property with him and offer advice. He will check the grades before any planting is done, sometimes be able to save good trees. Some builders install the cheapest of plants in a skimpy row along the front of the house just to take away the bareness.

Others do a capable landscape job. The nurseryman can help you decide whether or not you are receiving sound value in the planting. If the builder allows a rebate for landscaping, the nurseryman can tell what you may purchase for this sum.

Some builders do a basic planting job and then provide a landscape plan for the home owner to have completed by a recommended nurseryman. This is sound procedure, too, resulting in good landscaping values that increase the resale value of the home.

Mortarless Flagstone Depends On Drainage

Starting with the premise that the ground is firm and the drainage is good, a flagstone walk or terrace can be made without using mortar. This is done either by setting the flagstones directly into the earth or by placing them over a bed of sand or sand and gravel.

The first method involves nothing more than placing the flagstones into the earth to a depth equal to the stones' thickness. Take a flagstone and place it on the ground where you want it to be. Mark off the outline of the stone with the point of a trowel, the end of a screwdriver or any tool which will leave a fairly clear line in the dirt. Remove the flagstone and, within the outline, dig out the area deep enough for the flagstone to be level with the surface of the ground. Be sure the bottom of the small excavation is smooth.

Place the flagstone in place and stand on it, rocking it back and forth a few times. Replace or remove dirt as the case may be to set the stone firmly, pack in dirt around the edges and move on to the next flagstone.

The two other methods call for (1) setting the flagstones on a bed of sand and (2) on a bed of sand and gravel, the latter on the bootom.

Figure it this way. If the ground is very firm, merely set the flagstones in the earth. If it's reasonably firm, use a sand bed. If it's not too firm, use sand and gravel. But where the drainage may be bad or where there is heavy traffic, such as in a driveway, the flagstones should be set in a bed of concrete or cement mortar.

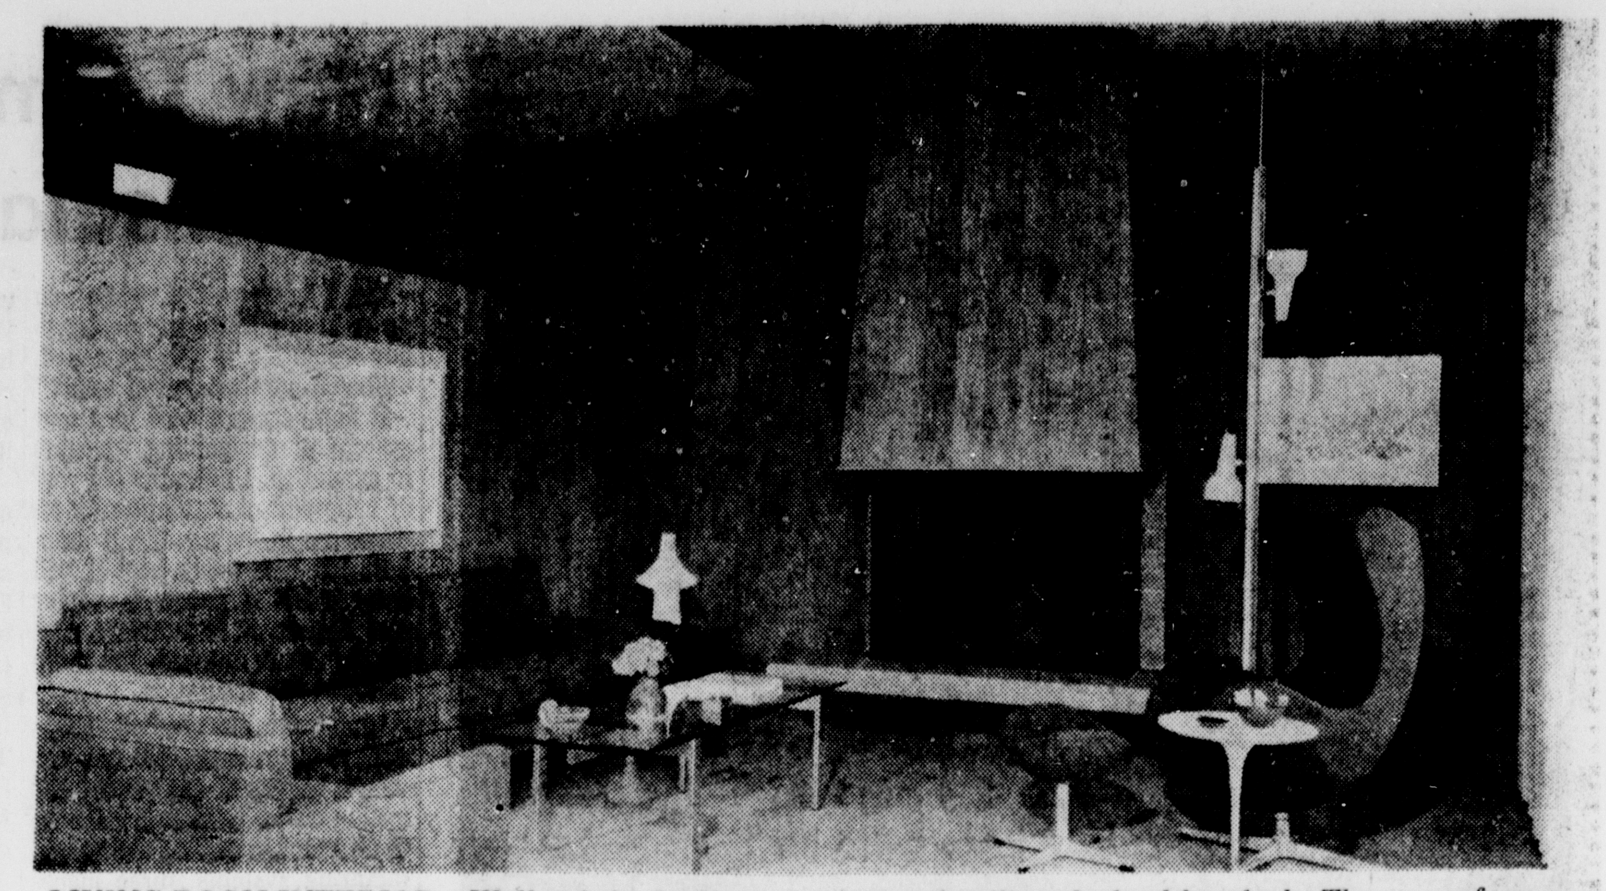
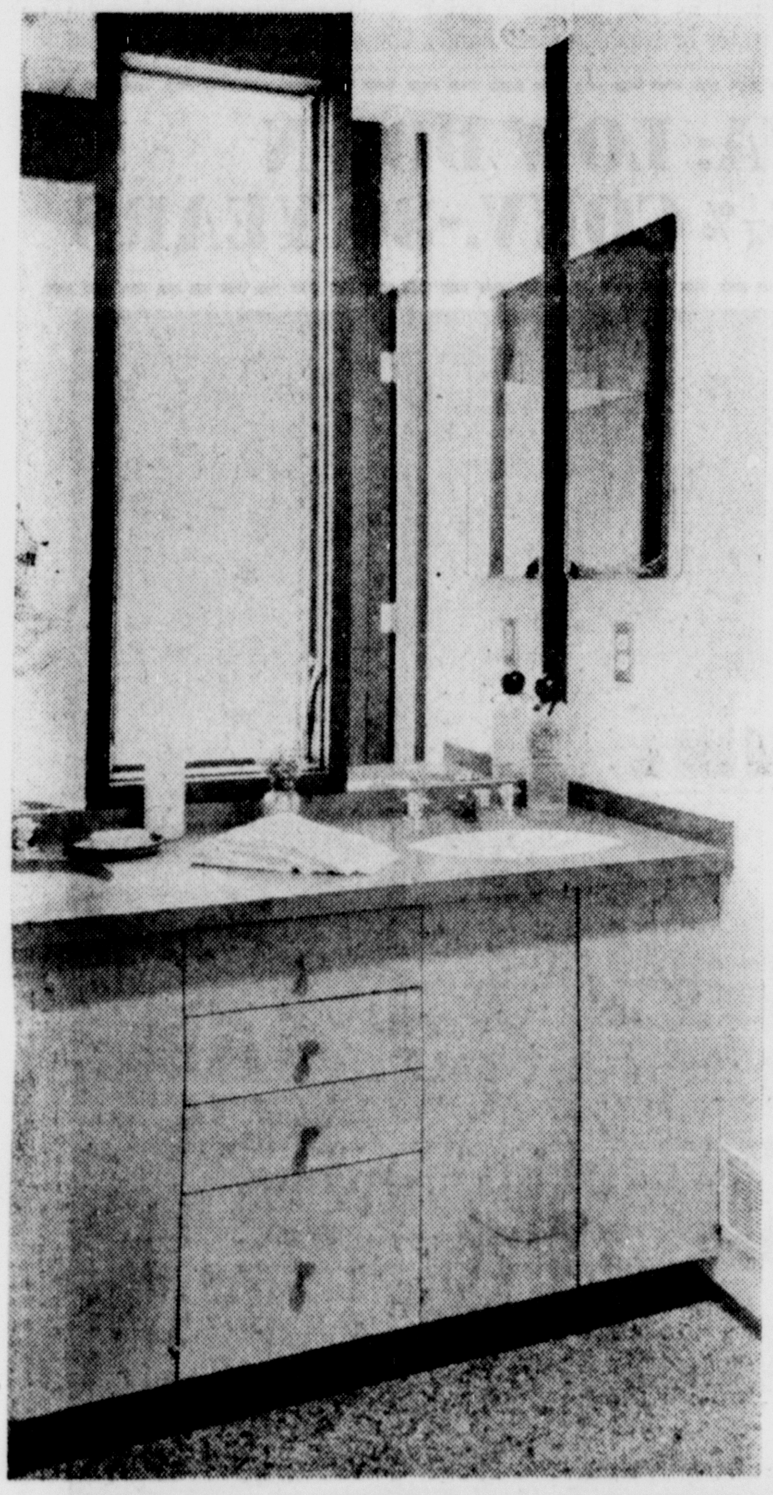
CREATED FOR DIFFICULT LOT

Architect Thomas Lile designed this one-level home on Hilary Drive, Tiburon for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Inglima to give as much indoor-outdoor space as possible. It is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Peterzell. Built on concrete columns, the house has natural stained vertical redwood exterior siding, natural redwood trim and mullions, exposed decking.

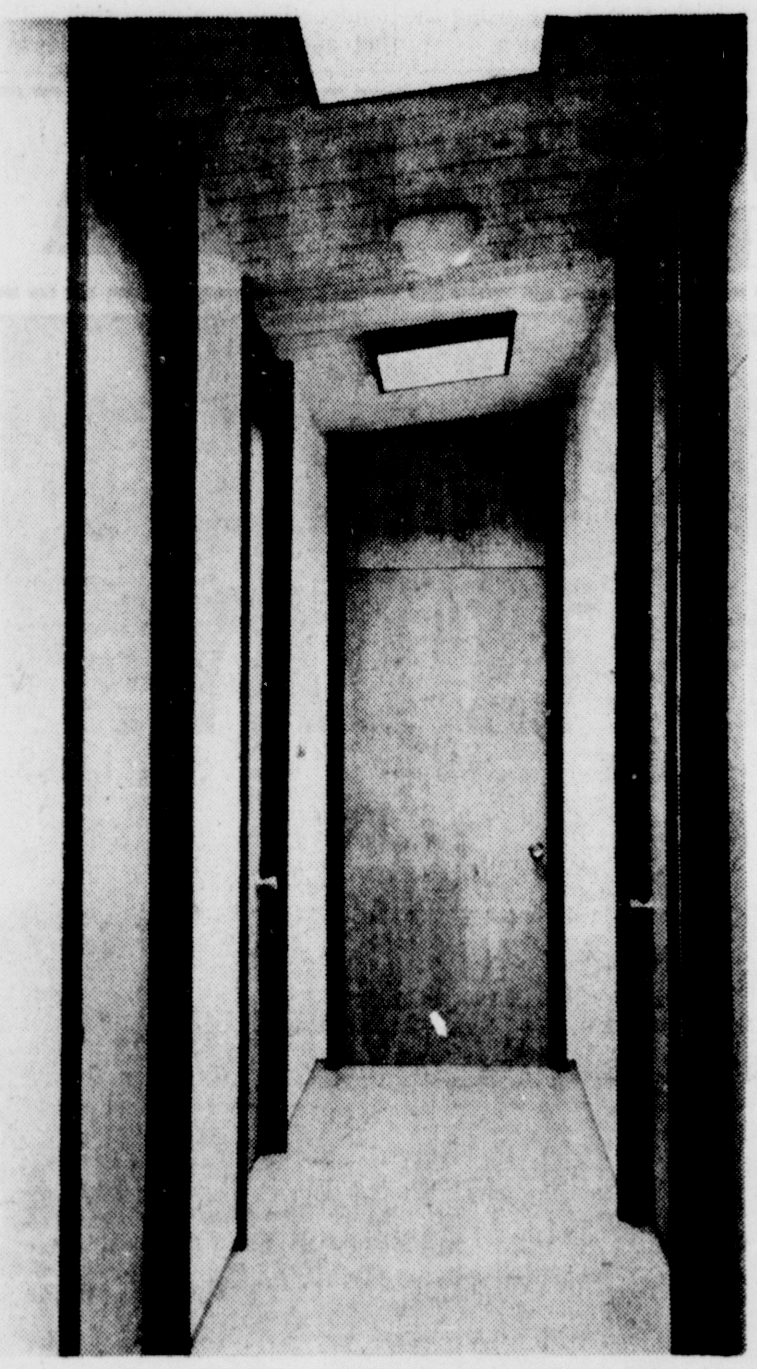
(Architectural Photographers photos).



LIVING ROOM INTERIOR—Walls of the Inglima home are of vertical redwood, carried over the fireplace. Oak flooring is stained to match the exposed ceiling deck of hemlock. The room faces on a balcony (not shown) at the right, offering an unobstructed view of Richardson Bay and Mount Tamalpais.



COMPARTMENTED LAVATORY—This is reached from bedroom hall. Architect Lile carried cut tone quality and value harmony between floor and ceiling even to walls and cupboards in this area of the Inglima home.



INTERIOR HALL—Door at rear leads to master bedroom. Other bedrooms are at the right, bath and utiliy on left. Panels of doors and sections above are of ribbon mahogany. Walls are sheetrock.

Bamboo Blinds Can Assist Hiding Unbeautiful Pipe

In finishing a basement or a room where a low-hanging pipe is a problem, bamboo blinds can be effectively utilized to disguise the eyesore.

Measure the length of the pipe and then buy as many inexpensive bamboo blinds as are necessary to cover it. The covering is done by cutting the blinds crosswise into strips and winding the strips around the pipe. After each strip is cut, the cords that hold the slats together must be retied, otherwise the blinds will come apart.

If you stain or paint the blinds, be sure to apply the liquid to the cords as well as the bamboo. Decide ahead of time whether the blinds are to be finished. It is a lot easier to finish them before wrapping them around the pipe than it is after they are installed. Because of the nature of the wood, a stain takes particularly well. It is absorbed quickly and has a very pleasing appearance.

If the pipe to be covered has been giving you trouble with condensation, you must put something around it to prevent water from dripping onto the blinds. But this is something that should be done whether or not you are utilizing bamboo. There are a number of products on the market which make pipe-covering to prevent condensation a job that anyone can do. The bamboo blinds are then wound around the covering.

Owners Prefer No-Paint Sidings

Most homeowners would like to put away their paint brushes for good, a survey on home improvement preference shows.

A majority of those queried favored exterior wall surfaces which do not require painting. Almost 75 per cent said that if necessary they'd "definitely" or "probably" be willing to pay a premium for materials which do not need painting.

Some permanent-type siding materials like mineral fiber do not need painting but can be used in their natural color. For people who have a color preference, mineral fiber is pre-finished in a variety of low-maintenance plastic acrylic color coatings.

Small Platforms Can Ease Moving Chores

Difficult moving chores around the home are made easier by drag trays or platforms on wheels. For instance, a low platform that glides on two pairs of old buggy wheels attached with their axles is ideal for hauling garbage and trash cans to the curb.

Making a wheeled platform is simple. Nail a two-foot-square piece of ¼-inch tempered hardboard to a framework of 1 by 2-inch lumber. Fasten the wheels by their axles with fence staples. Attach a rope to the framework at one side through eye screws. Then prime and paint the platform so it will look presentable even though left outdoors.

A similar platform, without wheels and with the framework facing up, is very useful at a summer cabin for hauling luggage, fireplace logs, and other heavy items. Because of the larger loads it must accommodate, use a three-foot-square piece of hardboard. Strengthen it with a cross-brace. The smooth, tough surface of the hardboard will easily glide over any terrain and will wear well despite rough treatment.

The wheeled platform also can be used for bringing home groceries simply by adding a corrugated cardboard container. The box is held by a bolt, wide washer, and wing nut assembly inserted in a hole drilled through the platform.

RESIDENTIAL GRADING & EXCAVATING

Poor Humidity Control Can Harm Living

In many households the occupants either experience too much dampness or the air is too dry. Some rooms are too damp while others are too dry. This makes for unhealthy living conditions.

The amount of moisture that can be tolerated in a room depends on the construction of the house, the use of insulation plus outdoor temperatures and humidity.

The moisture content in the air must never be high enough to allow moisture to gather on the windows and yet it should never be so low as to cause drying out of skin surfaces and the mucuous membranes of eyes, nasal and throat passages.

A good, centralized air-conditioning system is designed and properly ducted to introduce the proper amount of humidity into each room of your house as it is required. An added advantage is that dust is kept to the minimum and pollen is virtually eliminated.

Traditional Architecture Again Meeting Favor With Americans

There's a paradox in home design these days. In spite of the sleek glamor of rockets and other paraphernalia of the space age, the trend in residential architecture is strongly toward the traditional.

There is a definite cycle in home styles. Every few decades, pure traditional types — early American, colonial, Georgian, old English, French provincial and others—return to favor. This year, the interest in these designs seems to be at a high point among prospective home-owners in every part of the nation.

The demand for traditional styles is currently more than three times as great as that for homes with a distinct contemporary appearance. Even in more modern types of houses, such as the sprawling one-story ranch, there is marked popularity for traditional design elements, including shutters, hand-split shakes, columns, porticoes, beamed ceilings and "old homestead" fireplaces.

Parallel trends are evident in other fields related to the home and its furnishings. Antique shops are doing a thriving business. Rural families in New England, Canada and elsewhere have become accustomed to a regular weekend invasion of dealers and individual antique hunters anxious to buy anything in the house or barn that looks old.

A casual tour through any furniture store will show that, where Scandinavian contemporary dominated the displays a few years ago, most of the space today is given to early American and provincial stylings. Even a large and well-known modern furniture retailing organization shows relatively little true contemporary furniture currently.

Institutional and commercial buildings are showing something of the same trend. At least among smaller new buildings, there appears to be a pronounced effort to avoid the "cold" modern feeling. Georgian and colonial styles are being used by many of the builders of small commercial buildings, particularly.

This is not the first time that traditional styles have returned strongly. From the earliest days of recorded architectural styles (3,000 B.C., in Egypt), there has been a constant, cyclical revival of the good designs of earlier years.

There is perhaps an element of revolt in this picture. If you ask the average American why he prefers traditional styles, you will get the answer that it's more comfortable, or warmer, more pleasant, more cozy. It's probably a rejection of the speed and frenzy of modern life. When a man come home from work he wants to discard the fast pace of the business world. He wants to get away from it all.

Paper And Sand

The term sandpaper originated in the days when actual grains of sand imbedded on a coated paper were used as abrasives. Today the term is no longer accurate. There are many different mineral grains used in "sandpaper." They are of varying degrees of hardness but none is present in common sand.

Worry-Proof Your Vacation Journey

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There's no place like home sweet home but some vacationers return to it sooner than they anticipate.

Vacations are curtailed when you begin to worry about your house. One person should have full responsibility for the final lock-up. But a half-day away from home and the questions have already begun. "Did you turn off the water?" "Did someone put the cat out?" "Did anyone lock the windows?"

A family had a miserable few days in Europe while they debated whether the father should return home. Neighbors had found their house door open wide, had called the police, and even though it looked as if nothing had been taken, they contacted the family.

Just before the father was to take off for home, the youngest member of the family recalled having left the door open. He assumed that his father had followed him out of the house; but, after turning off utilities in the cellar, dad had gone out through the garage door.

Another family got a call from neighbors that their cat was sitting in the window. Neighbors were to care for it, but it had run back into the house before the family left.

One person should be responsible for the final security checkup. Here is a check list that might help:

1. Remove any precious thing that will worry you, even though the house is fireproofed and burglarproofed. Silver, heirlooms, paintings, furs that are valuable, anything that is irreplaceable should be parked safely in vaults, storage houses or with friends.

2. Fireproof your house. Remove papers and cloths from too-crowded closets, particularly poorly ventilated ones. Throw away all newspapers and oily cloths, particularly if they are stored together. Gasoline cans should be stored in a safe place.

3. Anticipate winds, rains, excessive heat while you are gone. Remove light terrace furniture, lightweight outdoor furniture that could be blown through windows, unplug downspouts so that rain water will not accumulate and cause damage to the house.

4. Secure anything that might be a dangerous attraction. Many people drain their swimming pools, refilling on their return. Besides dangers to wandering children, pools might attract rowdy characters bent on destruction.

5. If you haven't thought to plan your vegetable garden so it will produce after your return, make a deal with someone to take the produce in exchange for weeding. On overripe garden that needs weeding is a tipoff that people are away.

6. Burglarproof your house. Windows can be locked downstairs but a few upstairs windows may be left open a couple of inches or so. Papers and milk deliveries should be interrupted; grass should get a crew cut. Many people have their phones disconnected or the number transferred to the vacation house, but some consider this plan an invitation to intruders.

7. Clean freezer and refrigerator before taking off and leave doors open to air. A closed door on a disconnected refrigerator can create a fantastic mess of mold. Some people prefer to leave the freezer on but the best plan is to use everything before you go. It is one way to make a fresh start on your return.

Some people give a key to a neighbor or caretaker so that plants can be watered.

Poor Ladder Habits Often Prove Costly

Insurance records show that most accidents with outside ladders around the home are caused by a lack of knowledge of the fundamentals of safety. You can eliminate or reduce the chance of an accident by remembering these things:

1. Whenever possible, have someone assist you in raising a long ladder against the side of a house.

2. When it is absolutely necessary to raise the ladder without help, push the base of it against the foundation of the house. Move back to the top of the ladder and raise it to the level of your eyes. Maneuver yourself under it, grab one of the rungs with both hands and walk forward slowly, moving your hands from rung to rung as you walk toward the house foundation. When the top is against the house, move out the base a few feet to get the ladder in proper position.

3. The distance from the foot of the ladder to the bottom of the house should be one-fourth the height of the ladder.

4. When on the ladder, work with one hand while holding on with the other. You're looking for an accident when you reach out too far. This is true even when you are using one of the gadgets that enables the top of the ladder to be attached to the house.

5. When the ground is soft, use a large wooden board under the base of the ladder. When the ladder is set on concrete or any surface that might be slippery, place rubber feet on the legs.

6. Never paint a wooden ladder. It hides splits and other defects that may occur.

Largest Subdivision Slated In Mendocino

UKIAH — One of the largest land maps ever recorded as a single unit in the State of California was approved last month by the Mendocino Board of Supervisors.

The subdivision, known as Brooktrails, is located just outside of Willits.

According to Ralph Harris, Brooktrails' executive vice president for planning and development, the planned recreational-residential project will cover approximately 4,200 acres.

The subdivision will contain some 5,800 residential and commercial sites, Harris said. In addition, recreational facilities will includes riding trails, a golf course, aquatic parks for swimming, boating and fishing, and about 2,000 acres of undeveloped forest land.

The board of supervisors also approved the subdividers' contract to construct improvements at Brooktrails in conformity with plans and specifications prepared by the engineering firm of McIntire and Quiros and approved by Mendocino County Director of Public Works Robert Newhouse.

Wives Often Put Spouse To Shame At Fix-Up Jobs

More than half of America's married homemakers are more skillful than their husbands when it comes to do-it-yourself projects to improve their homes, according to a nation-wide study of more than 22,000 families.

While the men actually do most of the work, the women can do it better This declaration of feminine superiority was made in 53 per cent of the joint husband-wife responses in the study, which was conducted in all 50 states.

Most of the families interviewed also credited the women with being the "brains" behind their husbands' "brawn"—prompting the undertaking of most do-it-yourself projects in 74 per cent of the households and deciding on decorating schemes, project design and materials for the majority of projects in 54 per cent of the homes.

The nation-wide survey, aimed at learning the extent of husband-wife participation in do-it-yourselfism, uncovered several surprising and interesting facts about the male of the species. For example, although only minority choices, the husbands were declared better skilled in handicrafts in 17 per cent of the homes, better in flower arranging in 12 per cent, sewing in 4 per cent and knitting in 1 per cent.

In the over-all ratings, the researchers found wives in the majority of the homes were hailed as superior in 12 of 19 basic do-it-yourself operations. These, surprising as it may seem, included such traditionally "men-only" tasks as wood finishing, plastering, wallpapering and repairing mechanical devices.

In addition, the women were rated better skilled in painting, furniture arranging, gardening and lawn care, gift making and the customary feminine arts of flower arranging, sewing, knitting and handicrafts.

Their male counterparts were picked best skilled by wide margins in plumbing, electrical work and metalworking, but won only minor victories over the women in carpentry, assembly of kits, furniture repairs and refinishing, and pest control.

PRESCRIPTIONS

We Resolve
TO BRING TO THE PEOPLE OF MARIN
LOW
PRICES

The high drug costs of today are a serious money problem to many families, especially to those with fixed income and those with chronic illnesses. As a solution to this problem we apply modern methods to the prescription department by selling at low prices, thus producing volume sales. This decreases costs and overhead. The result will be low prices for you, and we believe a low cost prescription service is just what the public wants.

HERE'S WHY WE CAN DO IT:

1. We have reduced our overhead by closing at 6:00 p.m. every day—a saving which we pass on to you.
2. We own our building and parking lot—there is no rent to pay — a saving which we pass on to you.
3. Ours is a self-service store—serve yourself and save—a saving which we pass on to you.
4. We do a big business—we buy in big volume, thus we buy at a lower cost—a saving which we pass on to you.
5. We buy from a discount-store wholesaler in San Francisco (the only drug store in Marin having this privilege). Again we buy at a lower cost—a saving which we pass on to you.
6. Our employees have all been with us many years—they are happy here and they try harder—thus a saving by efficient operation—a saving which we pass on to you.
7. In many drug stores the profit from the prescription department carries the "front end" of the store—not so at JACK'S. We do a big volume of business in the "front end" of our store—stop in to see our low prices and great variety of merchandise and you will understand why—another saving which we pass on to you.
8. Last but not least, we just plain take a smaller mark-up on merchandise and on prescriptions—a saving which we pass on to you.

RETIREMENT APARTMENT

This furnished model apartment at the Tamalpais, $10 million life-care housing community rising in Greenbrae, features an unusual alcove design which enables the sleeping area to be closed off from the living room. The 280-unit building is slated for completion next year. Developer-administrator is Retirement Residence, Inc. Benson Eschenbach is the architect.

Measurement Basis Of Good Construction

Accurate measurements are the backbone of good construction work. There's an old saying among carpenters that if you measure twice, you will have to cut only once. While there are dozens of precision tools to assist you in making accurate measurements, there are many times when you can do a faster job without the use of conventional devices.

Suppose, for instance, you are making a picket fence and want to be certain there is exactly the same amount of space between the pickets. Why not use one of the pickets as a spacer? Nail the first picket to the framework, butt the spacer alongside it, then nail the next picket. Remove the spacer to the next position and repeat the process. You not only will avoid dozens of repeat measurements, you will virtually eliminate any possibility of making a mistake.

Another example: you are placing studs between the floor and the ceiling in a basement refinishing project. You know that the basement floor usually slopes slightly in the direction of the drain. That means you can't cut all studs the same length. Rather than make repeated measurements, take two strips of wood, each of which is longer than half the distance between the floor and ceiling. Hold one piece against the ceiling, the other against the floor. At the point where they overlap, clamp them together. That is how long the stud will have to be. If you think that's a lot trouble (which it isn't once you get the hang of it), then you've never tried to measure the distance between a floor and ceiling a couple of dozen times.

A scrap of wood of the proper length will enable you to get uniform spacing between shelves. Any time you have to make a lot of identical measurements, keep in mind that you often can avoid mistakes by using such a piece of scrap wood or something similar.

Built-In Look

The trend toward built-in kitchen appliances is being reflected in new refrigerator-freezers.

The new models are styled with square corners and straight lines that fit neatly between cabinets. This gives them a built-in appearance without the need for expensive cabinetry work.

Ceramic Tile Can Add Flavor Of Old Spain

You can add a flavor of Old Spain to your living room by surrounding an ordinary brick fireplace with dramatic touches of blue and white ceramic tile. The tile touch is also particularly attractive to one of those unusual corner fireplaces connecting two right-angle walls.

This type fireplace, very common in countries bordering the Mediterranean, suggests a touch of radiance to the somewhat austere Andalusian living, dining and bedrooms. If your tastes in decorating lean more to northern continental Europe, then why not frame the fireplace with square ceramic tiles in Delft blue designs, reminiscent of the famous Holland-

Colors Vary To Accent Personality

Quality paints are available in almost endless variety of colors. When selecting your wall paints, choose colors that will provide a flattering background for your personality and coloring. Don't always settle for the "safe" neutrals if they are not flattering. Don't be influenced by the current fashionable colors unless they are becoming to you.

It's easy—and fun—to choose your own special colors. The following categories list the colors that experts consider best for the certain types of coloring and personalities. Pick out your groups, and then choose a color scheme that attractively combines colors from each group.

RESERVED: Pale blues, beiges, grays, soft greens. Small amounts of black and white. Bright accents scattered here and there.

FEMININE AND RETIRING: Cool clear blues and greens. Pastels such as very pale pinks, grays, beiges, ivory and lavender.

AGGRESSIVE: Bold, warm colors such as orange, red, brilliant yellows. Generous amounts of electric blue and emerald green. Striking combinations of black and white.

REDHEADS: Brilliant colors, including yellow, green and blue. Warm browns, rust, violet and grayed hues.

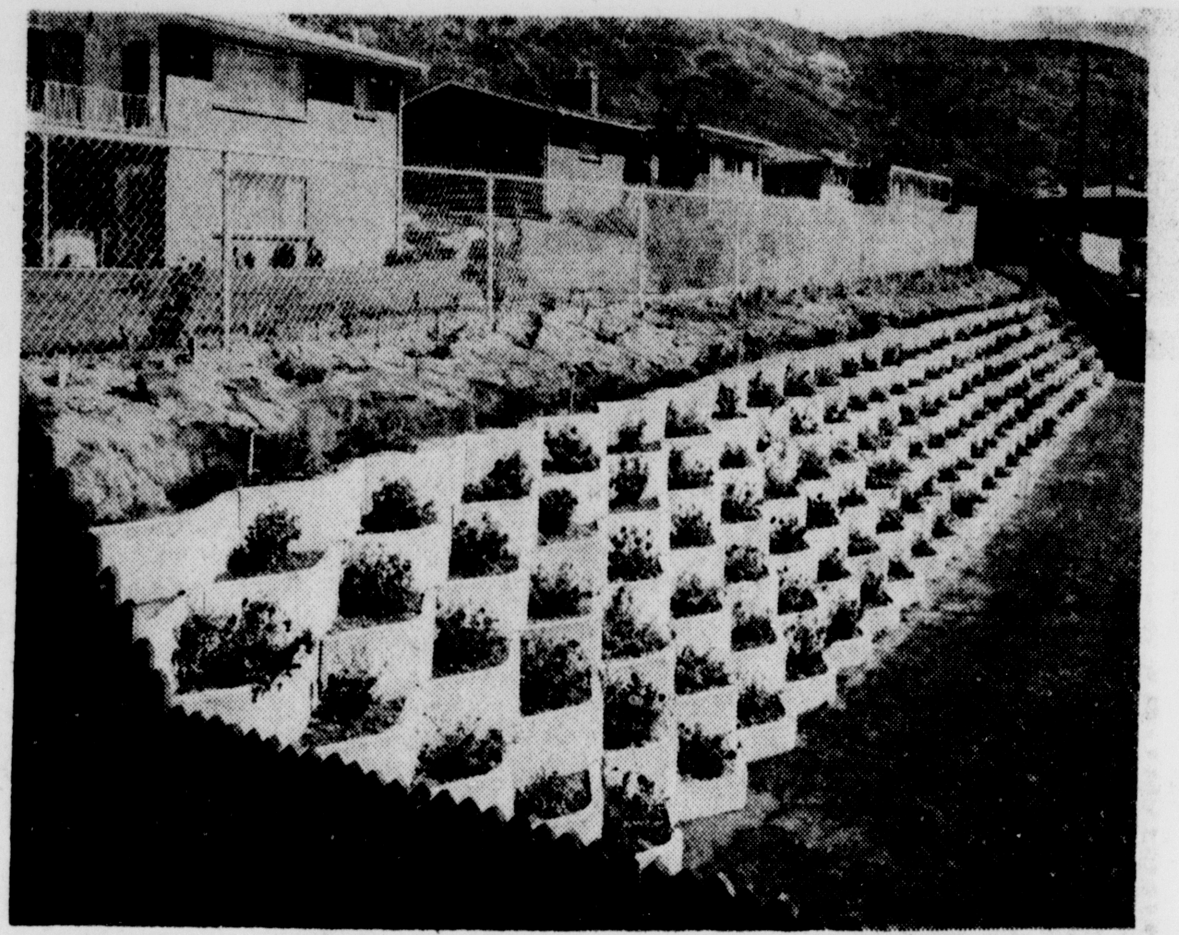
BRUNETTES: Deep reds, lavenders, blue-greens, yellows. Orange and tobacco brown. Bright and deep greens.

BLONDES: Soft blues, pinks, lavenders, smoke gray. Soft browns and pastels of almost any variety. Dark and bright greens.

Here are some examples of color combinations to flatter individual personalities and colorings:

A FEMININE AND RETIRING BRUNETTE: Beige walls and ceiling, accented by generous amounts of blue green and simple touches of coral.

AN AGGRESSIVE BLONDE: Light blue walls highlighted with splashes of electric blue and combinations of black and white.



PLANTERS RESIST HILLSIDE EROSION

These interlocking concrete units provide attractive landscaping for steep slopes where soil erosion is a problem. No mortar, footings or steel are required. Each unit is three feet wide, one foot high and two inches thick. End anchors, blunt-end, curbed and V-shape designs are also available. Manufacturing and sales rights for Marin and Sonoma counties have been negotiated by Jan Danielsson, owner of Custom Concrete, Larkspur.

Revolutionary Designs Make Home Interiors Attractive

A host of revolutionary interior design concepts geared for new and different family living habits will begin unfolding in U.S. homes within the next few years. As increasing leisure time and higher incomes create a greater demand for luxuries and conviences, these desires will bring radical changes in home decoration and design.

A survey among leading interior decorators throughout the country shows the late '60s will usher in new kinds of furnishings, appliances and decorating materials and new ways to live with them.

In the kitchen, for example, push-button meal preparation is on the horizon. Appliances will be designed combining the facilities of sink, refrigerator, peeler, can-opener, mixer-blander, seasoning-adder and range-oven. The homemaker will be able to dial the meal desired, from ingredients to cooking method. The food will be prepared, cooked electronically in seconds and apportioned on dishes ready for serving.

Kitchens will be made larger and a trend will develop to make this room as popular for entertaining and activities as the family room. Eating will be informal and game tables, hobby corners, comfortable furnishings and a variety of equipment for relaxation and recreation will be used. Combination fun-and-snack activities will become more popular than ever.

A new kind of room will be introduced — the "theater room." Here, as communications advances continue, families will have facilities for watching TV from all over the world. At the flick of a switch, stereo recordings or special Hollywood movies will be available from libraries stocking them for entire communities.

In decor, new trends will appear and certain old ones will continue. The current popularity of textured materials such as flocked wallpapers, embossed resilient floor tile, sculptured filigree, raised-weave fabrics and three-dimensional wall decorations will continue. And new favorites will include many textured glass and plastic products.

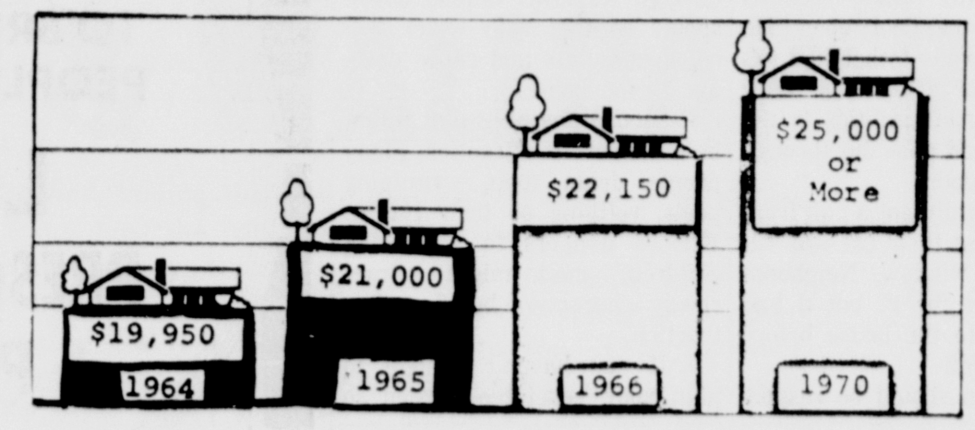
A Project of the Wesley Bailey Land Co.



If you are planning to buy property, here are 10 reasons why we believe that the time to buy is now!

1. The price of land in most areas of California in the past ten years has doubled. In many cases it has skyrocketed even higher. Available urban land areas are decreasing . . . not increasing.
2. Population of the state — now over 19 million — is projected, at the present rate of growth, to 31.9 million by 1985. The steady rise in population is exerting a constant upward pressure on land prices.
3. If you wait, there is always the possibility that interest rates will go higher. The difference between present and past interest rates is only a small factor in the cost of your home: $6.00 per month (on ½% increase) on a 30-year, $20,000 loan . . . and your interest is deductible on your income tax.
4. If you shop around today, you can find real bargains in new and older homes. The selection was never better.
5. Real estate is your best hedge against inflation. Property, in an area that keeps attracting newcomers, tends to increase in value faster than other prices.
6. The family who buys now will be ahead of the one collecting rent receipts. Each monthly payment increases the home buyer's equity. At the same time the home can be increasing in value.
7. In view of the upward trend in housing costs, the longer you wait, the more you are likely to have to pay for the house you want.
8. Because of a momentary lull in the demand for real estate, you'll find architects and builders are now working with sharper pencils.
9. Economists and developers, accustomed to studying long-range trends, report that all signs — rising costs, inflationary pressure created by national fiscal policies, and steady increase in population — point to a rise in housing costs of about 20% by 1970 — 3½ years from now.
10. There is no security like the security of owning land.

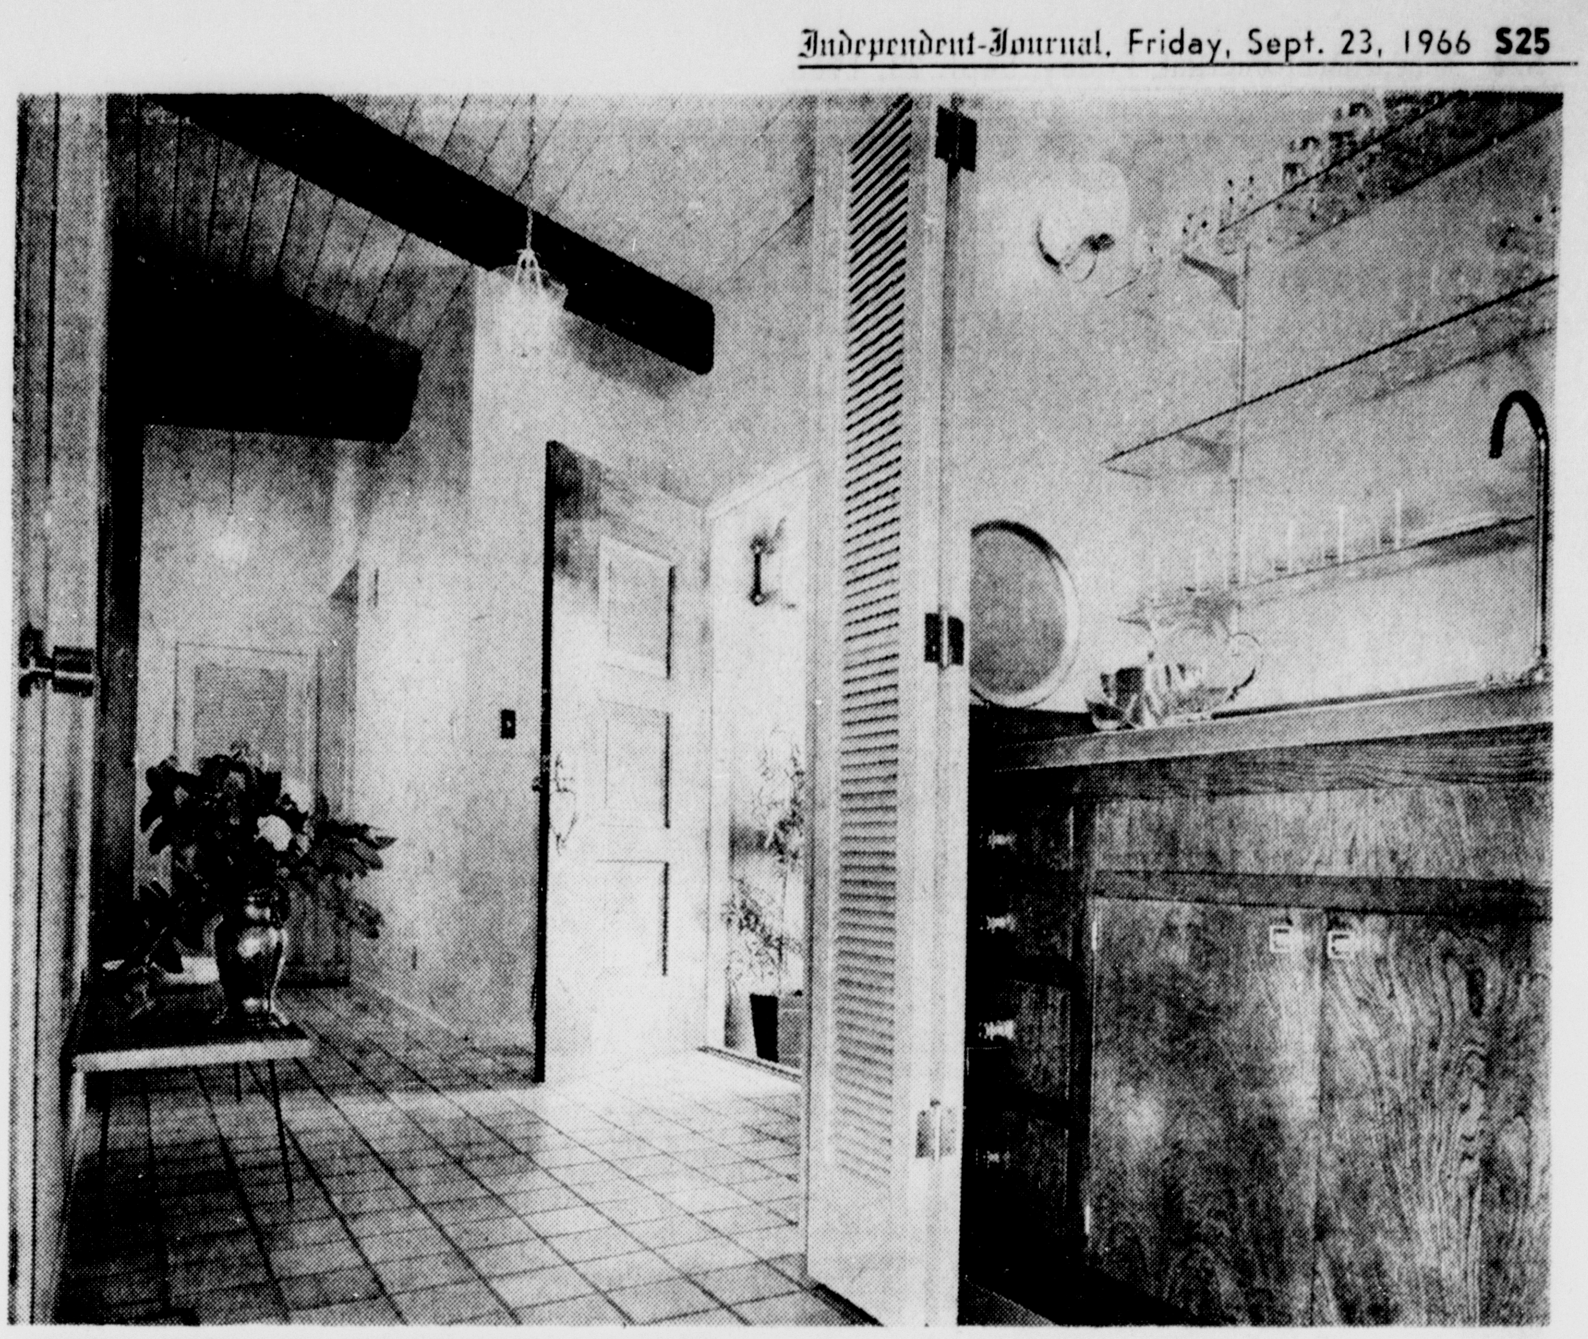
VIEW FROM THE TOP

The Richard Mayer home in Fairhills, San Rafael boasts an outlook from rolling hills to San Pablo Bay, a panorama which includes the Marin County Civic Center and the lights of Northgate at night. Builder was William H. McDevitt Co., who handled all details of site orientation, construction and design. All rooms have views similar to this one from the dining room. (Ken Molino photos).



ENTRY REFLECTS HOSPITALITY—Entranceway of the Richard Mayer home in Fairhills features a built-in bar that can be adroitly concealed by closing its louvred doors. Heavy paneled door, beam ceilings and a stonelite floor are other interesting construction details.

Fireplace Charms Can Outshine Other Decor

One blistering hot summer day, a woman took to the axe and knocked out a large chunk of a living room wall. Her object: a fireplace.

"Why in the world worry about a fireplace now, and why didn't you wait until we made all the proper plans?" her husband asked, regaining his composure after a view of the rubble.

"If I had waited, I'd never get it. You've had an excuse for every season," replied his wife.

A drastic approach, though carefully thought out. But there is no doubt that summer is the ideal time to build a fireplace. Homeowners live outdoors a great deal during warm weather, and it is easier than in cool months to keep the house aired as plaster and lath fly.

SOURCE OF JOY

A fireplace isn't cheap, but it can bring great charm and happiness to the family, far more perhaps than a breakfront, sofa or credenza that might cost as much to fill the same amount of wall space. They don't pay off in quite the same way on a dreary, damp, cold winter day.

Many homeowners, equipped with books found in the public library or government pamphlets, do build their own fireplaces. There are fireplace units with built-in damper, smoke chamber and smoke shelf that form the basic mold around which you can install firebricks and what have you. Some skilled masons prefer these units. Warm-air outlets and cool-air inlets in certain units may be disguised. The important point is to follow rules for safety, and to choose recommended materials.

It is safer to have a professional do the job, and often costs no more. The peace of mind in knowing that it has been done properly by an experienced person may be reassuring.

BUT, WHERE?

The location of a fireplace is a prime consideration and it can't be an afterthought.

In a small room, it should not be directly opposite a door. One likes a sofa or large chairs opposite a fireplace usually, not so hot as when sofas flank a fireplace in a small room. In a large room, sofas on either side of a fireplace may be placed far enough away from the hearth for comfort.

It is good to have a mantel above the fireplace, particularly in a traditional style house. The mantel need not be symmetrical. In a small room, a hand-hewn beam several feet larger than the fireplace can offer a special rustic kind of charm to give the entire room an air of individuality.

EASY IDEAS

If one wants a fireplace without the fuss and bother of removing a wall, there are ready-made modern styles to be used indoors, particularly good in contemporary homes. These are ready to go when a flue and/or chimney is installed. Old French stoves and Franklin stoves offer their share of fun, satisfaction and warmth, too.

In old houses, closed-off fireplaces often are discovered by probing walls. These may be exposed usually by removal of the covering matter, wood or plaster. If the fireplace was holed up, the fill should be easy to remove. Few people bothered to cement the filling, so it can be pulled out easily.

One should check on old chimneys from every standpoint, particularly for wooden beams often used as footing. These are not considered safe. But torn down chimney materials may be used to build another chimney, so it hasn't been a total loss, if labor is available.

Wood Salad Bowls

Unfinished wooden salad bowls can be waterproofed by applying two coats of shellac, thinned 50 per cent with denatured alcohol, followed by three coats of spar varnish. A synthetic resin sealer also can be used as a waterproofer.

Here's Quiz To Bolster Your Decorating Rating

Is your home both decorative and livable? Have you used imagination and decorating skill to create practical and comfortable surroundings for your family? How high is your interior design I.Q.?

Here's a brief quiz prepared by the American Home Improvement Institute, national clearing house for design and building information, to help you rate your decorating know-how:

1. Is the furniture in your living room arranged in one or more groupings for convenient conversation?

2. Is there a definite, unencumbered traffic path through the rooms of your home?

3. Have you taken advantage of all storage opportunities in the bathroom, such as under-sink and behind-door cabinets?

4. Would you be able to locate within three minutes any item stored in your home?

5. Have you created special activity areas with room dividers such as those containing Panelaire hardboard grillework inserts which create privacy while permitting some light to enter?

6. Do your interiors look equally attractive when viewed from at least four different points in each room?

7. Are lighting fixtures placed properly for comfortable reading in several areas in your home?

8. Have you rearrange any of your furniture in the past year to provide a change in appearance, even a small one?

9. Does your home's interior, regardless of its dimensions, have a spacious appearance?

10. Have you been a little adventurous and added at least one slightly off-beat accessory as an accent?

11. Has at least one do-it-yourself project been completed by you or a member of the family to help give your home an individual touch?

12. Have you successfully solved all decorating problems in your home?

If you were able to answer "yes" to between 10 and 12 of these questions, you may consider yourself among the best do-it-yourself decorators. If you scored between 7 and 9, you still have reason to be proud. With a score of 5 or 6, you might re-examine your home's interior and perhaps adopt some of the suggestions embodied in this quiz. If you had fewer than 5 "yes" answers, you may find it worthwhile to expand your reading on decorating topics and perhaps discuss particular problems with a professional designer.

Pre-Built Trusses

If you want to save time and money when building your house, then buy ready-made trusses. Most retail stores make these in several different spans. It helps you get a house roofed quickly to protect the other materials.

Thanks To Plastics

Housewives who find their home appliances lighter to move around can thank the plastics industry, reports Modern Plastics, McGraw-Hill publication. Last year, over 145 million pounds of plastics went into the manufacture of appliances.

Dry Paint

An instant-drying paint may one day be adapted for home use. Now used by industry, it employs an electron curing process that dries paint as soon as it is applied.

ADULT COMMUNITY HOME

Recent Temelec homes in the Valley of the Moon near Sonoma have exteriors of wood siding, stucco and brick. Shake and shingle roofs are featured by the builder, Nelson Construction Co. of San Rafael. Residents also have membership in the Temelec Country Club, near the Sonoma golf course. Fox and Carskadon is the sales agent.

(Photos by Dandelet).

A TEMELEC LIVING ROOM—Nelson-built homes have fireplaces, nylon carpets, all electric kitchens and feature three different floor plans. Houses are air-conditioned, insulated and utilize forced air heating. Models range from one and two-bedroom weekend country houses to two and three-bedroom full residences.

Average House Lived In For Six Years, Study Shows

When you buy a house, the chances are you expect to live in it a long time. But the records show that, on the average, a family lives only six or seven years in the same home. Now you know why there are so many not-new homes up for sale all the time.

What causes this constant shifting of the population into different residences? There is no one reason—not even one reason that stands out above all others. People move for a variety of reasons. The family breadwinner may get a job opportunity in another city or may find that his company either has relocated its headquarters or has transferred him to a branch office somewhere else.

The family may have an added income that enables it to seek a more luxurious dwelling. The house may be condemned for a public improvement. The area may have become too crowded. The house may be too rundown to make remodeling practical. Or the family may have grown so over the years that there just isn't enough space.

Another contributing factor in this home-to-home movement is the tendency in recent years to move into retirement houses and areas. Old folks once were content to live out their lives wherever they were at the time of retirement. Now they want to sell the old homestead and move somewhere else. In many cases, they move hundreds or thousands of miles away in order to get the benefit of warmer climates. Some prefer retirement developments where the needs and wants of elder persons are given sepcial attention. Others prefer to settle in areas where they can mix with younger persons.

But there no longer is the feeling of years ago that they must stay close to their children and grandchildren. Modern transportation has made it easier for families to get together on special occasions even when separated by long distances. Yet it isn't the speed of transportation alone that has generated this feeling. It's a kind of modern attitude that retired people should live where they want to live, not necessarily where their families live.

One reason why you often can get a good buy in a home that isn't new is, as we said a few paragraphs back, people expect to live a long time in houses they buy. They make changes, add landscaping and do a dozen other things to turn the house into a home. Then, when they decide to move for one reason or another, the buyer gets the benefit of the improvements.

His only problem is to decide whether it is more economical for him to pay extra for a home with such improvements or to put the improvements in a house that doesn't have them.

Window For Accent

To give a room real character, you might have a tall, narrow window designed so that it fits right alongside the fireplace. You can frame this window in a wood like west coast hemlock and try and retain the natural color of the wood.

Back Yard Free

Putting the garage at the front of your lot as part of the house structure makes good sense because it leaves the back yard free for garden or recreational area.

Laminated Edges Chip Quite Easily

Plastic laminate, widely used for table and counter tops as well as for wall installations, must be handled carefully by the do-it-yourselfer to prevent edge chipping.

No matter what type of saw is used, is should have fine teeth and be very sharp. For circular power saws, use an 8-point, 10-inch hollow ground blade for occasional cuts. But when working on a large project, use a special carbide-tipped blade with teeth extending beyond the body of the saw. Bandsawing can be done with a standard blade with four to seven teeth per inch, 20 gauge thickness.

Plastic laminate can be bonded with a good quality wood glue, but clamps must be used to keep the surfaces together the amount of time recommended on the label of the glue container. Where clamps are not available or where time is important, contact cement will do a good job. However, it holds tightly on contact, which makes it extremely important that the two surfaces be placed together evenly on the first try.

When drilling in plastic laminate, drill through the decorative side, as some chipping can be expected where the bit comes out. Start the drill in a tiny indentation made by a nail point or awl.

Prime Aluminum

To be painted successfully, aluminum should be given a prime coat of zinc chromate. Be sure the primer has thoroughly dried before applying the paint.

First Cabinet For Showers Built In '22

The first modern prefabricated sectional type of shower cabinet was designed and built in 1922. Prior to this time, shower cabinets were heavy copper walled affairs with soldered seams. They were difficult to install because they were shipped in one piece as a complete cabinet.

Since 1922, all manufacturers of shower cabinets have built sectional uits which offer the advantages of easier shipping and easier installation.

Watertight precast receptors and leakproof corner joints make the modern shower a simple and low-cost bathing facility.

The positioin of the showerhead and the control valves is an important factor contributing to the enjoyment of the shower.

Plumbing contractors have found that the head and the control valves should never be placed on the back wall of the cabinet. In this position it is necessary to reach through the stream of water to adjust the water temperature and flow control.

The valve should always be on either side wall near the front within easy reach of the bather from the outside of the cabinet. The shower head should be directly over the valves, deflected to the back wall of the shower.

This arrangement provides convenient and easy control of both temperature and volume and eliminates any accidental splashing of water outside the shower cabinet.

Marble Care Is Easy If Tips Followed

CHICAGO (UPI) — Marble is a classic material used in the home to enhance floors, walls, occasional and coffee tables, window ledges and fireplaces.

Like any other luxury item it must be cared for properly or it will lose its appeal.

The general care of marble consists of wiping occasionally with a cloth diped in lukewarm water and, twice a year, a thorough cleaning with a mild detergent to prevent dulling, he said.

RING STAINS

Stains and rings from glasses containing alcohol and fruit juices can be easily remedied by applying a small amount of hydrogen peroxide and ammonia or amyl acetate and acetone to the stain, rinsing with clear water, and wiping with a dry cloth.

If the table is scratched, lightly sand the top and repolish by hand, using putty powder on a damp cloth. Care is recommended in waxing white marble because it will turn yellow. A colorless light paste wax is ideal for darker shades of marble.

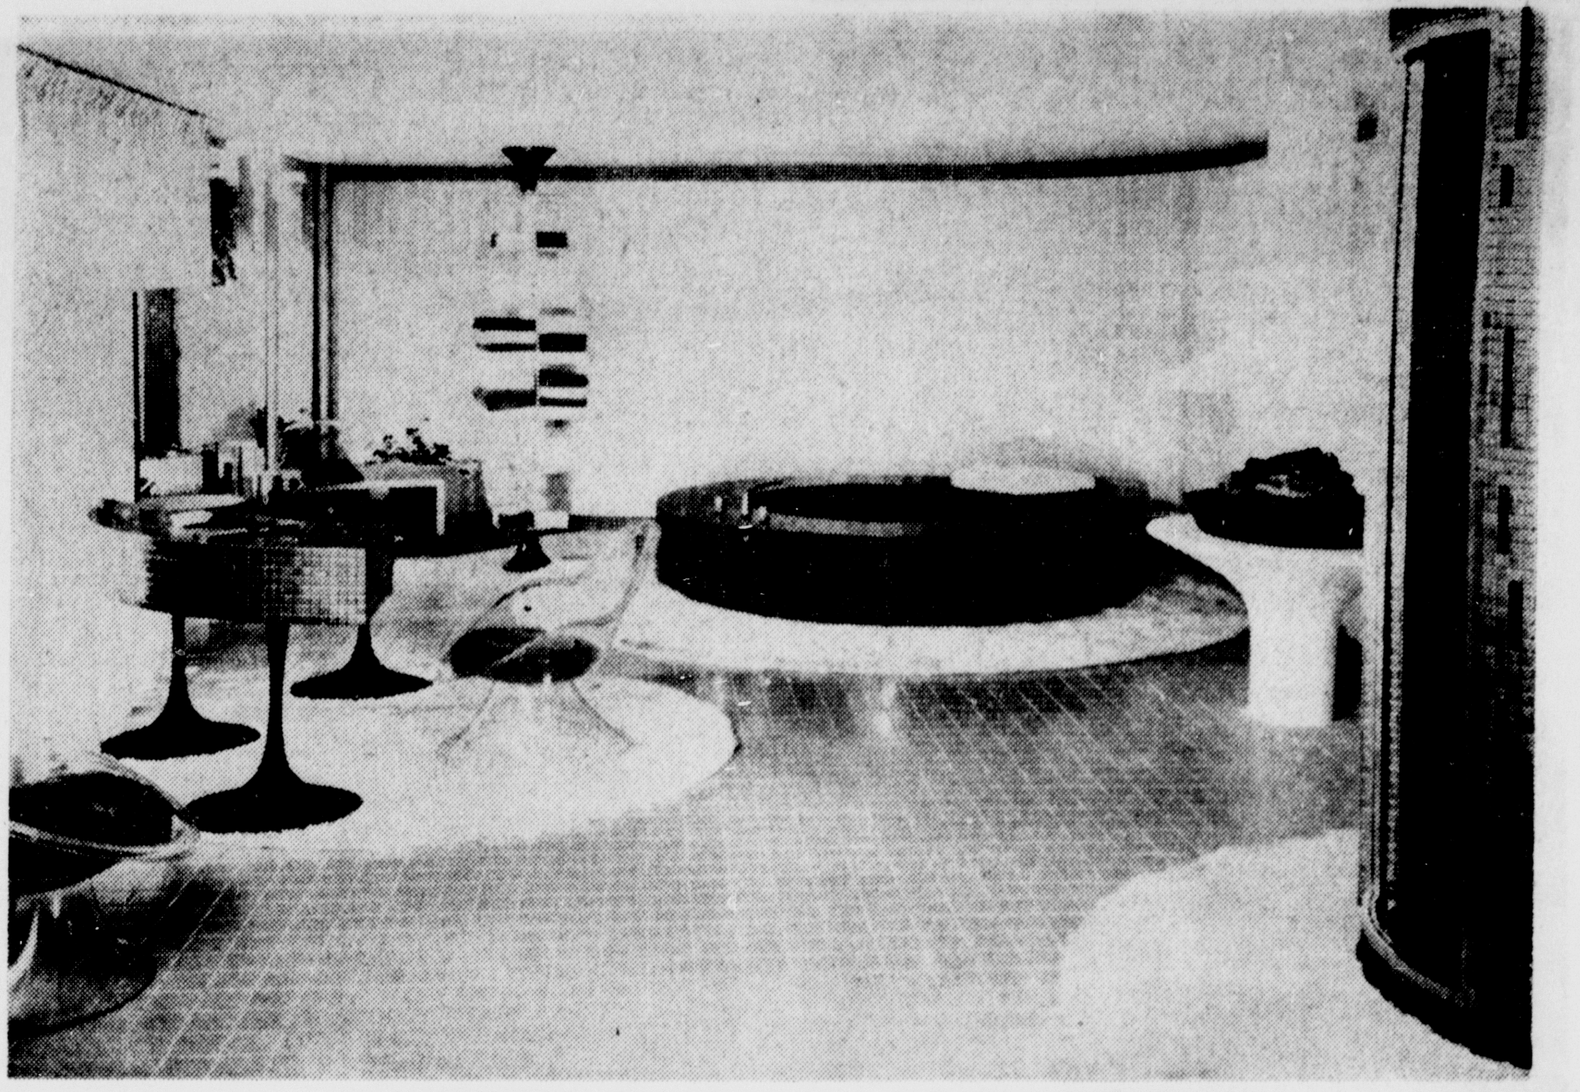
OTHER WAYS

To remove organic stains made by coffee, tea, and soft drinks, which all contain citric acid, or discoloration marks caused by flowers, paper, or textiles, it is best to use a poultice. It can be made at home from white paper napkins, facial tissues, or blotting paper.

For organic stains, soak the poultice in a solution of hydrogen peroxide about hair bleaching strength, and add a few drops of ammonia. Apply it to the stain and allow to set until the discoloration is out. This may take from one to 48 hours.

So that the poultice will not evaporate and lose its strength, cover it with glass or plastic. When the stain is gone, polish with putty powder to bring back the luster.

In doing concrete work, use a wooden float to get a rough surface, a trowel to get a smooth surface.



LUXURY BATH IN FREE FORM

Generous use of ceramic tile characterizes this bath area designed by architect Robert A. Little. Red and gold mosaic tile were used in the free-standing vanity at the left, round bathtub in the center and circular shower at the left, blending with gray tiles on walls and floor. Notice the free-standing fireplace behind the shower. Glass door at left leads to a walled-in garden.

Plastics Take Strength Test

Plastics recently went through a test of strength to show it is ready for the most-abused houseware market — the trash can. A manufacturer filled a plastics trash can with sand, lowered its temperature to minus 12 degrees, and dropped it 100 feet from a helicopter to a runway without damage to the can. The can should prove a real challenge to garbage men.

Washable Wallpaper

More than 95 per cent of modern wallcoverings have washable surfaces, and are generally made of cloth, foil, plastic or specially treated paper. Many are backed with release-type adhesives and pre-trimmed for easier cutting and fitting.

Homebuilding Costs May Decline In Next Decade

With the cost of living spiraling upward, it may seem unlikely that prices of homes will ever take a downturn. However, with many revolutionary new building materials and techniques being developed today, it is evident that homes of the future not only will cost less but also will offer many new and practical luxuries and conveniences to make living easier.

COSTS DOWN?

A survey among leading builders, architects and manufacturers of building materials throughout the country shows that homes built in the 1970s may cost as much as 25 per cent less than today's homes.

One of the most significant economies will come in the form of "pre-assembled rooms." Complete rooms fully equipped with floor and wall coverings and all the trimmings — will be available in a wide range of sizes and shapes with many door and window combinations so they can be put together to form a home just as a child fits together the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle.

Another innovation in the offing is plastic houses. A special liquid plastic is being developed which can be sprayed over a steel mesh frame pre-assembled in almost any shape desired. The plastic will form a streamlined, sturdy exterior shell that never requires painting.

FLEXIBILITY DUE

Inside the house, flexibility in room design will be built-in through new materials and methods as well as some current-day furnishings. Removable wallpaper will permit instant redecorating. Powerful battery-operated light fixtures will permit their relocation without need for electrical outlets. Portable area dividers such as today's grillework room dividers will continue to be used extensively to permit flexibility in interior arrangements. This grillework also will be used to form entire interior walls that permit a ready flow of light, air and heat, yet are easily movable through tension clips that secure the walls in a variety of locations.

In kitchens, new appliances are in research stages today that will permit push-button meal preparation, from peeling potatoes to serving the meal.

Many functions also will be performed by voice control. Vocal commands will turn on and adjust lights, water taps, radios, television and stereo sets, open and close doors and windows.

Hints Help Do-It-Yourselfers To Use Old-Fashion Tools

Power tools have made it easier for home handymen to turn out good work faster than professionals could do it years ago. Yet anyone who handles repairs or construction projects around the house can testify that it's impossible to get by wtihout a supply of hand tools. Oddly enough, many of the newer crop of household fixers are far more expert at using their power machine than they are at wielding hammers, screwdrivers and pliers. Here are five tips about each of the most common hand tools:

HAMMER

1. Always hold the hammer handle near the end; never choke it.

2. For light blows, use only a wrist action. For medium blows, use the wrist and forearm. For heavy blows, use an arm and shoulder action with very slight wrist movement.

3. To prevent injury and get the nail started properly, always begin with light taps.

4. Lessen the force of the blows as the head of the nail nears the work surface.

5. If a nail begins to bend slightly, strike the head at a slight angle in the direction opposite to that of the bend. If this doesn't work, remove the nail and start a new one.

SCREWDRIVER

1. Always use the longest screwdriver that is practical.

2. Be sure the blade tip fits the screwhead properly. If it's too wide, it will mar the work. If it's too narrow, it will chew up the screwhead.

3. Hold the handle firmly in the palm of the right hand (if right-handed), using the left hand to steady the blade.

5 An apparently useless screwdriver can be given new life by squaring off the blade tip on an emery wheel or with a file.

HAND SAW

1 For crosscutting, hold the saw at an angle of about 45 degrees. For ripsawing, make it 60 degrees.

2 Start the saw cut by drawing the saw backward, holding the blade square to the stock.

3 Always saw along the waste side of the drawn on scribed line, allowing for the width of the blade to make up the difference.

4 If the saw leaves the line, twist the handle very slightly to bring it back.

5. Hold the waste end of the stock to prevent splintering on the finishing strokes.

WRENCH

1. The most popular types of wrenches are the monkey, with parallel jaws; the Stillson, with teeth; the crescent, with an adjustable open end; and the non-adjustable open end.

2. A wrench that is not fitted tightly around a nut will round the corners of the nut and hamper its later removal.

3. In tightening or loosening a pipe in a fitting, use two Stillson wrenches. One should hold the fitting while the other turns the pipe.

4. Press down on a wrench handle to avoid injury if it slips.

5. Penetrating oil will help to loosen a nut so that it can be turned more easily with a wrench.

WOOD CHISEL

1. A chisel should be treated as knife (which it is), slicing it through the wood with a minimum amount of effort.

2. Always cut away from yourself.

3. One hand should grasp the handle while the other guides the blade well back of the cutting edge.

4. Never keep a chisel in a drawer where it may come in contact with other metal.

5. If you want to dull the blade edge, use it for opening paint cans or scraping off paint or glue.

FILE

1. In selecting the proper files, remember the principle that file teeth are widely spaced for rough work and close together for fine work.

2. The vise in which the metal is being held should be about as high as your elbows.

3. Grasp the handle of the file with the right hand so that your thumb rests on top of the handle. Hold the point of the file in the left hand and push across the work with a level stroke and moderate pressure.

4. In straight filing, the usual kind, relieve the pressure on the file as you pull it back, since the cutting is done only on the forward stroke.

PLIERS

1. The common household pliers are not made for turning nuts and bolts unless you want to ruin them.

2. Hold the top handle in the palm of the hand well up against the heel of the thumb. The index finger, middle finger and ring finger should be wrapper around the lower handle.

3. By keeping the little finger slightly on the inside of the lower handle, you can reopen the pliers easily.

Oak Flooring Tough, But Needs Care For Long Use

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oak is a strong, tough wood that resists dents and scratches that quickly mar less durable flooring materials.

Modern floor finishing methods and materials also contribute to wear resistance.

A national flooring advisor offers these tips in caring for oak floors:

— Keep the floors waxed. Regular waxing provides a protective coating that prevents stain-causing agents from seeping down into the wood and penetrating the fibers. Two thin coats, well buffed, are preferable to a thick coat of wax.

—Avoid using water to clean the floors. It sometimes causes stains that may be quite difficult to remove. A damp rag may be useful in wiping up spilled food, but the floor should then be wiped dry. For thorough cleaning use one of the waterless floor cleaners available.

—Vacuum or dry-mop your oak floors regularly to remove surface dust and dirt before it gets "walked into" the wax and dulls its luster.

—Several times a year, depending on the amount of traffic your floors receive, apply a good coat of wax (paste or liquid) and buff it well. Do not use the so-called "self-polishing" liquid waxes which have a water base.

—Once or twice a year, use a cleaner to remove the wax "build-up" on the floor and then apply new wax. Some liquid waxes contain cleansing agents, so that the two operations may be combined.

Stains are the most common type of damage to oak floors. most stains can be prevented or minimized by keeping the floors well waxed and by wiping up any spilled liquid immediately.

Preliminary tests should be made on removing stains, starting at the outer edge and working toward the middle to prevent it from spreading.

—Dried milk or food stains: Rub the spot with a damp cloth. Rub dry and re-wax.

—Stains caused by standing water: Rub the spot with No. 00 steel wool and re-wax. If this fails, sand lightly with fine sandpaper. Clean the spot and the surrounding area with No. 1 steel wool and mineral spirits or a similar floor cleaner. Let the floor dry. Apply a matching floor finish, feathering it out into a surrounding area. Wax after the finish dries thoroughly.

—Dark spots: Clean the spot and surrounding area with No. 1 steel wool and a good floor cleaner or mineral spirits. If the spot remains, sand with fine sandpaper, feathering out 3-4 inches into the surrounding area. Re-wax and polish.

—Heel marks, caster marks, etc.: Rub vigorously with fine steel wool and good floor cleaner. Wipe dry and polish.

—Animal and diaper stains: Spots that are not too old may sometimes be removed using the same methods as other dark spots. If spots resist cleaning efforts the affected flooring can be replaced.

—Mold: Mold or mildew is a surface condition caused by damp, stagnant air. Ventilate the room properly and remove the mold with a good cleaning fluid.

—Oil and grease stains: Rub on a kitchen soap having a high lye content, or saturate cotton with hydrogen peroxide and place over stain. Saturate a second layer of cotton with ammonia and place over the first. Repeat until the stain is removed.

—Alcohol spot: Rub with liquid or paste wax, silver polish, linseed oil, or cloth barely dampened in ammonia. Re-wax affected area.

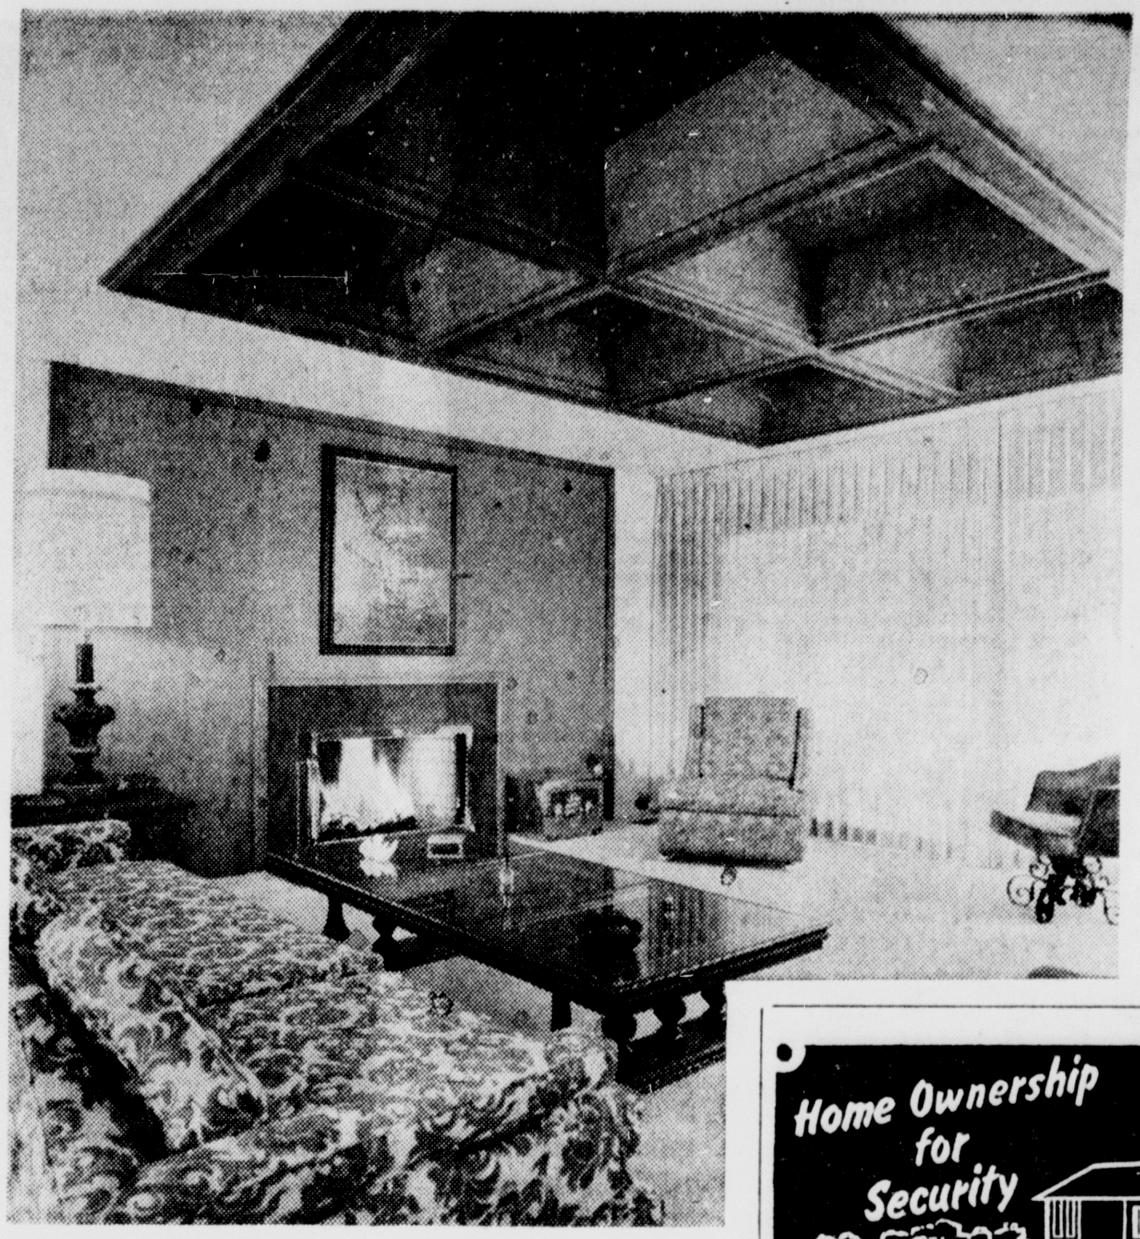
ARCHITECTURE DISTINCTIVE—Planners and architects Bushnell, Jessup, Murphy and Van de Wedhe designed Knoll townhouses to carry out a certain theme but without "look alike" monotony. The complex is located adjoining the Peacock Gap golf course. (Ken Molino photo).



ANOTHER LIVING ROOM — A different interior design is shown in this Knoll living area which features recessed wells in the ceiling and more conventional fireplace. Homes have two, three and four bedrooms with two to three baths.

Even Multiples Of Four Make New Room Simple

If your are considering building an addition to your home, you should consider planning your floor area in even multiples of four with a ceiling height of eight feet. Panels of insulating sheathing and gypsum board, important materials used in wall construction, come in four-by-eight-foot sizes and go up quicker when they can be nailed to studs without fitting or sawing.

Wire Cage Provides Drop Light Safety

When you work with a portable light on an extension cord, be sure to keep the hot bulb away from anything combustible — such as paper or a thin curtain. A wire cage for the bulb, available at any hardware store, is a wise safety precaution.

Wallpaper And Plastic Still First Choices For Finishes

CHICAGO (UPI)—If you plan to decorate or remodel the rooms in your house, these pointers on wall finishes may help.

Clara Dodson, University of Illinois extension home furnishings specialist, said plaster and wallpaper, the long-time favorite wall finishes, still are the most common choices.

But wood paneling, brick and stone may also be used. Any one of these finishes will be an asset if it complements your decorating scheme.

PLASTER PAINTED

Plaster can be painted to give a plain-color background, or it can be papered to bring design into the room.

One disadvantage of plaster is that it tends to crack. If a wall is in such bad condition that painting won't conceal the cracks, and a solid color is desired, consider using solid-color wallpaper. The effect is the same as paint, and since the newer wallpapers come with heavy backing, they conceal fine cracks in the wall.

Wood paneling is expensive to install, but it has a low upkeep cost. It is a good insulator and ages well.

Mrs. Dodson offers these suggestions to help select wall finishes:

HERE'S HOW

1. Tailor the finish to the use of the room. For example, in a bathroom or kitchen you will probably want a finish that will stand up under steam. If you have plastered walls in the kitchen, you will want a washable finish. You may want a softer color in a bedroom than in the living area, and something gayer in the dining area than in the living area.

2. Sometimes you can make the space seem larger by finishing all rooms in the same color. This gives the effect of one room "flowing" into the other.

3. Harmonize the wall finish with the furnishings and personality of the room. For example, if you have a decorative carpet, you will probably want a plain wall to bring out the beauty of the carpet. If you have many accessories or pictures, a plain wall will show them off better than a patterned wall. But if you have a room with few furnishings, a patterned wall will give a cozy atmosphere. And, in an old house, a patterned wall tends to disguise poor plaster and architectural changes.

4. To make sure the wall color will harmonize with your room furnishings, take samples of carpet with you when you shop. It's important to remember that colors look different in large areas than in small samples. This is particularly true of paint chips.

5. Consider wall color in relation to the light in rooms—both natural and artificial. Try out wallpaper or paint samples in your home in daylight and artificial light to see whether the colors are satisfactory under both conditions.

6. Let each member of the family have a voice in choosing wall finishes. Since walls represent the largest area in a room, all family members will be affected by the choice.

Open Fence Cool

Where flow of breezes is needed to keep a yard cool, then think in terms of a fence with open slats in it. Still enough of a barrier to stop dogs and animals. Western red cedar is the ideal fence wood and it is low cost.

Angle For Character

If you want to give a distinctive character to your wood deck, you might consider having the banister posts set on an angle away from the deck floor. You can use ordinary dimension lumber such as fir for both deck framing, floor and railing.

BACK IN 3,000 B.C.

Asphalt Known To Egyptians More Than 5,000 Years Ago

Does sight of an asphalt shingle roof conjure up thoughts of Moses, the Pharaohs or Queen Elizabeth?

Probably not. But it could.

As early as 3000 B.C. the preservative and cementing qualities of asphalt—now used in shingle form to provide durable, weather-resistant roofing—were widely known. Ancient builders used it in constructing the Tower of Babel. An Egyptian Pharaoh, Nabpolassar, had asphalt pavement laid on the palace grounds. And, when the baby Moses was hidden among the bullrushes, the reed basket in which he was bundled was securely caulked with a mixture of asphalt and clay.

Probably the most dramatic evidence of asphalt's preservative value is that it was used to saturate the linen shrouds in which Egyptians wrapped and buried their dead. It was even used in building the pyramids, which have survived the onslaught of wind and sand for centuries.

Despite recorded instances of the early use of asphalt, it remained comparatively unknown in Europe until the 16th Century, when Sir Walter Raleigh sailed to Trinidad in search of gold. He found instead pits of asphalt which he used to caulk the seams of his ship.

It worked so well that he brought samples of it home to England and reported to Queen Elizabeth that it was "most excellente goode and melteth not in the sun." The Queen, whose interest was not in leaky seams or roofs, complained she could not fill the coffers with asphalt, and ordered Sir Walter to the Tower of London.

In modern roofing, asphalt is valued for its preservative and waterproofing characteristics. An asphalt saturant is used to impregnate a highly absorbent felt base, and is in turn sealed with a harder, more viscous "coating asphalt." The shingles are further protected by opaque mineral granules. Self-sealing wind-resistant asphalt shingles have a factory-applied adhesive which, when exposed to the sun's heat, bonds each shingle to the one underneath.

CONSTRUCTION TALE 5,000 YEARS OLD—Building the pyramids in ancient Egypt was hard work, but the structures have withstood centuries of wear and weather.

Re-Glazing Tip

When dried putty on a window sash that needs new glass becomes difficult to remove by scraping, a hot soldering iron or gun held against the putty will soften it quickly.

Think Ahead For Plumbing Economy

When building a house that you plan to expand at some later time, you can save money by having the plumber install the necessary pipes at the start rather than pay expensive installation costs later or when a lot of tearing-down will have to be done.

Useful Thrift

Those little plastic caps on lighter-fluid cans and other containers can be used in the home workshop. They serve as excellent shields for awls and other pointed tools.

Survey Indicates One Mistake In Each Home

A recent survey shows that women know comparatively little about the hallmarks of long-lasting furniture.

In almost every home in America there is at least one expensive mistake — an upholstered item that would never have been purchased if real furniture facts were known.

Take upholstered chairs, for example. There are six facts about an upholstered chair that should be checked before its purchase. The six points that should be checked concern the frame, fabric, comfort, construction, filling materials and cushioning.

A high quality chair frame is vital. The wood used in the construction should be hard wood such as ash, hard maple, oak or birch. Such woods as pecan, hickory and gumwood take a wonderful finish, but have a tendency to split.

Where parts are joined, the joining should be done with what furniture manufacturers call mortise and tenon joints. That is, one part fits into the other. These joints should be reinforced with securely attached cornerblocks. Good furniture is never held together with nails. Be sure screws and bolts are used in addition to glue.

Although the fabric covering of a chair is easier to see, some fibers have hidden assets just as some have hidden defects. Neither is easy to evaluate just by looking.

If stripes or a pattern are not perfectly matched, you will know that the manufacturer is skimping on yardage and that he probably took other construction shortcuts, too.

Manufacturers who make upholstery fabric with fibers made under a quality control program must agree to let their materials undergo stringent tests by independent laboratories to determine how long the fabric will wear, whether it will hold its shape without sagging or streching and whether it is safe from sun-fading and from the color loss from ordinary exposure to air over a period of time. Fabrics are scientifically pretested.

Comfort is easier for a shopper to determine. The best test for comfort in a chair is to sit in it. If it isn't comfortable in the store, it won't become more so at home.

It's important to know how many springs the seat has. The minimum number of springs for comfort and long wear is six. However, as many as 12 are sometimes used in a chair seat, and the closer to that number, the better the chair.

Although state laws demand the filling materials used in a chair be designated by a colored label, not everyone knows what these labels mean. A white label means the filling material is new. Yellow means it is reused or processed.

In traditional furniture, foam rubber is used in combination with feathers or down. In modern, it is used alone. In some furniture, a less expensive foam material is used — and sometimes it is less resilient than foam.

Be sure all of your questions are answered fully. Many salespeople do not have all this information, because it is seldom asked for. Any information they lack can be had from the manufacturer, and knowing these things saves money and disappointment.

Plaster Patching

In patching plaster, stucco or similar materials, the patch will hold better if the crack or other opening is made into the shape of an inverted V—so that the crack is wider at the top than at the bottom. This can be done effectively by running a beer-can opener along the crack.

LOW MAINTENANCE EXTERIOR

The aluminum siding industry is celebrating its 20th anniversary this month with promotional offers in exterior remodeling. Among aluminum products used in this Cape Cod style home are siding, gutters and downspouts, shutters and fascia. All window frames were covered with pre-finished aluminum and aluminum combination windows with screening of the same material are to be installed.

DESIGN FOR STEEP HILLSIDE

A wood deck with metal handrails bridges the slope at the uphill side of the Eduard Strauss home in Mill Valley designed by architect Martin Stuart. The site is heavily wooded and has a major view overlooking Mount Tamalpais. Exterior siding is vertical batts over redwood, with stucco under the overhangs and tar and gravel roofing. A detached carport is connected to the residence with a wood deck.

New Homes Erase Line Of Outdoors

If there's any distinction that has become blurred in the past few years it's that between indoor and outdoor living. Modern architecture has literally thrown open the windows and doors of man's castles and let the sunlight in—along with bubbling water fountains, trees and other objects formerly found only in the great outdoors.

Large windows and sliding glass doors are expected in the design of new homes. The latest indoor-outdoor design feature, which is just beginning to catch on, is the atrium, a roofless center court or garden surrounded by the rooms of the home. On a smaller scale, items like rattan furniture, now more streamline and handsome than previously, have left the front porch and patio and moved indoors.

The exchange hasn't been all one way, however. Indoor furniture, furnishings and products have moved outside to some extent. Ceramic tile used to be found mostly in bathrooms and kitchens but now is used as a patio surfacing material. Since it is available in more than 250 colors and is weatherproof, it is also contributing to the rise in outdoor art.

Many appliances long ago made the switch to outdoor living when they lost their dependency on electrical cords.

New V-Name Plastics Boon To Homeowners

NEW YORK (UPI)—"V" is for victory in the battle against household drudgery.

It is the first letter of some space age plastics that are revolutionizing American home life.

One of the most widely used is vinyl, which is best known as a flooring. No need to wax its tile, says the nation's leading manufacturer. (You don't have to un-wax it, either). Result—easy maintenance.

No need to wax, sand, putty or paint, either, the new vinyl wall surfacing materials. As with the floors, wash them lightly with soap and water.

Tired of the old color? Rip off the wall covering and replace with new, bright colors. Amost as easy as painting, often as easy on the pocketbook.

Vinyl also serves on countertops—no joints or grout lines to crack, flake or smudge—smooth, textured or sculptured surfaces that don't pit, peel or stain from common household acids. You can put it right on over many old materials, save major remodeling expenses.

Decorative vinyls also serve as the surface of electrical ceiling heating panels that eliminate unsightly furnaces, registers and ducts. A grid of electric heating wires is imbedded in the vinyl sandwich, forming the ceiling panel. The panels can be used in conjunction with, or in place of, other ceiling materials. With them you have no smoke, no soot, in your home.

Vinyl serves in many other ways, such as a moisture vapor barrier on building insulation, furniture slip covers, dinette upholstery, shower and window curtains, air mattresses for camping, children's toys and even as thin, plastic films to wrap meats and vegetables.

Another many-faceted polyester plastic is Vitel (trademark of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.), which is made into tire cord to strengthen auto tires, but also is used in the basic fabric of many wash and wear fabrics, including drapes and curtains. It's just spun differently, to go from rotating tires to spinning wheels in the fabric mills.

Videne (also a Goodyear trademark), is a plastic material bonded to hardboard which makes panels and wall surfaces.

The vinyl business is basically a post-World War II success story. In the early years following the war, plastics in their developmental stages were met with considerable skepticism.

Now, however, they follow American life from the cradle to ghe grave—from baby pants to cemetery ground coverings and canopies. They go with astronauts into space, and with scientists to the depths of the sea. More ways are being discovered daily to press them to man's load-lightening service.

Figuring Paint

It is difficult to estimate how much paint will be needed for doing the woodwork in a room or house. A fairly rough estimate can be made by measuring the running feet of the woodwork and allowing one pint of paint for every hundred feet.

Garbage Disposal Machine Helps Solve Old Problem

Getting rid of garbage is always an unpleasant business. You have your choice of keeping a garbage can (or cans) in the house, probably in the basement or utility room, or of going outside to dump the unwholesome mess.

About 8 million American homemakers have their own answer to this chronic problem. It's an automatic food waste disposer. This little appliance is installed beneath the kitchen sink, connected to the drain pipe. The waste is fed into it through the drain, the cold water is turned on, an electric switch on the wall is flicked, and down the drain goes the waste into the appliance below, where electrically powered blades shred the waste into a pulp before it's washed away.

The disposer can handle virtually all types of food, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, including parings, scrapings, bones, rinds, vegetable tops, corn cobs and pea pods. There's no clogging of drains, as some women fear.

Most Homes Have Faulty Electricity

When you're making a loan to have some remodeling done (or even if you're paying cash), you might as well include electrical work in your program. Not just the installation of wiring for an additional area, but a rejuvenation of your entire electrical system. Most older homes are inadequately wired to take care of the many extra appliances which were not in common use when the houses were built.

A sure sign of a possible overload in your present electrical system is when fuses blow regularly or when lights go dim when appliances are turned on. Fuses and circuit breakers are the safety valves in the circuit. When they fail to operate, it's usually because of a short circuit or, the more common reason, because the circuit is overloaded.

You should know where the fuses or circuit breakers are, what parts of the house they control and how to replace or reset them. If you don't know, a good time to find out is when the electrical contractor is bringing your wiring system up to date. You then can make a small diagram of what's what and paste it on the inside of the fuse box door. An important point: never replace a fuse with one of a higher ampere rating. If you do, you have destroyed the entire safety value of the fuse.

Notify Lender

If your property is seriously damaged by fire, windstorm or any other cause that you are insured against, it is important for you to notify your mortgage lender in writing, as provided in most mortgage agreements.

Children Often Don't Like Cute Furniture Designs

While irresistible to parents and doting relatives, many of the designs in children's furniture and accessories do not appeal to the youngsters themselves. A survey among first graders showed that bright or deep colors, rather than the typical pastel shades, are most appealing to the small fry. And many of today's youngsters scorn traditional nursery designs.

Children outgrow these designs so fast that it's more economical to shop for items that can "grow" along with the child and his interests.

When it comes to buying headboards, bureaus and other basic items to be used indefinitely, stay away from the ones with representational motifs. Bedspreads, curtains and other accessories add sufficient color and can be changed inexpensively from time to time. Even in shopping for a child's lamp, it's wise to select a simple design that you can decorate and alter with your child's expanding interests.

Instead of buying a lamp with a Mother Goose design, for example, pick a simple unadorned base with a white shade that can be trimmed with fabric motifs such as a calico cat.

It's a snap to make this with a bit of fabric, scraps of wool and a roll of cellophane tape.

Make a pattern of the calico cat before cutting the fabric. Then put the fabric cut-outs on the shade so that the tails crisscross and fasten with the invisible tape. It's important to use this tape because it will keep the edges of the fabric from fraying and, since the tape is permanent, I will not turn yellow or come unstuck. Be sure to tape all the edges securely. Then take three pieces of black wool and tape them to the cat's face for whiskers. Ink in large dots for eyes. That's all there is to it.

You needn't be limited to this calico cat design. It's just one suggestion. A boy might prefer other animals or car, train or tin soldier shades.

Storage Helps Garden Seeds

Store grass seed and other garden materials in covered galvanized steel refuse containers instead of leaving them in boxes or bags which are easily damaged. The close - fitting covers and durable zinc finish of metal cans protect the contents from attack by moisture, insects or rodents.

Corrosion Big Enemy Of Homes

Rusty fences, gutters, downspouts, lamp posts, and other outdoor metal fixtures can do as much to downgrade the appearance and resale value of a home as practically anything you can name.

In addition to creating eyesores, corrosion also eats away at the steel or iron until it rusts through. When that happens, a minor maintenance expense can become a major replacement expense.

For these reasons, it always pays a homeowner to take special pains to protect such household fixtures against normal corrosion conditions, encountered even in arid desert climates.

The best way to provide this protection, engineers agree, is to coat the metal with zinc after the product has been fabricated.

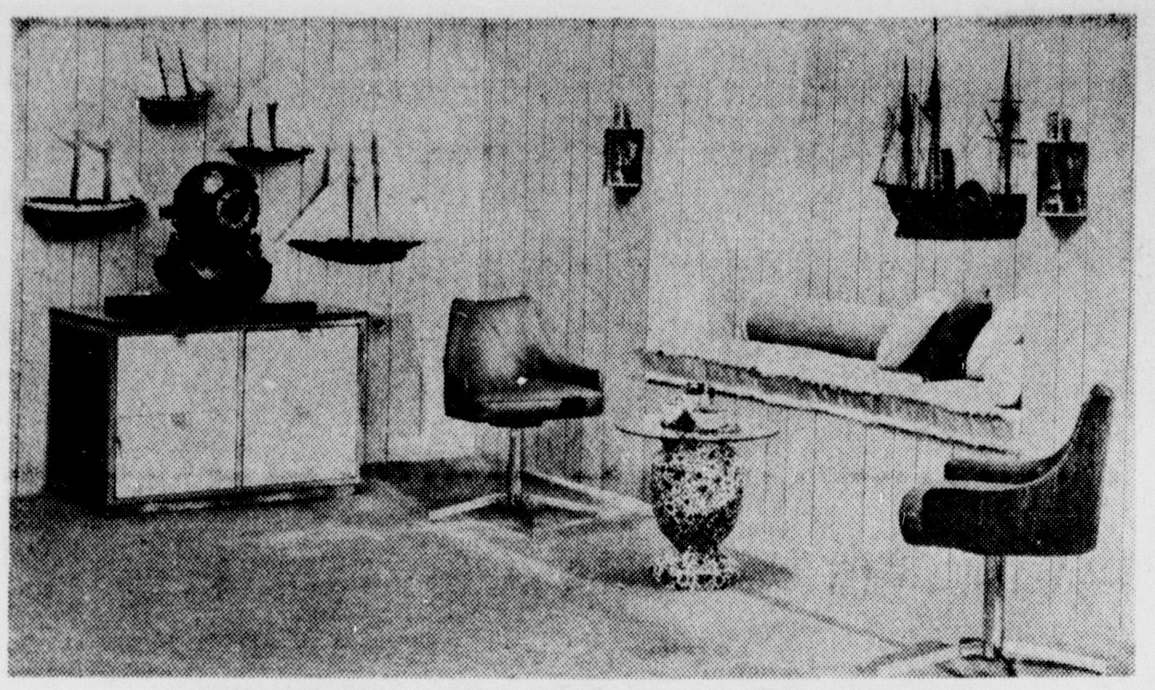
This 200 - year - old process, called hot dip galvanizing, is 'way out of the do-it-yourselfer's league. It must be done during the manufacture of the product. Therefore, it's up to the homeowner to see that the metal products he buys have been hot dip galvanized.

Depending upon where you live, the zinc coating will protect your outdoor fixtures against rust for up to 50 years.

Thus, a chain link fence around a farm yard could be expected to last a half-century with a coating of zinc only .0034 of an inch thick. The same fence would last up to 25 years in an urban area without rusting. Even in a highly industrial area, the fence would last up to 15 years.

This high degree of corrosion protection is achieved with no further finishing, such as painting. Galvanized metal can be painted, however, to match the trim on the house or to create a more decorative effect. This is why some galvanized products are painted by the manufacturer.

If you decide to paint a galvanized fence or rain gutters or ornamental railings yourself, ask your paint dealer for advice on what material to use. There are many suitable commercial products on the market for this purpose.



DESIGNED FOR BOAT ENTHUSIAST

A nautical theme is carried out in this unusual setting with a "seagoing" bunk built into a niche in the wall. Paneling is wood-grained finished hardboard that looks sea-bleached and is scored for a random plank effect.

All-Plastic Home Not So Far Off

The all-plastics home is moving closer to reality as more builders turn to plastics as a construction material. The all-plastics home will offer such household treats as maintenance-free siding, resilient floors, rot-proof shutters, leakproof gutters and prefabrication processes in which a whole room can be put in place at a time.

Broken Light Bulb Easy To Remove

To remove stub of a light bulb, which has broken off while in the socket, press a cake of soap over the broken ends. This will give a safe grip for turning the light bulb out. A large cork can also be used in the same manner.

Flagstone Sealer

The same kind of penetrating sealer used on wooden floors can be applied to flagstones to give them new life. Be sure all dirt and grime are removed before putting on the sealer. Use three coats, applying with a brush and wiping off all excess with a clean cloth after a wait of 10 minutes after each coat.

In homes with children, a spacious, sturdy playground set is almost a must. It helps give the youngsters healthful exercise and at the same time keeps them at home.

Dampen Concrete

A new concrete walk will "cure" properly only if it is kept moist for a week or 10 days. Considerable strength is lost if the concrete dries out too quickly.
